Sir Esme's Faux Pas.
MacDonald Reads Hazlitt.
Some Flying.
J. P. Morgan Groceries.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

SIR ESME HOWARD may have "got in right" when he promised to make the British embassy dry. But he got in very wrong on Thursday, when he consulted privately with Senator Borah about reduction of the navy, freedom of the seas and closer relations between this country and Great Britain.

SENATOR BORAH is head of the Senate Committee on Foreign Affairs, and free to talk to anybody.

But Sir Esme is accredited ambassador, not to Senator Borah, but to Herbert Hoover, and the United States government.

FOREIGN ambassadors, if they have anything to say, are supposed to say it to the State Department, or the President.

The Esme Howard-Borah talk recalls the incident of Citizen Genet.

RAMSAY MACDONALD, flying from Scotland to London in a British bombing plane, a parachute strapped over his leather flying coat, read Hazlitt on the way.

HAZLITT, who worked himself into a fury over the French revolution, quarreling with everybody that did not approve it, little thought that within 100 years of his death, a Socialist Laborite would be prime minister of England, without any revolution.

Still less did Hazlitt imagine that a British Labor prime minister would fly to his work.

MAX D. STEUER, brilliant New York lawyer, says the best cure for any man that fears death is Hazlitt's essay on death. Briefly, Hazlitt says that since we don't worry because we were not alive 100 years ago, we should not worry because we won't be alive or conscious 100 years hence.

THE first time Ramsay MacDonald became prime minister to England, representing the Labor party, he met the most serious and disastrous strikes in Britain's history.

Now he comes to office a second time, and British cotton mill owners announce reductions in wages affecting 200,000 spinners.

RAMON FRANCO, with three companions, started from Spain yesterday morning, hoping to reach the Azores at 2:30 a. m. today. From the Azores he comes here to fly back from Halifax to Northern Spain.

Ten days will be devoted to the ocean round trip, including a visit to Washington.

"BABE" MEIGS, of Chicago, so-called because he is six and one-half feet high, flew from Chicago to New York and, yesterday at the Ritz Carlton, told Henry Ford, sitting at the next table, that his Ford's airplane, that Meigs bought a year ago, is as good as any made.

MR. FORD was pleased, but was more interested in getting from Meigs, for the Ford museum, the engine of an old steam threshing machine that Meigs used to drive when he was 13 years old on his father's farm.

MR. FORD looked remarkably well and resisted only feebly when Theodore, the Ritz Carlton boss, insisted on feeding him fancy breast of chicken, made abnormally white by something smeared over it.

J. PIERPONT MORGAN, hereditary engineer of big mergers, has put together, in a little $430,000,000 concern, several important food producing companies. Other companies may join the merger, creating an interesting situation for chain stores.

AT PRESENT special brands are somewhat at the mercy of chain store owners, who tell manufacturers what to produce, what to charge, what profit they may have.

A big enough food combine might be able to tell chain stores what they must do.

THE humble cow is in a milk combine, the spreading chestnut tree and blacksmith shop have been changed to a small garage. The blacksmith is working for "big steel" established by J. Pierpont Morgan's father. Now the corner grocery becomes one bullet in a rapid-fire food machine.

MAY BE OVER OCEAN ON FLIGHT TO U. S.

Reported at Azores, but Fail To Land; Weather Said to Be Right for Non-Stop Trip

HORTA, ISLAND OF FAYAL, The Azores, June 22.—(AP.)—Although reports were in circulation that the Spanish trans-Atlantic plane of Maj. Ramon Franco passed the island of San Miguel this morning, no official news of the plane had been received here this afternoon.

There was a possibility that the airmen might have decided to continue directly to New York after passing San Miguel in view of the perfect weather conditions reported there. This was strengthened by a friend of Maj. Franco, who was quoted at Murcia as saying that if all went well Maj. Franco had a surprise for everybody and would be in New York by 8 a. m., Sunday morning.

REPORTS MYSTIFY

Lack of any official news of the Spanish airmen at Horta caused considerable complexity today inasmuch as disptaches from Lisbon and Madrid stated that the fliers had reached the Azores.

The first report came from Lisbon, having been sent there by the Portuguese warship, Vasca Da Gama, which picked it up presumably from Horta, while in

WOMAN KILLED IN LEAP

Leaping from a third-story window of her home at Rosedale, Penn Township, early today, according to a report to the coroner, Mrs. Elma Dillon, 37, suffered internal injuries which caused her death at the Columbia Hospital an hour and a half later.

Neighbors are said to have reported that the woman's husband, William Dillon, told them his wife acted strangely all day yesterday and that she was constantly mumbling something about her dead father. Mrs. Dillon had been in poor health for some time.

Dillon's version of how his wife came to leap from the window, as told to neighbors, was that she ran to the third floor while he was in the bathroom on the first floor. Finding her gone from their sleeping room, Dillon is reported to have told neighbors he went to the third floor and, looking out of the window, he saw his wife prostrate on the pavement. She had first fallen onto an awning on the first floor and then rolled off to the pavement.

Billie Burke Escapes Injury in Auto Crash

YONKERS, N. Y., June 22.—(AP.)—Billie Burke, well-known actress and wife of Florenze Ziegfeld, theatrical producer, was in an automobile crash here yesterday. Miss Burke was motoring to N w York City from her home at Hastings. Neither Miss Burke, her chauffeur, nor Emil Anderuer, of Union City, N. J., driver of the other machine, was injured.

Wales Plans Quiet Birthday Observance

LONDON, June 22.—(INS.)—The Prince of Wales will spend his thirty-fifth birthday tomorrow quietly, remaining the greater part of the day at his country home in Sunningdale. It is thought probable he will pay a brief visit to the King and Queen at Windsor Castle some time during the day.

Lilac Time Once But Now It's Plain Skunk

WESTON, W. Va., June 22.—A promotion stunt of "Lilac Time" was the wafting of lilac perfume through the movie houses.

Another picture showed here yesterday, but the olfactory motif was skunk.

PIRATES, CUBS FIGHT FOR LEAD

CHICAGO, June 22.—In first place by half a game as a result of their thrilling victory of yesterday, the Pirates today will take on the Cubs in the second game of the crucial series of four fights.

Remy Kremer and Fred Blake will fight it out on the mound this afternoon, according to the announcements of the opposing managers, Bush and McCarthy.

Burleigh Grimes recorded his eleventh victory of the season and his fourth success against the Cubs in the initial fracas. The game was a furious fight until the seventh, when George Grantham put it on the ice for the Pirates with a four-run homer in the right field bleachers. The final score was 14 to 3.

Aliquippa Man Given Life Term

BEAVER, Pa., June 22.—Entering a plea to first degree murder before Judge William A. McConnel, Amedio D'Amore, of Aliquippa, was sentenced to life imprisonment. D'Amore killed his brother, James, at Aliquippa last summer.

ELECTRIC CHAIR FOR POLICE

Every policeman in Pittsburgh is slated to go to the "electric chair" whether he believes in capital punishment or not. Lest this statement incite the city's minions of the law to mutiny, Dr. Daniel E. Sable, chief surgeon of the police and fire departments, its author, hastens to add that the chair is not one designed to prove harmful, but rather beneficial to their health.

The "electric chair" is the surgeon's latest addition to his equipment for keepng the cty's "buecoats" and fire-fighters fit. It is known as the combination vibratory chair. Electric current or 110 volts causes the entire chair to vibrate and when occupied agitates the occupant's body from head to foot.

According to Dr. Sable, the chair's vibratory action improves blood circulation, increases discharge of body elements, activates tired nerves, massages the entire body and, when applied to healthy tissues, relieves extreme fatigue. It also stimulates the heart and deeper respiration.

Dr. Sable pointed out that the chair provides the same type of exercise as golf, tennis, rowing, horseback riding and other sports.

The fact that many policemen and firemen have developed considerable avoirdupois has prompted Director of Public Safety James M. Clark to issue orders for a remedy of what he considers a distressing situation. Dr. Sable suggested acquisition of reducing vibrators. One was purchased and set up in Director Clark's office. He discovered that his own waistline had assumed wider proportions in the last few years. So, presto, he decided to try out the reducing apparatus. He says it works and now would like to install one in every police station. Dr. Sable predicts that the new reducing equipment will give every policeman and fireman a perfect waistline of 36 inches.

Dawes to Preside At July 4 Dinner

Flier, Up in Non-Stop Try, Sought by Police

LOS ANGELES, Cal., June 22.—(AP.)—A request from W. G. Walker, chief of police at Fresno, Cal., for the arrest, on a bad check charge, of Lee Schoenhair, trans-Continental non-stop flight record seeker, was received here this morning a few minutes after the aviator had taken off for New York.

A telegram from Chief Walker to the police here said that Schoenhair had been sought for 30 days. Informed that Schoenhair was on his way to New York, the police said they would forward the message to authorities there.

Walker later said he would not ask for extradition of the flier from New York, but would await his return to Los Angeles.

Schoenhair took off here at 3:41 a. m. in an attempt to break the trans-Continental non-stop record of 18 hours 21 minutes 59 seconds.

CRIPPLED GIRL TAKES POISON AT PARK

Identity of Victim Puzzles Authorities as She Hovers Close to Death in Hospital

An unidentified, crippled girl hovers between life and death in Braddock General Hospital today with memories of a tragic night amidst the gaiety of Kennywood Park.

Last night she slipped into a rest room at the park, away from happy picnickers, and swallowed poison, the police report. Her condition is reported as critical.

The only clue to the girl's identity is a photo of three nurses of the Pennsylvania State Hospital, of Allentown, Pa. It is believed she may have been a patient at that hospital.

One of the girl's legs is amputated above the knee and the other below the knee. She is between 17 and 20 years old, according to hospital attendants. She is described as attractive in appearance, with bobbed dark brown hair and eyes, 5 feet 6 inches tall, weight 128 pounds.

Mildred Vare Weds Ventnor Man July 27

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 22.—(AP.)—Senator-elect and Mrs. William S. Vare of Philadelphia announced today that their youngest daughter Mildred Vare and William Frederick Kipp, of Ventnor, will be married Saturday, July 27, at the Vare summer home here.

The Reverend John Edwin Hill, rector of All Saints Protestant Episcopal church, Philadelphia, will officiate. Only immediate members of the two families will witness the wedding, although 450 invitations are to be issued for a reception and dance that evening, it was said.

Report of Walska Legacy Held Absurd

NEW YORK, June 22.—(INS.) Reports from Paris that Mme. Ganna Walska would come into possession of $3,000,000 as a result of the death of Alexander Smith Cochran were characterized as absurd by a New York attorney who acted as counsel for Cochran at the time she obtained her divorce from the millionaire. The sum she will obtain under the divorce settlement is said to be nearer $300,000. Mme. Walska was married to Harold F. McCormick, of Chicago, soon after the divorce.

Jarvie, Coffee King, Dies Aboard Liner

NEW YORK, June 22.—(AP.)—James N. Jarvie, capitalist, of Montclair, N. J., known as the "coffee king," died yesterday on board the Homeric on his way to England, a radiogram received here disclosed. He was 75 years old. In 1906 Mr. Jarvie resigned as a member of the Arbuckle Brothers coffee and sugar concern and became an independent banker. Mr. Jarvie was a native of Manchester, England. His wife, Helen Vanderveer, was killed in 1917 in an explosion on a yacht at New London, Conn.

Chicago Expects Al Back Next Week

CHICAGO, June 22.—(AP.)—The word was around today that Al Capone would be home next week. Charles Fischette, Capone's cousin, and Jack Gusik, who has often been called Capone's business manager, returned yesterday from Philadelphia, where Scarface Al is serving a year's sentence for gun toting.

"Just say Al will be home next week," said Fischette.

Expert Testifies In Vestris Inquiry

LONDON, June 22.—(AP.)—Thomas Little, naval architect, of Liverpool, testified today on behalf of the owners at the Board of Trade inquiry into the sinking of the Lamport & Holt liner Vestris. He was examined on the theory, previously advanced, that leakage of water into the vessel's bunkers was due to fracture of a scupper pipe or sanitary discharge pipe, or both.

SNOOK TO FIGHT FOR LIFE IN DEATH TRIAL

Changes Mind About Pleading Guilty in Girl's Murder; Trial to Be Set Monday

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN.
International News Service.

COLUMBUS, O., June 22.—Dr. James H. Snook today executed a "right about face" and is now planning a legal battle to escape the electric chair.

The 48-year-old former Ohio State University professor, who confessed he hammered and knifed his 24-year-old sweetheart, Miss Theora Hix, to death after a bitter quarrel while on a motor trip, no longer wants to "have it all over with." He wants to save his skin.

He will plead not guilty when arraigned Monday, in spite of the fact that he signed a confession admitting he killed the girl "because she remonstrated with me against leaving the city for the week-end with my wife and baby and threatened to kill both of them if I did."

LAWYERS AROUSE HOPE

Snook, interviewed in his cell by the International News Service correspondent for half an hour, refused to reveal his plea, but his attorney, Judge John F. Seidel, said it would be "not guilty." Seidel and his co-counsel, E. O. Ricketts, held several lengthy conferences with the once highly respected college professor.

At first, after he had made his confession, Snook had declared he would plead guilty and let the law take its course, which would mean that he might "burn." But this morning he said his plea was a matter for his lawyers to decide. And they have aroused a spark of hope in his breast by laying the groundwork for a defense against the indictment of "murder in the first degree" returned late yesterday by the Franklin County grand jury.

"Deliberate and premeditated malice" were the words used in the murder indictment by the grand jury, which is comprised of eight women and seven men.

DEFENSE VIEW GIVEN

But Snook's lawyers profess to see mitigating circumstances. What they are they will not reveal. How-

$36,000 FIRE IN HOMESTEAD

A large frame building at Third avenue and McClure street, Homestead, a landmark, housing the Acme Steel Construction Company, was destroyed by fire early today causing loss estimated at $36,000.

Origin of the fire was being investigated by the police. A woman living nearby told the authorities she had seen five men leaving the building half an hour before the flames swept the structure.

August Krom, president of the company, placed his loss to machinery and equipment at $25,000. The Migora Club, on the second floor, suffered $8,000 loss, Lee Beston, the manager, estimated.

A two-passenger airplane, which was to have been tried out today, was destroyed with a loss of $3,000. The plane, owned by J. H. Schriber and R. H. Henderson, was in the rear of the building, former quarters of an airplane manufacturing plant.

Son Injured, Hoover Aide Speeds Home

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., June 22.—(INS.)—Walter H. Newton, secretary to President Hoover, was hurrying from Washington today to the bedside of his 9-year-old son, John Marshall Newton, who lost a leg and was reported in a critical condition as a result of being run down by a street car.

The child's right leg was crushed so severely that amputation was necessary. Unless he rallied a blood transfusion was planned.

SINCLAIR TO GET OUT DEC. 22

WASHINGTON, June 22.—(INS.)—Harry F. Sinclair will spend Christmas with his folks, after all.

Justice Walter I. McCoy, in District Supreme Court, today signed commitment papers for the oil magnate in his latest sentence of six months for contempt of court, and specified that it should run concurrently with the remainder of his present 90-day sentence for contempt of the Senate.

Allowing time off for good behavior, this will bring Sinclair out of the district jail on December 22.

Justice McCoy also signed the commitment papers today for H. Mason Day, one of Sinclair's oil company executives, who was given four months for his part in the famous "jury-shadowing" activities of the Fall-Sinclair conspiracy trial. Day's attorneys arranged for him to surrender to district jail authorities on Monday to begin his sentence.

A fine of $1,000 imposed upon W. Sherman Burns, head of the Burns Detective Agency that furnished the "shadows," was paid.

PEACE MADE IN RELIGIOUS CONFLICT

Government Acts for Early Resumption of Services; Morrow Plays Big Part

MEXICO CITY, June 22.—(AP.)—The Mexican government moved quickly today to restore to the Roman Catholic hierarchy the nation's churches and other ecclesiastical vestments, preparatory to early resumption of church services throughout Mexico.

There was hope the restoration could proceed quickly enough to permit services in at least some of the churches June 29, sacred to Saint Peter, the first mass to be said in the flower-bedecked church of Nuestra Senora de la Guadalupe, near the capital.

The action followed rapidly announcement last evening of an accord between the Merican government and the Roman Church, in which the Mexican government permitted a broad interpretation of the religious laws which the church found a satisfactory basis for returning to its former status.

FREE WOMEN PRISONERS

Announcements of the accord were made in simultaneous statements issued by President Portes Gil at Chapultepec, and by Monsignor Leopoldo Ruis y Flores, archbishop of Michoacan, who with Bishop Pascual Diaz of Tabasco acted for the Vatican.

In the space of a few hours the wheels of government machinery had been set in motion to end the religious stalemate which had marked Mexican national life since August 1, 1926, when the Mexican episcopate withdrew priests from all churches in protest at what it claimed were unfair legal restrictions.

Notable among the developments were orders for release of all women held on religious law violation

Prince Silent About Marrying Mrs. Corey

PARIS, June 22.—(INS.)—Answering published reports that his marriage to Mrs. Mabelle Corey was off, Prince Louis Bourbon of the house of Orleans today made the following statement to International News Service:

"I always find that others know more about my affairs than I do myself. I cannot comment further."

According to some of the reports recently circulated, the prince had declared that his marriage to the American woman was out of the question because a suitable marriage settlement could not be agreed upon.

Collision Fatal To School Teacher

STROUDSBURG, Pa., June 22.—(INS.)—Miss Nellie Kelly, 50-year-old Scranton school teacher, died in the Monroe County Hospital here of injuries suffered in an automobile-truck collision on the Lackawanna trail, near here, late Thursday, in which seven other persons were injured.

Afghan Ex-King Sails for Europe

BOMBAY, June 22.—(AP.)—Former King Amanullah, of Afghanistan, Queen Souriya, and their entourage, sailed today for Europe aboard the liner Mooltan, occupying 25 first-class cabins.

The party was conveyed secretly from hotel to ship in six sedans, the queen traveling in an ambulance.

Pays $10,000 to Break 80 On Links--and Win $5

CHICAGO, June 22.—(AP.)—The pet peeve of Alfred S Austrian, Chicago attorney, has been his inability to play a round of golf with a dignified score. Day after day his score card was in the nineties, and perhaps occasionally even in three figures.

Austrian went to George A. Neil, professional at the Lake Shore Country Club, and said:

"I will give you $10,000 if you will teach me to break 80."

Neil told him to take off his coat, and the training began. It was no overnight miracle; it was months of toil The attorney seemed to have some vital reason for wishing to attain this golfing ambition.

There came a day when the professional said to his pupil:

"Go out and play; return and pay."

The attorney came back with a score of 78. He came back a second time with a 79. And the third time his score was 77. He paid.

Austrian was asked why he was willing to pay $10,000 to shoot under 80.

"To win a five dollar bet," he said

MORROW, ILL IN MEXICO, THREATENED IN LETTERS

AMBASSADOR UNWORRIED BY NOTES

Considers Missives Work of Cranks, Dismisses Anxiety Of Reporters With Smile

MEXICO CITY, June 22.—(AP.)—Ambassador Morrow, ill and in bed, has received letters threatening harm to him as a result of his activity in bringing to a successful climax negotiations for settlement of the Mexican religious controversy.

The Ambassador considers the letters only the work of cranks. Questions of newspapermen as to whether they worried him he dismissed with a smile.

Mr. Morrow's illness developed Thursday in the form of a mild indigestion which sent him to his bed. He got up from bed for an hour and a half Thursday night to confer with President Portes Gil, and was so tired yesterday he remained abed, cancelling his engagement to deliver the commencement address at the American school.

Yesterday afternoon he conversed with the President by phone between the chief executive's two conferences with the bishops, never leaving his bed. Seen by newspapermen later in his room he wore a happy smile at the outcome of the negotiations.

He said he hoped to go today to his country home at Cuernavaca to rest over the week-end after the arduous labors of the past week.

Generally speaking the Ambassador's popularity has been increased many times by the hand he has taken in the church negotiations. He was referred to here today on every side as one of the world's greatest diplomats. Many Catholics are inclined to credit him with the final success in the negotiations.

SNOOK TO MAKE FIGHT FOR LIFE

ever, Attorney Seidel had this to say:

"There is a distinction between murder and homicide. Murder is the unlawful taking of a human life. There are two kinds of homicide that are not punishable: Excusable homicide and justifiable homicide. In the eyes of the public, fired by the mob spirit, a man might seem guilty whereas in the eyes of the law, after all the facts and circumstances are presented in court he would be not guilty."

Snook is now grasping at the straw held out to him by his lawyers that he has a "legitimate defense." He is more than eager to go along with them and fight for his life.

WIFE REMAINS LOYAL

He is buoyed up, too, by the knowledge that his wife, Mrs. Helen M. Snook, will stand by him to the end. She cannot believe that her husband is a murderer. She said:

"It is not possible for me to realize, or believe, that Dr. Snook has committed this crime.

"The Howard Snook to whom I have been married seven years could not have done this thing.

"He always provided me with a good home. He is my husband. He is the father of my child. I will go to him as soon as I am permitted."

Tears come into Snook's eyes as this reporter, talking to him through the bars of his cell in the presence of Deputy Sheriff Charles Williams, mentioned his wife and baby. Snook said he never had doubted his wife would remain loyal to him.

"And that goes for my mother, too," he added.

PARRIES QUESTIONS

For half an hour Snook adroitly parried questions designed to reveal his mental state and his future plans, invariably resorting to the stereotyped reply:

"I'd like to talk about many things, but on advice of counsel I cannot."

Snook was extremely courteous. He was lying on his cot reading a magazine when the International News Service correspondent came to his cell, the last one on the main floor tier.

The ex-college professor's cell is next to one occupied by two Negroes, one a burglar, the other a confidence man.

Snook seemed to be in good spirits, albeit his ready smile often vanished quickly during the interview as he thought of something he did not express. On a table were a pack of cigarets and a few magazines he had requested. He has told Deputy Sheriff Williams not to bring any "thrashy" reading matter.

DISCUSSES MURDERERS

The prisoner was coatless and collarless. It was stifling hot in the cell. And the former professor is inclined to portliness. He needed a shave. He wore brown-rimmed nose glasses. His demeanor was calm, relaxed and philosophical. He discussed with the writer other widely-publicized murder defendants, including George Remus, the "king of the bootleggers," who shot and killed his wife but won his freedom, and Judd Gray who died in the electric chair.

"Write about me if you must, but don't quote me if you can help it," was Snook's admonition.

Date for the trial of Snook will be fixed upon arraignment of the dismissed profess in the criminal branch of Common Pleas Court at 9 o'clock Monday morning.

MEXICO CHURCH RITES JUNE 29

charges at Las Tres Marias, Island prison colony; orders for immigration officials at border points to permit return to Mexico of any Catholic priest or prelate; release of 50 religious prisoners in Mexico City, and orders for inventory of church property preparatory to turning it over to the priests.

MORROW INTERMEDIARY

The settlement between the Holy See and Chapultepec was that reached Monday, through Ambassador Morrow as intermediary, after negotiations which had been pending between President Portes Gil and the two bishops had ended in deadlock. After some delay papal approval was obtained.

The Mexican government will permit the Episcopate to designate those priests who will register under the religious laws, a provision which will prevent state license for clerics the bishops have suppressed.

Religious instruction, while not permitted in the schools, as prohibited by the Constitution, will be permitted in the churches.

The Mexican prelates may apply at any time in the future for modification of the Constitution and religious laws, this privilege being the same allowed any other Mexican citizen.

Observers believed the agreement to be verbal only, and having force only through the signed announcement of the President, which stated it in the form of a matter of policy. It was regarded also as settling only the immediate and acute phase of the long controversy, which dated back in intense form as far as the 1850's.

NO CHANGE IN LAW

The agreement provided for no change in any of the Mexican religious laws, or enabling acts for clauses of the Constitution. Nor did it mark definite concession by the Episcopate. Rather, it was approach of a difficult problem in a friendly, conciliatory manner, each, observers thought, pledging broader and more liberal interpretation of the points at issue.

The problems provided by nationalization of church property, such suppression of ecclesiastics as still exists, and other minor phases of the long controversy have not been settled, observers considered. It was hoped the "cristero" movement or so-called religious rebellion would almost immediately disappear.

The orders looking toward turning the churches back to the priests were issued by the Department of Interior, which instructed governors of all states to list all Catholic churches in their domains with the names of the committee of parishioners in charge and such other information regarding them as is available. Wish to take inventory of churches and their condition was given as a reason for the order.

PREPARE FOR SERVICES

It was said representatives of the government would confer with the prelates tomorrow over the form in which the churches would be given back into the cleric's charge. Archbishop Ruiz will issue a circular Monday in connection with the return. It was believed mass would be said, after the first service at Guadalupe, in the Mexico City churches, delay in other parts of the republic being the result of difficulty in transporting priests there.

The Department of Interior in its orders releasing women religious prisoners, numbering nearly 100, at Las Tres Marias, excluded Mother Concepcion, who is under a 20-year sentence in connection with the assassination of Gen. Obregon.

Lindbergh Smile Wins Angry Officer

NORTH BERGEN, N. J., June 22.—Great is the Lindbergh personality. It can even overcome a traffic cop. Bound for Englewood and the Morrows' place alone in an automobile, the colonel rode past a detour sign and was halted and bawled out by Policeman William Rainer.

"He's a great fellow," explained Rainer. "He apologized and I apologized. I smiled and he smiled, and then he went on."

$5,000 IN GEMS STOLEN

Jewelry valued at $5,000 was stolen from the home of James C. Weir, 5493 Wilkins avenue, while the family was absent yesterday, according to a report received at the city detective bureau. The robbers entered the home through a rear basement window.

Among pieces of jewelry stolen are a ladies' ring with three large diamonds and a diamond cluster, a ladies' solitaire ring, containing three large diamonds, a ladies' gold ring, a Masonic watch charm, a gold watch chain, three watches and a fancy bone-handle knife.

Weather Conditions.

Heavy rains occurred over the mountain sections of Pennsylvania, and as far east as Harrisburg, and southward to Washington, D. C. The skies are mostly clear over the states east of the Mississippi, while throughout the Mississippi valley and over the Plains states cloudy weather prevails, with active thunderstorm conditions.

A trough of low pressure extends from north of the lakes southwestward over the Plains states to New Mexico. Over the East and the far West the pressure is relatively high. The temperature changes were slight.

VATICAN HAPPY OVER MEXICO

VATICAN CITY, June 22.—(AP.)—First word of settlement of the Mexican religious controversy was borne to the Vatican entourage today by the Associated Press, and was received with great joy.

Even the closest collaborators of Cardinal Gasparri, papal secretary of state, were kept in ignorance of the Pontiff's decision on the terms President Portes Gil and Archbishop Ruiz drew up and forwarded him.

Unofficially it was said that the terms of the settlement at first glance seemed to indicate considerable concessions by the church in order to arrive at an agreement.

It was considered certain that Pope Pius would allude to the settlement in one of his earliest allocutions to pilgrim groups which are being received in audience almost daily. Pending his comments, even the highest officials in the office of the secretary of state were naturally unwilling to proffer their personal opinions on the accord.

Announcement of President Portes Gil's statement was received in Rome too late for comment by the morning papers.

Woodyard, Former Congressman, Dies

SPENCER, W. Va., June 22.—(AP.)—Harry C. Woodyard, 61, newspaper publisher, banker and former congressman, died suddenly at his home here last night. A heart attack was given as the cause of his death.

He had been in good health until yesterday, when he was made slightly ill by the heat, but apparently recovered.

4 MEN CONFESS PART IN SIX HOLDUPS

Admit Robbing Man at His Fifth Avenue Home and Five Others, Police Say

Four men, arrested at Fifth avenue and Craig street early today as suspects in the holdup of L. J. Kloos, 5533 Fifth avenue, in front of his home at 2 a. m., broke down under a police grilling in Oakland Police Station and admitted that robbery and five others throughout the city, police said. An attempt will be made to have their alleged victims identify them today.

They said they were Howard Geisler, 25, of 198 Steuben street, West End; Kenneth A. Smith, 22, of 934 Heberton avenue; John K. Weising, 25, of 1104 Fredonia avenue, and Joseph Schoeneman, 21, of 919 Ringgold street, Crafton Heights.

Kloos reported to police that several men in an automobile drew up in front of his home as he was entering it, held him up at the point of a revolver and took $23 from his pockets.

When taken to the police station the suspects denied robbing Kloos, but, police say, weakened when confronted by three revolvers said to have been found in their automobile. They said the automobile belonged to Norman McMasters, 301 Grant street, Turtle Creek. Several hours later McMasters was arrested in Hulton. Police said he carried a revolver.

Capt. Andrew Charles, who questioned the men, said that none carried an owner's or driver's license.

GIBSON, DAWES TO TALK ARMS

WASHINGTON, June 22.—(AP.)—The State Department has announced that Ambassador Hugh S. Gibson, American delegate to the League of Nations preparatory disarmament conference, has been authorized by President Hoover to proceed to London next week to confer with Ambassador Dawes on the disarmament question.

The discussions in London, the department said, would be with particular reference to the present status of the disarmament question before the League preparatory commission.

Three Found Guilty Of Burning Home

EBENSBURG, Pa., June 22.—A verdict of guilty has been returned by a jury in court here against Thomas Micele, John Guiffrida and Joseph Mannina, all of Johnstown, charged with complicity in the burning of the Sam Guido home in Johnstown.

De Priest Reception Big Success Financially

WASHINGTON, June 22.—(INS.)—The first formal social function sponsored in Washington by Representative Oscar De Priest, the Negro Congressman from Chicago, was a financial success, even if it was not attended by many of the Chicagoan's white colleagues.

A musical and reception was given at the Washington Auditorium last night by Representative De Priest to raise money for the National Advancement of Colored People, and nearly all of Congress and official Washington was invited.

Many bought tickets, but few whites attended. Representative Richard Yates (Rep.), Illinois, was one who did. The place, however, was crowded with the elite of Washington's colored society.

WIFE INDICTED FOR MURDER

VALPARAISO, Ind., June 22.—(INS.)—Mrs. Catherine Cassler, middle-aged housewife, who two months ago won liberty after being under sentence of death for nearly a year, today was under indictment on a second murder charge on which authorities will seek to send her to the electric chair.

An indictment was returned accusing her of the murder of Cameola Soutar, 23, who was Mrs. Cassler's husband's housekeeper, police said, while the wife was in jail in Chicago. The girl's body, with a bullet through the heart, was found in a swamp near Hebron, Ind., on May 30.

Mrs. Cassler's 19-year-old son, Edward, also was ordered held on a first degree murder charge.

The Cassler woman was tried in Chicago in 1926 for the murder of William Lindstrom, killed for $1,000 insurance, and was sentenced to hang. She was freed following the granting of a new trial, abandoned as a result of the death of a principal witness.

ALLEGHENY ROAD BIDS REJECTED

HARRISBURG, June 22.—Contracts for the expenditure of more than $2,550,000 for road improvements were awarded yesterday by the Highway Department. These awards followed a letting this week when bids were opened for the construction of sixty miles of road.

Bids on five projects were rejected. They are located as follows: Schuylkill county, Rush and Kline townships; Allegheny county, Scott, Collier and South Fayette townships; Allegheny county, Harman township; Fayette county, Wharton North and South Union townships; Lehigh county, Union township.

The department is holding for further study bids received on two projects. These are East Pike Run township and Centerville borough, Washington county, and Allegheny and Juniata townships, Blair county.

Awards were made for 20 road improvement projects.

200 Swiss-American Athletes to Compete

Two hundred Swiss-American athletes will compete here for three days beginning July 4 under auspices of the Swiss-American Gymnastic Union. The events will be staged at the Allegheny Turner Park, Perrysville, and are expected to draw a thousand visitors to the city. The program is a tri-annual event and headquarters will be maintained at the Fort Pitt Hotel.

Theft of House Charged to Neighbor

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., June 22.—For the first time in the county, a man will be placed on trial, charged with stealing a house. Ben Edwards is accused by J. W. Meadows of stealing the Meadows house. Edwards is said to have hitched a tractor to the dwelling, moving it several hundred yards down a county road.

2 SLAIN, POLICE HUNT KILLERS

With three suspects under arrest, scores of police and detectives today were scouring the Pittsburgh district for two unidentified slayers. One was wanted for the murder last night of Edward J. Kretz, 55, of 4636 Center avenue, a druggist, in his store at 1800 Webster avenue; the other for the fatal wounding of James Rushton, 30, a Negro, of 2132 Festus way, in the Booth and Flinn brick yard at Elmore and Addison streets.

Those under arrest in connection with the Kretz slaying gave their names as A. B. Hunter, 26, of 7 Davenport street; Oscar Stinson, 24, of 53 Arthur street, and Rufus Gee, 16, of 49 Arthur street, all Negroes. They were held as suspicious persons.

THREE MEN HELD

The three prisoners were held for investigation today by Magistrate A. D. Brandon after Detective Thomas Morgan had testified that Simpson and Hunter had police records. Later today they were to be arraigned for possible identification by Andrew Dressel, 18, of 1718 Enoch street, who saw the shooting.

Detectives leaned to a theory that revenge was the motive for the shooting. They recalled that four months ago a Negro, found stealing in Kretz's store, was sentenced to 60 days in jail.

Kretz, brother-in-law of Thomas D. Malone, lieutenant of detectives, was slain by a Negro who went into his store and asked for a package of cigarets.

SHOT IN BACK

When Kretz took the Negro's order he walked toward the front of the store to the tobacco case, the Negro following. Without warning the Negro drew a revolver, Dressel said, and fired a shot into the druggist's back. The powder burned Dressel on the cheek.

As Kretz reeled and fell the Negro ran out of the store and leaped into an automobile occupied by two other Negroes, and escaped.

Kretz was taken to Montefiore Hospital where he was pronounced dead. He was married and the father of 10 children.

Police advanced the theory that the Negro went to the store to rob the druggist, but became excited and shot him.

WOMAN ARRESTED

Rushton died in Montefiore Hospital at 4 a. m., two hours after he had been admitted. Police arrested Annie Brown, 27, of 2152 Festus way, who told them that she and Rushton were sitting in the brick yard when another Negro came up to them and asked Rushton if he carried a revolver. Receiving a negative reply, he said he was the night watchman and would have to search them. When Rushton informed him he would not submit to a search, the man turned and walked away a few steps, then wheeled and fired five shots at the victim, four of which took effect.

The Brown woman and John Ayres, 100 Ruchs street, who notified police of the shooting were held as material witnesses.

Chicago Grows Tired Of 'Windy City' Title

CHICAGO.—Chicago Association of Commerce has embarked on a campaign to drop Chicago's nickname of "Windy City." It is pointed out that the average wind velocity here last year, according to figures, was only 9.9 miles an hour while Buffalo averaged 15.4 miles and New York averaged 9.3 miles.

Gould's Gambling Palace Shows Heavy Losses

NICE, France, June 22.—(AP.)—Frank Jay Gould's Casino de la Mediteranee, a Rivera gambling palace, has lost $800,000 in the last five months, official statistics show.

Gould, who was the youngest son of the last century American railroad magnate, Jay Gould, paid $5,000,000 for his casino building alone, and now it is costing him a fortune to maintain it.

The people of Nice are perfectly content with the present state of affairs, but have been wondering how long he can keep it up.

New York Flier Planning Solo Flight—Eilson to Take Off From Chicago

LOS ANGELES, June 22.—(AP.)—Preparations by ambitious Southern California fliers for assaults upon existing aerial records, official and unofficial, were in full swing here today.

Three endurance flights were in prospect. The first was tentatively scheduled to get under way tonight with Leo Nomis and Morrison Morrison, Los Angeles pilots, alternating at the controls of a cabin plane with a 110-horse power motor.

AFTER RECORD

By refueling in the air they hope to better the record of 172 hours, 32 minutes and one second, set recently by Reginald Robbins and James Kelly at Fort Worth, Tex.

Nomis and Morrison will have a set of rivals right on their heels if original plans are carried out. Lieut. L. W. Mendell and R. B. Reinhart, also of Los Angeles, announced they would take to the air next Tuesday in an attempt to better the endurance record or any new mark that Nomis and Morrison may set.

A woman was scheduled to figure in the third endurance flight project, in which three fliers expect to take off in an tri-motored monoplane early next week.

WOMAN CO-PILOT

Homer Weber, of Los Angeles, was announced as chief pilot for the three-engined ship, with Marjorie Crawford as co-pilot. A third pilot, yet to be named, is to complete the crew.

Lieut. Herbert J. Fahy, who recently broke all unofficial records for solo non-refueling flight, planned to take off next Wednesday in an attempt to establish an altitude record for commercial airplanes. He hopes to reach a height of 30,000 feet.

Bert White, Los Angeles parachute jumper, is to ride with Fahy to a height of 26,000 feet in an attempt to better the present parachute jump record of 24,200 feet.

TORONTO, June 22.—(AP.)—Plans for three airplane flights from Canada to Europe next month were disclosed today by Maj. Gen. J. H. MacBrien, president of the aviation league of Canada.

A New York flier is planning a solo flight from New York to Scotland by way of Ottawa, Labrador, Greenland and Iceland.

Three fliers, among them Lieut. Ben Eielson, who was pilot for Capt. Sir George Wilkins on his Arctic and Antarctic flights, will take off from Chicago on a flight through northern Ontario and Quebec to Greenland, Iceland, the Faroe Islands and thence to Bergen, Norway, and Copenhagen, Denmark. Thence they plan to proceed to Berlin and Paris and return by way of London and Scotland along the original route.

Gen. MacBrien declared that while it has been demonstrated that the airplane is capable of flight across the Atlantic, its carrying power is limited to crew and fuel and that the northern route offers the advantage of stopping places where supplie can be maintained.

FATE OF FLIERS UNCERTAIN

Madrid the news was received with great enthusiasm and was sent by the authorities to King Alfonso.

The island of San Miguel is the easternmost one of the Azores group and if the plane passed it, as was rumored in Horta, it would still have a considerable distance to go to reach Horta, which is on the island of Fayal.

At the last minute the aviators abandoned their machine, the Numancia, which had been prepared especially for the flight, for a large Dornier Wahl 16, which he brought recently from Italy.

Many here did not know of the change in machines and believed him flying the Numancia. It was said in some quarters a cylinder on the Numancia had been burned out.

The fliers left Cartagena, on the south coast of Spain, at 4:50 p. m. yesterday (10:50 E. S. T.), expecting to make it to Punta Delgada, Azores, in about 16 hours, arriving at 6 a. m. Azores time (3 a. m. E. S. T.).

Three Sent to Pen In Highway Graft

BALTIMORE, June 22.—(AP.)—In sentencing Thomas A. Butler, James H. Woods and Frank J. Woods, brothers, former employes of the State Roads Commission, to three years in the state penitentiary, Judge Samuel K. Denniss, in criminal court, brought the criminal action in the looting of the state's roads treasury of $376,000 near a close after the last two and a half years.

CANADIAN RUM EXPORTS TO U. S. WORTH $115,327,800

SMUGGLERS' SHIPMENTS EXCLUDED

Official 28, 158, 160 Gallons In 7 Years Conceded to Be But Drop in Bucket

OTTAWA, Ont., June 21.—The Dominion government has just published official statistics of "regular exports" of alcoholic beverages into the United States for the last seven years, down to April 1, 1929.

These officially accredited exportations alone reach the amazing total of $115,327,800, but are known to be only a drop in the bucket of what actually goes over the 3,500-mile boundary, since this published total is exclusive of liquor smuggling operations on a gigantic scale.

LAUGH AT ENFORCEMENT

Those officials cynically familiar with the situation merely laugh at the gesture of stationing a few hundred United States enforcement agents at Detroit or other "strategic" points on the border. When the government force descended on Detroit a week ago, the main line of liquor smuggling was shifted over night, for instance, to Buffalo, although a skirmishing force of smugglers remained on the Detroit River and Lake St. Clair battle front for the sake of effect.

When needful the same maneuver will be repeated, they say, since the smuggling profits run into millions a week.

INCREASE SHOWN

Year Ending Mar. 31	Ale, Beer and Porter	Distilled Liquor	Wine and Other Alcoholic Beverages
In dollars (omitting the odd figures).
1923	$ 2,696,000	$ 477,000	$ 5,500
1924	4,902,000	3,776,000	36,400
1925	4,635,000	6,777,000	198,300
1926	5,115,000	12,913,000	436,200
1927	5,525,000	18,706,000	976,400
1928	5,376,000	18,380,000	375,800
1929	5,559,000	18,112,000	350,200
Total dollars in seven years:	$33,808,000	$79,141,000	$2,378,800
Grand total...................			$115,327,800
In gallons (ommitting the odd figures).
1923	1,350,000	29,000	370
1924	2,850,000	245,000	3,200
1925	2,970,000	415,000	15,990
1926	3,750,000	811,000	41,350
1927	4,220,000	1,119,000	86,730
1928	3,800,000	1,128,000	51,070
1929	4,090,000	1,126,000	56,450
Total gallons in seven years:	23,030,000	4,873,000	255,160
Grand total............		28,158,160 gallons

The public exportations from Canada to the United States of beer alone, 23,030,000 gallons, equals 230,300,000 ordinary bottles of beer, or 9,600,000 cases or sacks of beer of two dozen bottles each.

KIDNAPERS GET LIFE TERMS

CHICAGO, June 22.—(INS.)—Two youths who described themselves as gunmen of the "Scarface Al" Capone gang, today faced life sentences for kidnaping, saved from death in the electric chair, declared Judge Frank Comerford, only because they had not previous criminal records.

The pair, Rex Carzola, 20, and Albert Walz, 24, were charged with having abducted Joseph Wadzyki, 17, and held him for $150 ramson. Shortly after selection of a jury to try the case, the defendants decided to plead guilty.

Man Baffles Quiz In Death of Woman

SANTA ANA, Cal., June 22.—(AP.)—John L. McClure, 57-year-old Long Beach real estate man accused of slaying Mrs. Myrtle Wood, Long Beach widow, last night puzzled Sheriff Sam Jernigan with a bewildering mixture of admission and denials. McClure admitted to Jernigan that his original story of a holdup near Laguna Beach, where Mrs. Wood's body was found, and of his subsequent kidnaping by two men, was false. McClure declared that Mrs. Wood had killed herself while they were sitting together in his car.

Elinor Smith, Girl Flier, Forced Down

NEW YORK, June 22.—(AP.)—Miss Elinor Smith, holder of the women's endurance flight record, last night telephoned to her family here that she had been forced down and her plane disabled in mountainous territory near Stroudsburg, Pa. Miss Smith, her mother said, was on her way to attend the opening of the Wyoming Valley air meet at Wilkes-Barre, Pa., when dense fog made a landing necessary. Miss Smith left Mitchel Field about 2 o'clock.

A bottle of Lake Erie water was to be broken on the bow of the boat, 600 feet long with 13,000-ton capacity.

TARIFF FLAYED BY DEMOCRATS

WASHINGTON, June 22.—The Hawley bill was denounced as the "most reckless and extreme tariff bill that was ever conceived" in a statement issued by the Democratic National Committee last night.

The committee statement, which reviewed the legislative results of the interrupted extra session, likewise carried denunciations of the Hawley bill by Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, and Senator McKellar, of Tennessee.

The severe castigation of the House tariff bill was coupled with an assertion that Senate Democrats will attempt to revise the measure downward when it comes to a vote next fall. The committee statement said:

"The House with its Republican majority of over 100 put through, under the gavel, the most reckless and extreme tariff bill that was ever conceived; under the guise of helping the farmer it raised the schedules on pretty much everything."

Senator McKellar said the Democrats have shown they are opposed to putting "increased burdens of taxation on the farmers" by voting against the Hawley bill.

Edna McCauley, Once 'Prettiest' Star, Dies

NEW YORK, June 22.—(AP.)—News of the death in Paris of Edna McCauley, known a generation ago as "the prettiest actress on Broadway," was received by friends today.

The daughter of a Brooklyn policeman, Miss McCauley, mainly through her beauty, rose to the forefront of the New York stage in the early days of the century and shared with Lillian Russell the toasts of Broadway. Death occurred on June 18, and she was buried yesterday.

CANADA AND U. S. NEAR CLASH

International News Service.

DETROIT, June 22.—International complications between United States and Canadian authorities appeared imminent today following reports that Alfred Cuddy, deputy commissioner of the Ontario provincial police, would inform W. H. Price, Ontario attorney general, that rum-warring United States customs agents are indulging in promiscuous gunplay in Canadian waters.

Cuddy was to make his report to Price in Toronto today following his investigation of recent gunplay episodes on the Detroit River.

COMPLAINTS MADE

The Canadian official said that several complaints had been made to him that American patrol boats, guarding the 102-mile liquor warfront, have fired across the international line at rum runners in Canadian waters.

Commenting on the report that Washington would protest to Ottawa on the recent shooting affray off Belle Isle in which rum runners fired from Canadian waters upon a customs patrol boat, Cuddy said:

"I understand that the Dominion government will retaliate by showing that U. S. patrol boats have frequently crossed the international line into Canadian waters and patroled up and down close to the Canadian shore."

URGES MORE POLICE

Cuddy said he would urge the doubling of provincial police forces stationed along the border, and the seizure of guns and boats when weapons are found in rum running crafts in Canadian waters.

"My investigation, however," Cuddy said, "has convinced me that Canadian rum runners are not carrying weapons. The gun toting is being done by smugglers from Detroit. If weapons are found aboard rum running boats in Canadian waters severe penalties will be dealt out."

Gar Wood Sails To Inspect New Air Yacht

NEW YORK, June 22.—(AP.)—A man who 15 years ago was a Mid-West garage mechanic, with no money beyond his daily wage, sailed on the Majestic yesterday to superintend the last touches on a $125,000 air yacht being built to his order in Germany.

The erstwhile mechanic is Gar Wood, speed boat manufacturer and racer, capitalist, and more recently aviation enthusiast and pilot. The new plane is a Dornier seaplane and will be the largest seaplane in America. It will have sleeping accommodations for 12, three washrooms, a full-sized shower bath, and a regular stateroom with a bed in it for the owner.

Sun-Telegraph Praised For Story on Pageant

The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph is complimented for the manner in which it reported the public school health pageant at Forbes Field Wednesday, in a letter received from Dr. A. M. Kerr, medical supervisor of the schools.

Dr. Kerr's letter follows:

"On behalf of the Department of Hygiene of the Pittsburgh Public Schools, I wish to thank you for the very full and extensive manner in which the Sun-Telegraph covered our health pageant held yesterday at Forbes Field. The articles in your paper were unquestionably of great value in inducing people to come to Forbes Field, and in arousing interest in the spectacle there presented.

"We feel that the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph contributed no little toward making this pageant what we desired it to be—a civic project of first rank."

Hollywood's 18-Day Diet Reprinted By Request

IN LAST Sunday's Sun-Telegraph, Louella O. Parsons, famous motion picture critic and writer, gave to her readers an 18-day diet that many of the movie stars in Hollywood are using to reduce, or to keep down their weight. It is supposed to have been originated by the Mayo Brothers.

This diet, which has appealed so to the film stars, caused such widespread interest in Pittsburgh that scores of readers began telephoning for extra copies of it for their own use and to send to their friends. In response to popular demand, the Sun-Telegraph today reprints the 18-day diet. Be sure and clip it out and tell your friends it is printed in today's editions again.

Louella O. Parsons

Here Is the 18-Day Diet:

First Day—Breakfast, one-half grapefruit, melba toast, coffee (breakfast the same every day; lunch, one-half grapefruit, 1 egg, 6 slices cucumber, 1 slice melba toast, tea or coffee; dinner, 2 eggs, 1 tomato, ½ head lettuce, ½ grapefruit, coffee.

Second Day—Lunch, 1 orange, 1 egg, lettuce, 1 slice melba toast, tea; dinner, broiled steak (plain), ½ lettuce, 1 tomato, ½ grapefruit, tea or coffee.

Third Day—Lunch, ½ grapefruit, 1 egg, lettuce, 8 slices cucumber, tea or coffee; dinner, 1 lamb chop (trim fat before cooking), 1 egg, 3 radishes, 2 olives, ½ grapefruit, lettuce, tea or coffee.

So many readers made inquiries about Toast Melba that the Sun-Telegraph asked Frank Bayer, chef of the Donahoe's Restaurants, for his recipe. Here it is:

MELBA TOAST

Cut white bread very thin—less than one-fourth inch thick—toast very slowly in oven under low fire till crisp, and toast it all the way through. Butter as desired at the table.

MAN, 85, WOMEN CAUGHT IN RAID

County detectives today were searching for Dr. C. C. Peach, 464 Hays avenue, Mt. Oliver, whose office was raided last night on information sworn out by Roy F. Barclay, a private detective. They arrested Charles Peach, 85, father of the alleged owner; Myrtle McKean, 28, and Edith Snyder, 21, who were lodged in the county jail charged with keeping, visiting and being inmates of a disorderly house.

According to Barclay, admission to the office was gained by the use of engraved cards. Dr. Peach was absent when the county detectives arrived, they said.

Dry Officers Told To Attend Hearing

OGDENSBURG, N. Y., June 22.—(AP.)—John C. Tulloch, collector of customs, was served with a subpoena last night ordering him to appear at a hearing Monday in Plattsburgh on the shooting of Arthur Gordon, 22-year-old alleged rum runner, who was fatally wounded by customs border patrolmen a week ago.

Tulloch told Sheriff Herbert Shaver that Weldon J. Cheatham and F. L. Coveney, border patrolmen, whose version of the shooting has been sought, arrived here at midnight and were also summoned to appear.

DOPE BIG TOPIC IN SURVEY

WASHINGTON, June 22.—Slowly ploughing the ground in its search for the causes and cure of crime in America, the President's National Commission on law enforcement has taken a recess until July 22.

During the interval members of the commission will work independently and several researches and inquiries into various phases of law disobedience and abuses will be prosecuted.

By this program, the Commission hopes to be able when it returns a month hence to formulate a definite agenda for its investigation.

Before leaving for New York for the week-end, George W. Wickersham, chairman, announced that a comprehensive survey of the narcotic menace will be one of the most important subjects on the Commission's program. He regards this evil as constituting a grave problem which must be attacked with the most stringent measures.

MRS. RUTH MOLINEAU EARNING DAILY BREAD

Widowed, Mrs. Molineau, Arlington (Mass.) mother of four, defied conventions by taking a job in a laboring gang employed by a cellar-digging contractor. It's healthful and she's paid more than average office-women and she doesn't have to spend all her money on clothes, Mrs. Molineau thinks.

ASKS BANK CASE BE SETTLED

There are sufficient funds in the hands of F. W. Jackson, deputy state banking commissioner, receiver for the Brotherhood Savings and Trust Company, to pay depositors of the defunct institution the remaining 15 per cent of their deposits, H. Lee Ratner alleged in a petition filed in Common Pleas Court.

Following the filing of the petition, which asked for a distribution to depositors, Jackson filed a third account, showing that $57,461 cash and assets of $32,378 remained in his hands. Liquidation has cost $30,000 thus far and the expense will continue under present conditions, Ratner stated, asking that a meeting of the stockholders be ordered so that a trustee may be elected to take charge of the remaining assets.

The first account, declaring a 70 per cent dividend to depositors, was filed in August, 1927, and a second account, declaring an additional 15 per cent dividend, was filed in October last.

The bank was closed October 16, 1926, the crash precipitated by the $320,000 cut rate bond deal in which its funds were put by R. A. McCrady, president. Cready, president.

Dormont Citizens Ready to Fight Heat

Since the opening of Dormont's municipal swimming pool last Saturday, 2375 permits have been issued, according to Mrs. Anna Williams, assistant borough secretary. One thousand five hundred and nine permits were issued to children under 14 for 25 cents each. Three hundred and ninety-one permits issued to women and 475 to men for $1 each. The permits are good for the whole season, and are restricted to residents of that community.

There were 350 permits issued for the use of the tennis courts in the borough park, Mrs. Williams reported. These permits are assessed at 50 cents apiece.

E. O. Garrett, the borough manager and secretary, is in complete charge of both the swimming pool and tennis courts.

ALTOONA YOUTH, BANDIT, KILLED

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 22.—(AP.)—Frustrated in an attempt to rob the First National Bank of Moore, a town 11 miles south of here, one young robber was killed and another wounded by an armed guard posted in the bank in anticipation of the attempt.

The dead man was identified as Robert L. Yon, about 25 years old, of Altoona, Pa., and the wounded youth as A. C. Heatley, 23, of St. Albans, Long Island, N. Y.

Roy Gross, 28, worker in a garage at Moore, shot both men from a rear room of the bank after they had held up Otto Hayes, bookkeeper. Gross had been posted in the bank after the two young strangers had been observed driving about the town.

ALTOONA, PA., June 22.—(AP.)—Robert Yon, of Altoona, who was killed in an attempted holdup of the State Bank at Moore, Okla., yesterday was tentatively identified as the 17-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. James Yon, Altoona. Yon has not been home since he enlisted in the U. S. Army a year ago, members of the family said.

Happy beyond words, and comfortable, Earl Miller, 19, of 1412 James street, rocked in a wicker chair at Middle and Ohio streets, North Side, early today, when Patrolman John Haas, with nothing else to do, strolled up. As Miller was unable to tell where he obtained the chair the policeman took him to the North Side Police Station, where he was booked as a suspicious persons. Deprived of his chair he sat on a cell cot and sang the hours away.

2 LOCAL MEN INDICTED IN RUM PLOT

Pittsburghers Among 136 Named by Grand Jury Investigators in N. Y.

Two Pittsburghers were among 136 persons indicted by a federal grand jury in New York last Tuesday, according to a list made public today. They are Samuel Mallinger and Frank Mallinger, named as individuals. The liquor indictments, which listed a number of firms, are located in 14 states.

All were charged with conspiracy. The two Mallingers were named as purchasers of materials.

Glickstein and Terner, of Brooklyn, was named as the pivotal point of the alleged conspiracy. Among those indicted for selling to the alleged central firm bottles, cases, barrels and other materials, are:

Overholt Distilling Corporation, Broadford, Pa., and "Joseph" W. Parker as superintendent; Brockway Sales Company, Inc., Brockway, Pa., and "George" A. Mengle, "Arthur" L. McLaughlin, Fred Marshall and "Joseph" Masbach, as officers; Isadore Sukonik, Philadelphia, dealing as Sukonik, Cooperage Company; Diamond Glass Company, Royersford, Pa., and "Frank" I. Peterman, "Henry" B. Kastle, 'Martin" L. Latchaw and William T. Graff, as officers.

Among those named as purchasers of materials were: Morris Honickman, alias John Jones, alias Samuel Honickman, trading as Aldine Bottling Company, Philadelphia; Samuel Mallinger and Frank Mallinger, Pittsburgh; Joseph Weisberg, trading as Standard Glass and Supply Company, Scranton, and "Michael" J. DRYS RAID VET CONVENTION

ERIE, Pa., June 22.—Prohibition officers under U. S. Group Head Robert Young, assisted by state police, last night raided the convention headquarters of the Billy Simpson Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, arrested five Erie men, and reported confiscating two barrels of beer, a basket of ale and two pints of whisky.

The five taken into custody gave their names as John Silliman, William Chatwell, Roy Chandler, Edward Dailey and Herman Strum, all said to be members of the entertainment committee of the V. F. W. convention. The rooms were crowded with delegates when the officers entered. Gambling paraphernalia also was reported seized.

Word that the prohibition men were gunning for the convention liquor was talked during the last few days.

Officers for next year were nominated at the sessions last night and the election is slated for today. The feature will be the big street parade in which more than 30 drum, bugle corps and bands are to participate in a street demonstration. The parade is to follow the picnic scheduled late in the afternoon at Waldameer Park Beach. The convention will come to a close today.

Dry Agents Suspect Near Beer Shipment

DES MOINES, June 22.—(AP.)—A search warrant for the possible seizure of 10 carloads of near beer, the largest single shipment ever made in the Middle West, was in the hands of police today for service when the train arrives.

The warrant was issued by Judge H. H. Sawyer on an information sworn out by John Hammond, former chief of police and dry worker. It specified the cars contained near beer, but authorized search and seizure for any intoxicating liquors.

'Sheer Murder,' Lutheran Brands Dry Killings

RIVER FOREST, Ill., June 22.—(AP.)—The Lutheran Church late yesterday was described by Dr. W. C. Kohn, president of Concordia College here and an official in the Missouri Synod, as being not sympathetic to the Volstead law and rigorously opposed to "the absolutely criminal practices of prohibition officers in shooting down innocent citizens."

Dr. Kohn, who is attending the thirty-fourth triennial conference of the Evangelical Lutheran Synod, expressed his views in a statement prepared for publication.

"Members of the Missouri Synod of the Lutheran Church believe that since the Volstead laws are in effect they should be personally observed," the statement said. "But we do not agree with the absolutely criminal practices of prohibition officers in shooting down innocent citizens. Nor do we believe in the principles that underlie the Volstead laws."

The Lutheran church believes all just laws should be obeyed, Dr. Kohn declared, if the enforcement is legal in itself.

"Dry shootings are sheer murder," he said. "Killing transgressors of the Volstead act without fair trial is unbiblical, un-American and uncivil. Such unlawful killings are equal to murder. It is a criminal act to execute a man without a hearing."

METRO CHARTER DRIVE CARRIED INTO M'KEESPORT

DISTRICT NEEDS PLAN, ASSERTS ARMSTRONG

County Commissioner Says Mansfield Originated Bill For Greater City Body

The Metropolitan Plan Commission carried its campaign for the proposed charter into McKeesport last night, where speakers tried to offset opposition set up some time ago, and augmented by a recent address by Senator William D. Mansfield, of that city. Principal speakers were County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong; John J. Jackson, of Edgewood, a member of the commission; Henry Russell Miller, of Ben Avon, and Mrs. Della Herschey, of the Allegheny County League of Women Voters. The meeting, held in the Penn-McKees Hotel, was attended by about 200.

Commissioner Armstrong said that the first real conception of a Metropolitan district for Pittsburgh and Allegheny County came to light May 23, 1923, when Senator Mansfield introduced a bill at Harrisburg creating the Metropolitan District Commission, which measure was enacted and signed by Gov. Gifford Pinchot. He quoted from minutes of a meeting of the League of Boroughs and Townships April 14, 1923, at which a resolution indorsing the Mansfield bill was introduced by former State Senator C. M. Barr and was adopted unanimously.

CITES ADVANTAGES

He then cited some of the advantages of the proposed charter, such as a municipal hospital for the county, sewage relief for municipalities now unable to provide it, through traffic streets, adequate water supply and the prestige, commercially, industrially and in many other ways the greater city will enjoy from the increased population. He also called attention to the fact that E. R. Crawford and other leading citizens of McKeesport have been soliciting county aid to put over a $2,000,000 street widening and sewage proposition in that city.

The Commissioner stated that a number of big improvements are needed now in municipalities that should be county projects but that they cannot be handled by the county without legislation at Harrisburg. Under the proposed charter, he said, State permission would not be necessary. He also called attention to the management of the county's affairs, stating that after everything done that could be done there will still be a surplus of $3,346,000. And of the 67 counties of the state, he said, Allegheny's taxation will be found the lowest.

COMMUNITY RIGHTS

In his address Mr. Jackson said:

"Under the Metropolitan Plan there is no new form of government set up. The Metropolitan City of Pittsburgh takes the place of the present county government with some added power. The present city of Pittsburgh becomes merely one of the 122 units making up the County of Allegheny and has no more voice in the metropolitan city than any single borough or township.

"The Greater Pittsburgh charter has nothing hidden or mysterious about it. It is very simple if understood. It is patterned after the Federal and state government. A metropolitan city corresponds with the Federal government with broad powers to cover the present county government. The 122 units correspond to the states with their local self government maintained.

"The Board of Commissioners remain as it present until 1932, when the board is increased to seven, three of whom are elected from the present City of Pittsburgh and three from the outside districts and one elected at large. The outside districts at present have no representation on the board.

"Taxation is safeguarded. Taxation and boundary limits cannot be increased. This protection is written into the amendment to the constitution so that no citizen of this county need fear that his taxes will be increased. This is why this plan is receiving increased approval day by day because there can never be tax exploitation by reason of forceful annexation."

U. S. UNITY

Comparing the results to be achieved by the charter to the present federation of American States, Mr. Miller said in part:

"Every American knows that the United States consists of 48 states, knit together by a Federal government having nation-wide authority. When the fathers undertook the foundation of the new republic after the Revolution, they faced this problem—a group of independent states, each jealous of its own identity and sovereignty, and also the necessity of a general government that could provide for common or interstate needs. They solved the problem by allowing each state to retain its own name and supreme authority over its internal affairs.

"The framers of the charter for the metropolitan City of Pittsburgh faced precisely the same problem—122 cities, boroughs and townships. They were in entire sympathy with the desire of these municipalities to retain their identity and local authority. They recognized that the small municipal division with power to regulate its own police, fire school, improvement and other problems, makes for honesty, efficiency and economy in government. And so, as a first consideration, they provide in the charter that all these 122 municipalities shall continue under their present names, with their present boundaries, with undiminished authority over their local affairs and without change of a single officer, so long as their citizens shall so desire."

IMPORTANT CIVIC STEP

Last fall Allegheny County by a large majority voted to adopt the constitutional amendment which provided for a metropolitan government for the entire county," Mr. Hershey said. "This was perhaps one of the most highly idealistic and important civic steps that the community has taken since its earliest days.

"Let us not be the proverbial ostrich with our head in the sand. We are one community indivisible with vital problems to solve.

"Have those who are making objections anything to offer in its place? If not, they will show their good citizenship and sportsmanship by going along and doing their bit to make a success of the solution which is being offered. Don't be an obstructionist. Vote "YES" on the charter, June 25."

SUPPORT URGED

Democratic ward chairmen of Pittsburgh last night unanimously indorsed the metropolitan charter and urged all voters of the county irrespective of party affiliations to vote for the charter next Tuesday.

The resolution indorsing the charter was offered by Mrs. Carroll Miller, who was a delegate to the New York and Houston conventions of the Democratic party. It was seconded by David Flynn, chairman of the Thirteenth Ward, Democratic Committee. David L. Lawrence, chairman of the Democratic Committee of Allegheny County and chairman of the committee of Democrats favoring metropolitan charter, presided. The meeting was held in committee headquarters in the Pittsburgher Hotel.

Charged Grating Knocks Down Two in Dover

DOVER, O., June 22. — Two pedestrians were knocked down when they walked on the iron grating in front of the Dover Building, and Loan Building. A short-circuit in an electric sign wire charged the grating.

CHARTER HELD POWER GOAL

"Every line of the Metropolitan Charter shows the hand of the power ttrust," A. J. Richards, president of the League of Municipalities Opposed to the Metropolitan Plan, told an audience in the Versailles High School last night.

"It is only a bill of rights to enable the public utilities companies to take over the county and sell he Pittsburgh Railways company to Allegheny County," he continued.

He declared that as soon as the charter passes the whole county will be declared a special district and assessed to pay for a subway for Pittsburgh, and that as soon as the subway is built it will be leased to the Pittsburgh Railways company.

Special Musical Service Planned

"The Way of Peace" will be the Rev. J. E. B. McIlroy's topic tomorrow at 11 a. m. in the North Presbyterian Church, North Lincoln avenue. A musical service will be offered at 8 p. m.

PASTORS ASKED TO AID CHARTER

Support of the Metropolitan charter is asked of every minister in Allegheny County in a circular issued by a committee of local churchmen. It is pointed out that the original charter was drawn up by a non-political and non-partisan commission, and, notwithstanding changes made by the Legislature, it still deserves the support of all classes of citizens at the special election to be held Tuesday next, June 25.

In a statement to the ministers, asking their co-operation, the committee declares:

CO-OPERATION ASKED

"We have gone into the matter thoroughly and believe that the charter should receive the vote of all good citizens of Allegheny County. It provides for home rule on the part of all the municipalities of the county, and forever protects them from forcible annexation to the present city of Pittsburgh.

"The charter contains many provisions for a more democratic, public and efficient government of the greater city as compared with the present county government. Three members of this board must be elected from the present city of Pittsburgh, three from three districts designated outside of the city, and one at large. If the charter is adopted it will put Pittsburgh fourth in rank in the United States.

The Allegheny County Association of Township Supervisors is the latest county organization to indorse the Metropolitan charter. In a resolution passed by the supervisors it is pointed out that the integrity of the townships is guaranteed only through the operation of the charter, and that otherwise the territory is in danger of forcible annexation to the city.

OTHERS INDORSE MOVE

"As a representative of a body devoted to the civic interests of Pittsburgh motorists, I urge very progressive citizen to vote favorably for the Metropolitan charter," said C. H. Roth, secretary of the Pittsburgh Motor Club, in giving his indorsement to the Greater Pittsburgh charter. "Every qualified voter should claim his share in the creation of a great Metropolitan city—Pittsburgh, fourth in the country. It is a civic duty incumbent on all who are entitled by law to cast their votes."

Mrs. Della Hershey, of the Allegheny County League of Women Voters, and Grover G. Delaney, of Glassport, will be the speakers tonight at a community meeting in Penn Township at the Moose temple, Universal.

How Per Capita Tax Will Be Reduced By the

Metropolitan City Plan

OVER the past few years Allegheny county has entered into a tremendous and necessary program of public improvements. A part of this program has been completed, with benefits which are plain. Other portions of the development yet are to be carried out. And in their wake will come the need for a continuation of public construction projects, imperative if the county is to meet the needs of expansion.

The improvements already authorized are a bonded debt against the people of Allegheny county, falling equally on the residents of all sections. It all must be paid by industrial concerns, business houses, home and farm owners, apportioned to every resident of Allegheny county. This is the only debt to be assumed by the Metropolitan City.

The Metropolitan Charter to be voted on Tuesday, June 25th, offers an opportunity to deal with these inescapable costs in a manner which should lessen the individual burden to present citizens of Allegheny county.

The charter creates a federated city within Allegheny county which will be fourth in size in the United States. Unquestionably this proud census rating will turn the eyes of the United States and other nations toward Pittsburgh with a new appreciation of its greatness. The industrial potentialities of this district will be dramatized as never before.

That means we shall become the site of new industry. These industries will create greater employment, and bring more people. There will thus be greater assets in the county, increased sources from which to draw the money for the debt now existing and to be incurred. There will thus be a per capita reduction in taxes, beneficial to those now living in Allegheny county. Other cities, notably Philadelphia, are paying millions of dollars for advertising of less value than Allegheny county will receive from the Metropolitan Plan.

This is simple economics. When understood it offers a fundamental reason for voting for the Metropolitan charter, Tuesday, June 25th.

SERMONETTE

"GOD IS COMING BACK"

By DR. JOHN RAY EWERS, East End Christian Church, South Highland Avenue at Alder Street, East End

THE world moves forward in cycles—each turn of the wheel finds us farther on. We are emerging from a period when men have tried living without God. Walter Lippman in "The Preface to Morals" reflects the orphaned feeling of a society without God. He also shows how the novelists of expressionism, looking at life only as biologists, find it rather meaningless. Healthy youth always turns naturally to idealism and loves the heroic. Any view which leaves out the higher love of beauty, the nobler expressions of love, the heroic sacrifice for a cause, the influence of ideals—is too narrow in its range. We must includes all the facts. With everything to live with, many find nothing to live for. Cars, radios and bathrooms cannot satisfy.

Rev. J. R. Ewers

One summer morning, at Estes Park, I looked out and the great mountain, Long's Peak, was gone. The world was flat and dull. Then the heavy mists floated away and my mountain was still there. It is even so with God; and the mists which have obscured, but never destroyed him, are lifting. God is coming back.

Hackett uses a fine figure. He says that, in feudal days, the plain man, without the Lord, was as a clapper without the bell, no significance, nothing to make music, no relative value. Without God a man is as a clapper without the bell.

Everybody has paid entirely too much attention to doubts and fears. Modernists have been too negative; Fundamentalists have been too fearful. God still reigns, and we will do well to live as tho that were the eternal truth. Dr. Millikan, who spoke at the Tech Commencement, believes heartily in God—so do most great men and women. To doubt God cuts the nerve of noble action. Humanism lacks motive power. Naturalism is only natural when it includes God.

Once men thought that they had banished Napoleon. Then a whisper ran over France: "He is back." Those who had injured him, trembled; those who had favored him, smiled. Just when many had thought that God was banished, a thrill runs thru the world: "He is coming back."

Nature's Secret Scent

SCENT-MAKING experts are baffled by the aroma of the "Portadown Fragrance," the new prize-winning rose from Ulster. It is like the perfume of an old cottage garden, but one authority considers it a blend of verbena and tea rose.

Mat Is Melancholy After Nancy Phones Him and Breaks Engagement

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER II.

ALL that night, while a restless wind rattled the stiff leaves of the magnolia tree, and blew the heavy sweet scent of stock and jasmine and mamma's winy Spanish roses through the wide open windows, Nancy tossed in bed.

If, like Romeo of old, Mat Tully had come softly back through the garden, and showed a dark head at her window, Nancy's story would have been different. She would have gone with him then, had he asked her, without a backward look for the disapproving family.

But he didn't come, of course. He had said not a word to her of love. "Maybe he doesn't care as much as I do," she thought, threshing about hopelessly. "Maybe it's just as people say, and I'm just in love with love!"

She felt cheated then, and cried a little in the dark. The lumpy mattress sagged under her slight weight, the too-short sheet worked down, so that the rough blanket scratched her neck.

Oh for NICE things! A boudoir like May Belle Craig's, with exotic lacquered furniture, and a silken, downy quilt.

"Why shouldn't I have them as well as May Belle? Why do we have to be so poor? Why do I have to go and fall in love with somebody who's poor, too?" And then, rebelliously, "Well—I won't. I'll get over it. I'll just put him out of my mind. I won't see him again . . . I'll just . . . forget him . . ."

She wept then. Brokenheartedly. But the tears were for herself, not Mat Tully. After all, she had been spoiled. She was only 19. Love had touched her but lightly.

"Mat?" Nancy Hollenbeck's voice, lilting and lovely, came caressingly over the wire, and all the irritation he had felt at being disturbed at the busiest moment of a busy day disappeared . . . puff! as suddenly flimsy as a soap bubble.

"Yes, this is Mat!" His voice, clipped and disinterested a minute ago before he knew who it was, changed miraculously. He moved a little nearer to the phone. "Say, this is great! How did you know where to call me? This is a pretty big old university, full of laboratories—"

"Oh, I told them I just had to have Matthew Tully, who was working on some dry old chemistry research—"

"You didn't!"

"Yes I did, and I said it was terribly important—"

"Of course it's important. It's always important to hear from you. What time am I going to see you tonight?"

The experiment he had been tending so absorbedly seethed in its frail glass tube, but he had forgotten about it. He remembered only Nancy, Nancy with the hair that was the color of bronze, and smelled like spice, Nancy whose lips were red and promising, whose skin was soft and white.

And her voice came, sweeter than ever, "Oh, that's why I phoned. Mat, I'm so sorry. But I can't go . . . No, really I can't. I can't possibly!"

Before he had exhausted half of his arguments she escaped, pleading that she just couldn't keep him from work another minute, and he was left with the ruined experiment—some three weeks of patient work gone up in smoke—and a sneaking suspicion that he had been made a fool of.

"If that's the way she feels about it, ALL RIGHT!" He went back to work with a vengeance. But nothing progressed as it should, so he stopped and lit his pipe and sat there in the small, littered lab, trying to concentrate on the rows of figures on the yellow checked paper that represented so many hours of patient labor.

It wasn't easy to put Nancy out of mind, once you had seen her. She was too vital, too disturbingly alive. Too softly, fragrantly lovely. He kept remembering the absurd way her eyelashes curled back, the way her hair twined itself around your fingers when you touched it—soft, babyish ringlets. The eager lilting way she laughed.

"I wish I'd never set eyes on her!" he groaned, staring at the closely penciled yellow sheets, and seeing Nancy instead.

"I never heard of anything so silly!" Louise Hollenbeck stormed, coming in just in time to see Nancy hang up the receiver, and burst into tears. "If you wanted to go, why didn't you? Making up a great big lie, and then crying about it!"

"Mamma," Nancy wailed. "Mamma s-spoiled everything. I never want to see him again. Never."

"How could mamma spoil it when she hasn't seen him? What do you listen to her for?"

"I don't. But just the same, I don't want to go and . . . and . . . fall in love right now, when I'm just starting to have a little fun . . . if I were older, like you, Lou, I wouldn't mind . . . but when I'm just starting out, and everything ahead—"

Louise's hand clutched the chair. So tight that the veins stood out in dark, purplish knots. "How do you know there's anything ahead? Maybe when you're 24 . . . oh, for Pete's sake stop crying, will you? Such a fuss over a man!"

But Nancy wept on softly, and grumbling. Louise went and got the witch hazel and cotton for her eyes. "Here, take this. Don't be an idiot. Besides, you haven't really given him up! He'll be at the Craig's house party Friday!"

Every year, ever since they could remember, the Hollenbeck girls had spent the summer with the Craig's.

"Of course I want you too, Kitty," Mrs. Craig, who had gone to Mrs. Small's Select Seminary for Young Ladies with Mrs. Hollenbeck, always said.

But that was just a polite gesture. Cora Craig and her little circle who had known Kitty Hollenbeck when she was Kitty Peebles, knew perfectly well that she never went anywhere any more. How could she on Peter Hollenbeck's miserable salary, and without even one servant in the house? It was the world's wonder that the girls managed to keep up appearances as well as they did.

For weeks they had been busy getting ready. At least Louise had, and mamma ineffectually followed her about the house, trailing bits of lace and chiffon, emerging, triumphant, from dark clothes with ancient hats and scuffed satin slippers. "Look Louise, if we have this blocked, and get some new ribbon, don't you think it would be sweet? These slippers are practically as good as new. With the heels straightened, and half soles . . ." It drove Lou nearly mad, especially with Nancy failing her the last minute, mooning in corners, and no help at all.

"Nancy, if you don't get in and help we won't be able to go!" she threatened for the last time, when Thursday was almost gone, and still a thousand things left to do.

"Don't nag—there's all kinds of time!" But after a moment she laid down her book and went into the kitchen, where the ironing board was laid, and last year's resurrected summer dresses still faintly warm and damp from Lou's iron, hung dejectedly over chairs.

How shabby everything seemed. The limp organdies, the faded linens, even the new things, waiting to be pressed.

"For two pins I wouldn't go," she announced flatly, as Mrs. Hollenbeck, laden with old hats Louise had refused to have anything to do with, paused on her way to the basement.

"It's that Mr. Tully—she's afraid of seeing him again!" Mamma thought clairvoyant for once. And aloud, "I thought you girls loved camp! The Craig's beautiful place!"

"That's just it," Nancy seized on the idea. "The Craig's beautiful place, and the same beautiful mugs every year. Same girls, same men. Mat Tully is the only new one in three years, and we've already discussed him. What good does it do us, going there? A little fun, and then it's all over. With one decent trip we'd get more out of it than 40 years at the Craig's. Look at Alice Bulwinkle, with her piano legs. Who'd pay any attention to her here? And she went to Honolulu, and they RAVED over her!"

Honolulu. In her mind's eye mamma saw her girls, prettier than Alice Bulwinkle by far, taking Honolulu by storm, coming back with engagement rings. The Orient is so romantic, so full of eligible bachelors . . .

"Maybe next year. Of course it is very expensive, with two young ladies. Still if papa . . . we'll see," she murmured, the tears for today's tragedy forgotten in the thrill of tomorrow's triumph. "If only your Aunt Ellie would be a little more generous she could do so much . . . still if papa's oil stock pays . . . it would be nice to sail on the Aloha, the captain was so polite when the Somertons sailed last winter . . ."

Mamma was happy, day dreaming again. Mamma who lived in her own make-believe world. Shutting her eyes to the hard, ugly truth that was always threatening her happiness. Ignoring bills, ignoring this new, rich society that wouldn't recognize her girls. Ignoring papa's increasing age and infirmities, the genteel shabbiness of the house. Pretending. Pretending she wasn't worrying. Worrying about everything. Everything but the girls.

"Nancy, you aren't going to take your best kimono! To trail in that dusty camp?" She came out of her day dream with a start, at sight of her hitherto indolent daughter energetically pressing the pleats of a pale coral chiffon.

And Nancy, who a minute ago wasn't going, lifted brown velvet eyes, alight with a curious Mona Lisa smile and said firmly, "I certainly am going to take it. And the satin mules, and the cream georgette nightie too."

"But, dear, you won't need them, and it's so dusty. Surely you won't have any use for—"

Nancy continued to smile, that faint, secret smile. "I might, you never can tell."

While her mother had dreamed of Honolulu, absently eating raisins from a box someone had left open on the sink, Nancy's thoughts had been on more practical things. Almost at the moment of renouncing the Craigs and their camp forever, she had thought of a reason—a very special reason for being there, looking her best.

In spite of Nancy's last-minute spurt, her frantic packing, they missed the morning train and didn't get off until afternoon. So there was no one to meet them as they got out in front of the big rambling shingle house the Craigs called "camp." Louise paid the ramshackle taxi, and ran for Sam, the old Chinaman, to bring in the bags. "Looks just the same," she sighed, and Nancy, flicking dust off her lizard skin pumps with a pocket handkerchief, whispered, "Did you expect it to be different?"

Just the same. The same soft white dust blanketing the road, powdering the bracken that grew thirstily beside it. The same hot fragrant walks through the redwoods, the same cool, swift flowing river. The same gently swinging Japanese lanterns, the same wicker chairs, painted green, in the chintz-hung sun room.

The same girls. May Belle Craig, fresh and cool from a dip in the river, clattered down the stairs when she heard their voices, her high heels clicking, painted mouth stretched into a wide, welcoming grin.

"You and Nancy. We expected you to Lunch, you villains! What a crime you had to come in alone. We thought of course you'd be on tomorrow's train, the afternoon one is so hot. Mother dear, here are the girls!"

Mrs. Craig, who looked very much as Mrs. Hollenbeck would have looked if she could have afforded a facial every week and henna packs for her hair, kissed them both perfunctorily and asked for their dear mother with a little puckering of the lips for Nancy, who just a bit too affluent in biscuit colored homespun, with a smart brown hat and mamma's fox fur, only a little worn on the inside.

"Hello, Nan; hello, Lou!" Vera Patton, the fat, good-natured daughter of ex-Gov. Patton, and Helen Heffinger, another veteran "camper," followed Mrs. Craig, and right on their heels Cary Fleming and Gil Neal, and Neal's cousin, Frank Haworth.

"Time for a dip before dinner, Nancy! Get into your bathing suit, atta girl!"

"Go drown yourself, will you, Gil? I was talking! Nan and I are going to try out the new canoe—"

May Belle and Helen exchanged significant glances. "Of course . . . if she's going to spoil everything!"

The same old story. "This is positively the last year!" Louise groaned inwardly, following the Chinaman upstairs with the bags and trying to concentrate on whether to tip him now or later.

In the end she decided to let him wait and was just saying "Thank you" as sweetly as she could when Nancy, having scattered her court, burst into the room behind and began feverishly to rouge her lips and powder her already well powdered nose at the one small mirror.

"I almost got caught! I saw him coming, and I couldn't get away from the idiots, and I knew just the way I looked, with my nose shining, and covered with dust from head to foot—"

"I thought you were soured on Mat Tully," Louise said slowly.

Nancy laid down the puff with real exasperation. "Mat Tully? Who said anything about him? You've got him on the brain. Just because I kind of liked him at first, you keep harping on him. If you weren't a man-hater I'd think you liked him yourself!"

"Don't be silly!" the older girl laughed, a shade too quickly, and then catching herself, she added more naturally, "Besides, there isn't anyone else to impress, is there?"

"Of course. Didn't I tell you Jack Beamer is coming for a week?"

Nancy stared at herself long and critically in the mirror before she answered: "Not permanently, do you think?"

KEEPING TROUBLE

By N. FLORENCE LEECH

Daily Short Story

IT was the second anniversary of Estelle and Kenneth Walker's marriage, and love lay like a benediction about them. The tiny bungalow was immaculate, the dinner, which was just finished, had been perfect. Shaded lights were reflected in the best silver, and the air was fragrant with the scent of roses.

Now they sat in the living room side by side, on the chesterfield, like a pair of lovers. Estelle laid her cheek against Ken's shoulder with a sigh suspiciously like a sob.

"What is the matter, dear?" Ken demanded in alarm.

"N-nothing," his wife answered, "but we are so perfectly happy, I'm afraid something terrible is going to happen to us!"

"Ye Gods!" muttered Ken, gathering his wife protectingly into his arms. "Talk about borrowing trouble!"

Estelle laughed nervously. "Of course I'm foolish, dear. Come help me straighten the dining room, then we'll take turns reading aloud from that new book."

But Estelle's mind still dwelt on the prospects of trouble. "By the law of averages," she insisted seriously, as she sloshed the dish mop in the sudsy water, "we're bound to have trouble some time. The house will catch on fire, or we'll be in an automobile accident or, or—"

"Aunt Lilly will visit us!" Ken ended.

"Hush," shivered Estelle, "you might materialize her! If she knew we had this lovely little home, she'd have descended on us before this!"

Ken laughed. "I apologize for my aunt," he said. "Remember, I didn't choose her, I inherited her."

"We've done well to escape her for two years," sighed Estelle. "She thinks we're still in a crowded apartment, with noisy neighbors."

Three hours later the Walkers were awakened from their sleep by an imperative ringing of the doorbell. Estelle watched with frightened eyes as Ken started for the front door in bathrobe and slippers. He paused to kiss her.

"Stop borrowing trouble," he admonished.

A half minute later, "Ye Gods!" Estelle heard.

She flew to the door, where Ken was bending over a large bundle. "What is it?" she whispered.

Ken straightened, and stared first up and then down the dark, deserted street. "Gone!" he cried. "Vanished!"

"Ken—what is it?" Estelle wailed.

Without answering he picked up the bundle and returned to the living room. A sudden wail—the bundle moved spasmodically. A baby—a baby had been abandoned on their doorstep.

There was no more sleep for them that night. Ken talked, now patiently, now savagely, into the phone. He could bring the child to police headquarters in the morning, they informed him. No, they couldn't send for it now. Morning would be soon enough. Estelle warmed and cuddled the tiny helpless mite of humanity, and fed it milk from a spoon and an improvised linen nipple. The baby cried, finally slept and awakened to cry again.

"Poor little Tommy Trouble," Estelle smiled, wearily.

At 8 o'clock they started to the police station with the baby. As they closed the front door behind them, a messenger boy came up the walk.

"More trouble!" quavered Estelle. Ken ripped open the telegram. "Yea gods!" he groaned.

"Thirty-five cents," the boy reminded him, coolly.

Estelle was reading the message: "Arriving 9 a. m. May spend winter with you. Love and a kiss. Aunt Lilly."

The baby forgotten, Ken and Estelle re-entered the house.

"What'll we do?" Ken cried. "Our winter will be ruined."

"She'll love it here, it's so comfortable and quiet, she'll never leave."

As if in sympathy, Tommy Trouble began wailing, and Estelle, her hands over her face, sobbed aloud.

"Ye Gods! Hush, darling! Hush, you little imp! Hus—" Ken sprang to his feet, the last "hush" unfinished.

"Darling, I've an idea," he cried. "There's the answer!" He pointed frantically to the kicking, howling baby. We'll pretend that it is ours!"

Estelle swallowed a sob, gave an estatic giggle. "Ken, you are a genius! We'll turn the guest room into a nursery. Phone the police and tell them we want to keep the baby a few days. I'll borrow Mrs. Redd's baby crib. She'll loan us everything we need."

In little more than an hour a taxi drew up at the curb, and a tall, hook-nosed woman alighted. "I expected you to meet me at the station," was her greeting, when Ken approached.

"I couldn't leave Estelle, Aunt Lilly," he answered, meekly, "she isn't strong yet, you know."

"Has she been sick?"

Ken drew his aunt into the living room without answering. Estelle sat on the chesterfield, the baby in her arms. "How do you do, Aunt Lilly?" she said. "Come look at the baby. Isn't he sweet?"

"Baby!" gasped Aunt Lilly. The querulous voice set the child whimpering.

"There, there, Tommy," soothed Estelle. "He is a terribly light sleeper," she added. "Take Aunt Lilly's things, Ken. Put them—somewhere," she ended vaguely.

Aunt Lilly sat down heavily on an overstuffed chair. "I am astounded," she declared. "Cousin Maria, when I was there last month, told me all about your lovely new home, and said it was so comfortable and so quiet—" her words trailed off as Tommy redoubled his wails.

"That," answered Estelle, "was a month ago. If you'll excuse me, I must fix Tommy's formula now. Ken, you might show Aunt Lilly the nursery."

Three days passed. Aunt Lilly developed neuritis, caused, she declared, by sleeping on a drafty day bed in the living room—when she slept at all, she added, with a bitter glance in the direction of the baby.

"Ken is good about walking the floor with Tommy," Estelle replied. "And Tommy is strong. He has wonderful lungs. I don't know why he cries so much, he isn't sick," she added.

"He's got a temper," answered Aunt Lilly.

"Then it must be from Ken's side of the house. His eyes are brown like yours, Aunt Lilly."

"Bah!" Aunt Lilly exploded. "I feel that I owe it to myself not to stay here longer. I have decided to go out to Cousin Janie's in California. If I like the climate, I shall buy myself a bungalow, in a quiet neighborhood where I can sleep nights. I am tired of visiting my relations."

A few more hours, and Ken, Estelle and the baby had seen Aunt Lilly off on the Overland Limited. With a mutual sigh of relief they entered the automobile to return home.

"We'll stop at the station house and return Borrowed Trouble," he said jubilantly.

Estelle kissed the flushed little face. "If you don't mind, I'd like to keep him, Ken," she answered.

Meditations of a Wife

By HELEN ROWLAND

Woman's Intuition

EVERY woman is her own fortune teller.

Man may love to have barometers, charts, weather bureaus and all sorts of things to tell him what is going to happen. But a woman doesn't need any seers or signs to foretell a thing for her. Especially if it's a calamity.

* * *

She KNOWS it, by her fatal gift of INTUITION! That is her tragedy. She always "suffers" before she is hurt as well as afterward.

HELEN ROWLAND

Her prescience is something uncanny! She doesn't have to be born with a caul in order to foresee when a man is going to do something he shouldn't do. Or when he is going to fail to do something he should do!

* * *

She is acutely aware that he is going to forget to mail the letter, or to return the umbrella, or to put the garage key under the mat, even while she trustingly hands it to him.

* * *

She knows, just by the way the telephone bell tinkles, when HE is at the other end of the wire and is going to break a date or a promise.

* * *

She "feels in her bones" that he is lying when he assures her that he will break away from the poker game at midnight. Or that he hasn't had a drink. Or that he will put out the hall light, when he comes in. But what good does THAT do her?

* * *

The very sight of the new vamp on the country club piazza, or the new blonde on the beach gives her a cold chill. Her premonition tells her that danger is near, and that, already, the summer is as good as spoiled for HER.

* * *

She knows, while he is still in a fever of ecstacy over his new job or his new deal, that the thing is going to fall through or fizzle out, or that the stock is going down, or that the market won't break right.

She knows that he is in love with her, months before HE even suspects it. She has the bridesmaids and the wedding decorations all picked out before he has stopped wondering whether her eyes are gray or hazel.

* * *

She knows, weeks before he does, that it isn't going to "take;" that the affair is beginning to bore him, and that he has begun unconsciously to look around for a new diversion. But what can she do about it?

* * *

She knows when it is going to rain and spoil the picnic. When the car is going to break down. When the cake is going to fall. When the letter contains bad news. When she isn't going to enjoy the party, when she is going to have a headache, and when she is going to DIE!

* * *

That's woman's fatal Premonition! The curse of woman—and the despair of man! Sent upon all the daughters of Eve as a punishment for the first woman's curiosity.

* * *

Eve wanted to KNOW! And now woman knows everything BEFORE it happens! But what GOOD does it do her?

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Pre-School Age the Period for Caution

ONE-THIRD of all the deaths in the United States occur under the age of six years. It has been shown that there are 10 times as many deaths during the five years before school age, as during the full 10 years of school life.

DR. COPELAND

There can be no doubt that the first five years of life are the most important from the health standpoint. If we could take charge of these children and give a foundation of good health, we would change the medical map of America.

I want you to know what a great authority said along this line. I quote: "The susceptibility to infection is generally greater the younger the child. Over 80 per cent of all cases of diphtheria and of all deaths from diphtheria occur before the age of 5. Malnutrition, likewise, is more prevalent among pre-school than among school children. Rickets, a disorder of nutrition, is almost as common as dental caries and is essentially a pre-school disease. Approximately 15 per cent of 3,000 pre-school children clinically examined in Gary, Ind., showed bony defects of rachitic origin. With few exceptions, the typical physical defects of school children, such as malnutrition and nose and throat troubles, are more prevalent among pre-school children."

I am not surprised that this authority expresses his indignation over our neglect of the young children. "Fundamentally this situation grows out of the fact that we have been slow in appreciating the medical and developmental significance of the early years of childhood. We have intrusted these years too completely to the unaided home and to Providence."

These are the years that children must be watched with the greatest vigilance. The early years are the important ones. From babyhood to school age is the period when many ailments are waiting their chance to attack the precious life.

I shall be glad when every school board makes it a point to determine the state of health of all children applying for admission to the public schools. This is the time when parents should be advised of the necessity for correcting existing physical defects. It is to be hoped that everybody will learn the importance of this period and of restoring to normal condition the little ones who will enter school next fall. Begin now.

Answers to Health Queries

C. C. Q.—Can hoarseness, caused by tubercular laryngitis that has persisted throughout the treatment, be outgrown or remedied where there is only a slight lung condition present? When is tuberculosis considered curable?

A.—This would depend upon the condition of the throat—it should respond to treatment if the tubercular condition is slight. Have your doctor advise you. If tuberculosis is taken in the early stages there is very often a good chance of a permanent cure. In this case also, however, the extent and seriousness of the trouble plays an important part.

L. C. N. Q.—What causes my right nostril to bleed just as soon as I lie on my right side?

A.—It would be wise to see a nose specialist. Perhaps you have some sort of obstruction in your nose causing the nose bleeds.

C. R. Q.—What exercise will create a greater chest expansion? 2. What do you advise for blackheads? 3. What will promote the growth of the lashes?

A.—Deep breathing exercises will help. 2. Correct the diet, by cutting down on sugar, starches and coffee. Eat simple foods. Avoid poor elimination. 3. Apply vaseline to the eyelashes at night.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

The Pleasant "Thank You"

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Should a girl thank a gentleman for opening a door for her when entering a store or any other public place? I mean somebody who sees a lady going to the door and opens it for her. Or is it all right just to smile when one does not know the gentleman?

JEANINE.

THE gentleman should be thanked for his courtesy. We women must band together to prove untrue the accusation that many men now make about us—that we do not thank them for just this kind of courtesy, and also for their gallantry when they give us their seat in a car or subway! A "Thank you" is such a thoroughly pleasant and amiable thing to say that I cannot understand why some people shy away from saying it. Don't hoard your thank-you's—spend them. And it is comforting to realize that the more you spend them the more you have to spend.

Remove First Ring

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Is it correct for a widow (a mother) to remove her wedding ring upon receiving an engagement ring? Or does she wear the first wedding ring up till the time of marriage, when she accepts the second?

2. I have seen many widows wear their wedding rings upon their right hand. Is that correct, or just an idea of their own?

B. B.

WHEN the second marriage is decided upon, that is, when the engagement for the second marriage is decided on, a widow should remove the engagement ring and wedding ring of her first husband. That is the reasonable thing to do, and the only decent thing to do. It is certainly not kind to her new husband for her to continue to wear the rings.

2. It is just an idea of their own, and a very poor idea. It is not in any way correct—indeed, it is in very bad taste. Etiquette in this matter, as in all cases, follows the lines of common sense and decency, and it is not sensible that a widow wear the rings of both husbands.

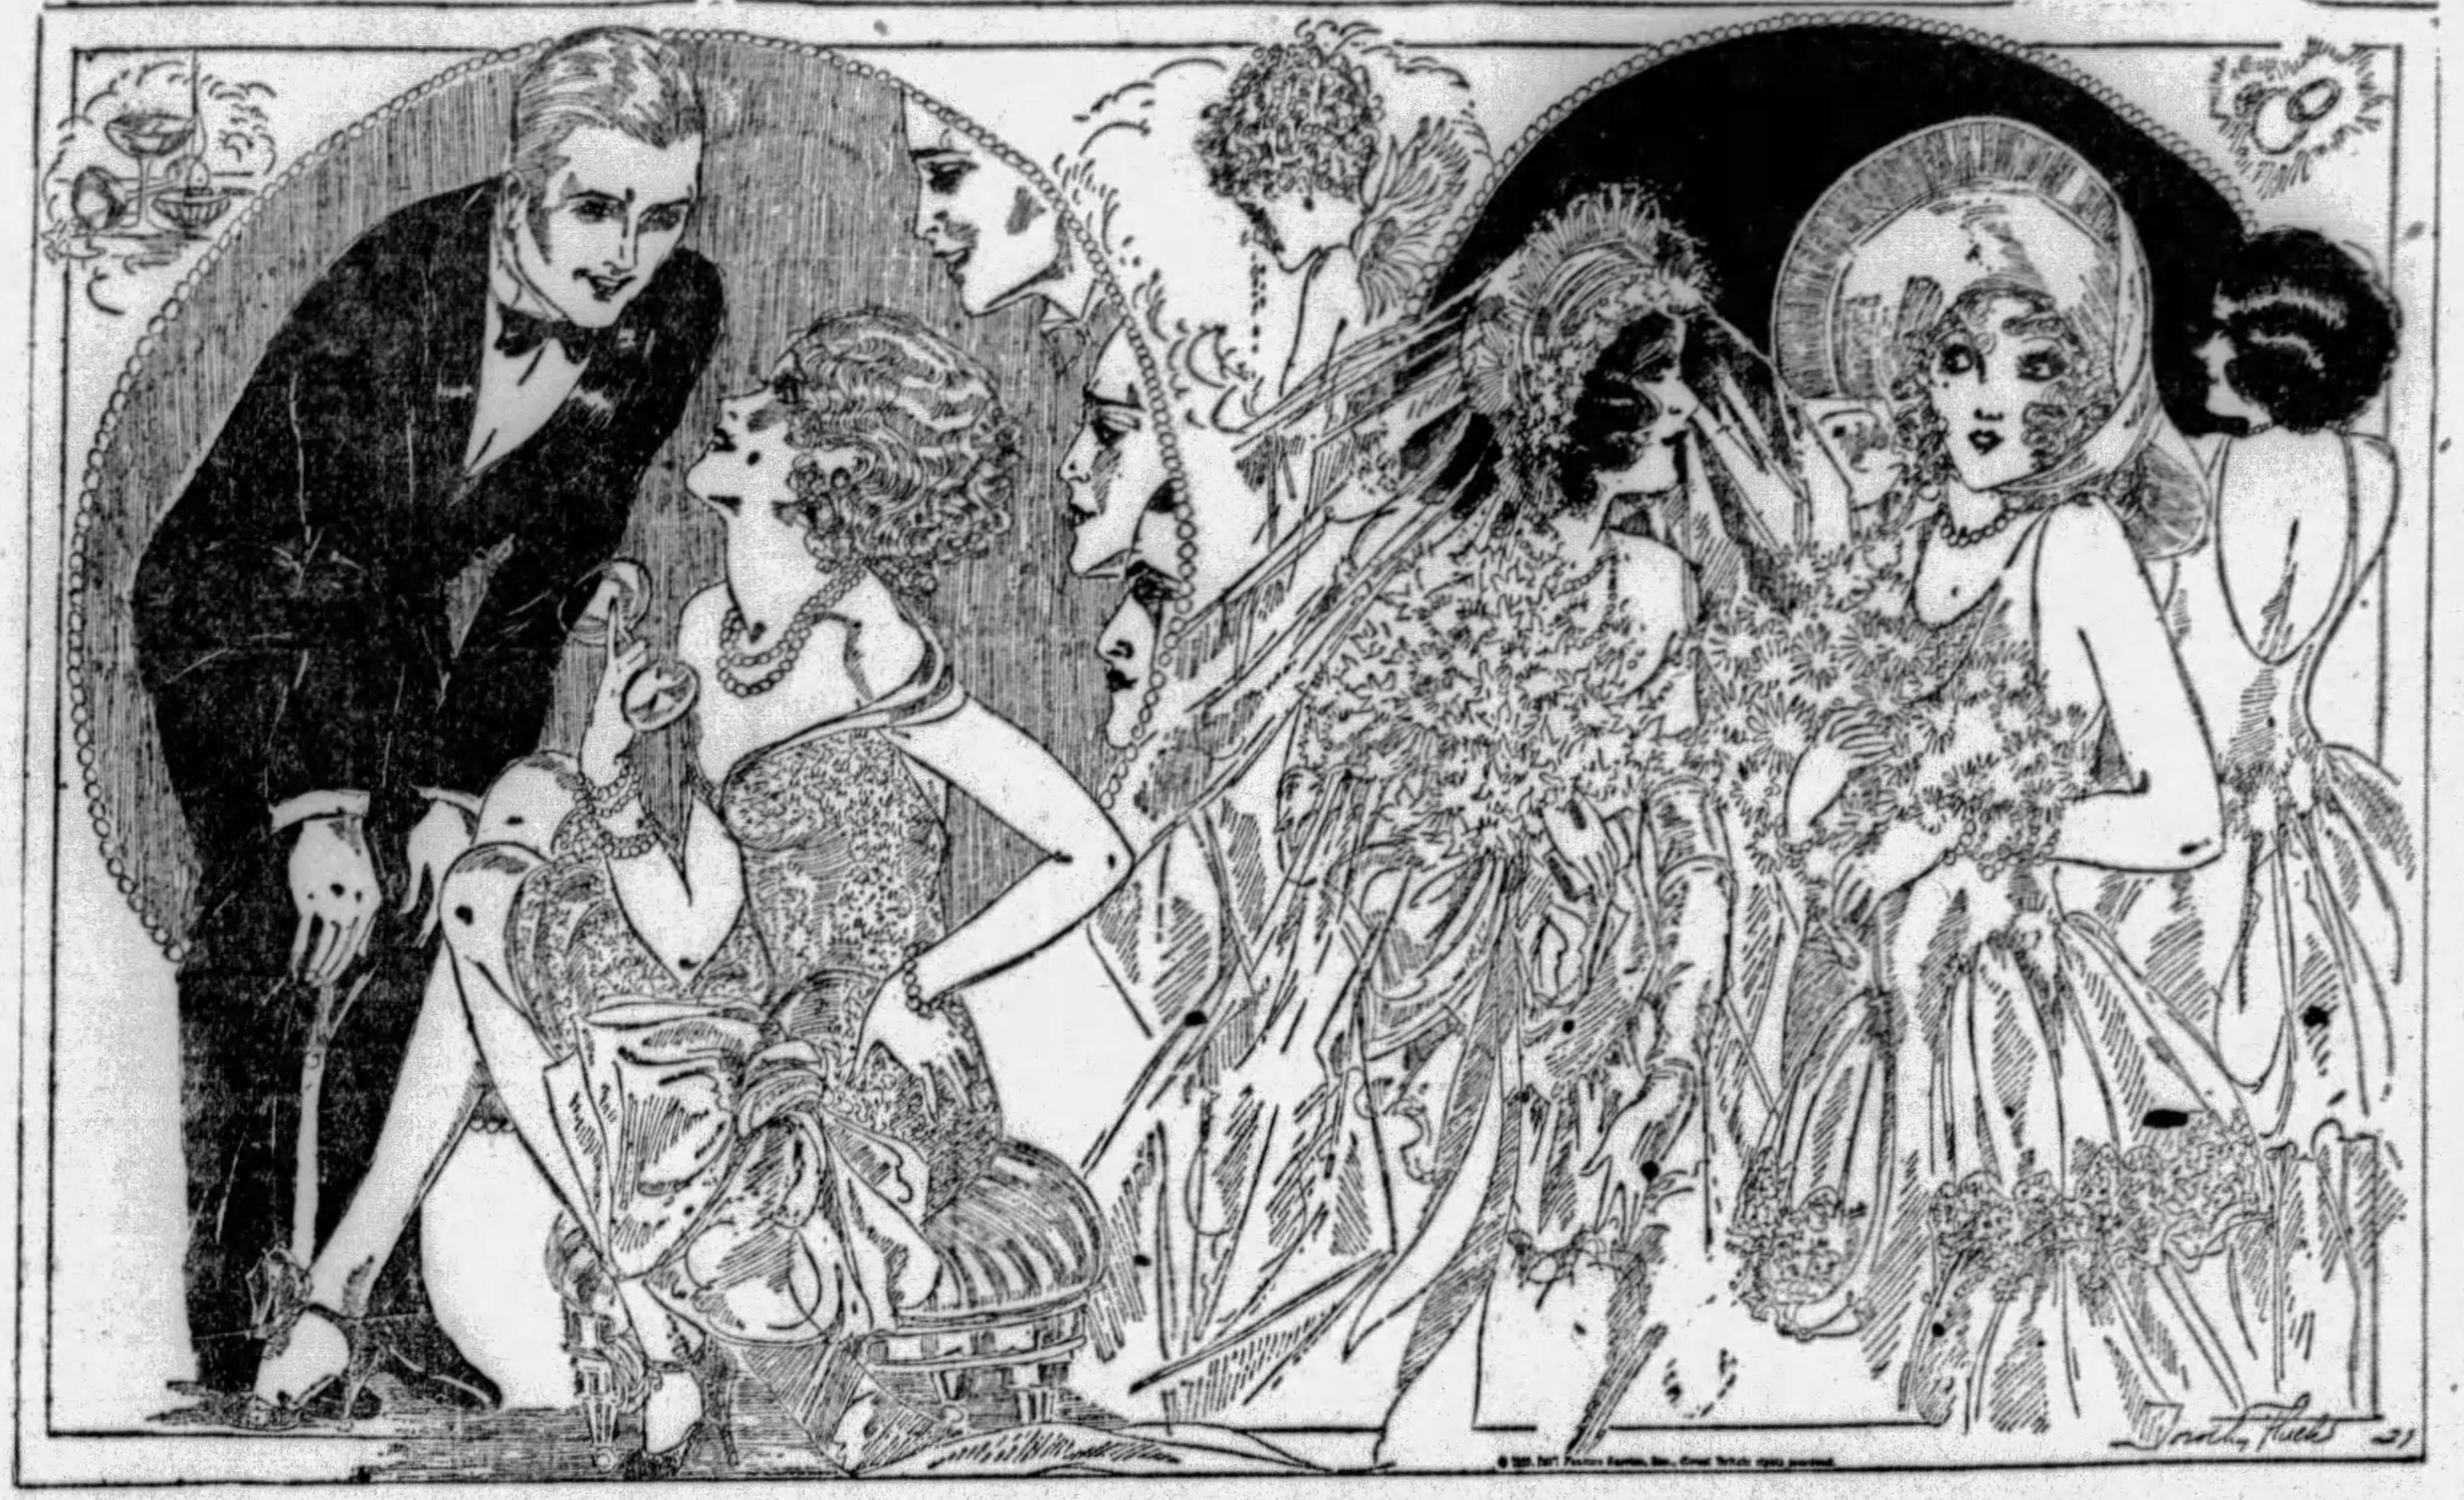
THE LIFE OF THE PARTY

Drawn by Dorothy Flack



YOU know the type girl I'm showing you today. We all know her! The girl who insists in holding the center of the stage wherever she may happen to be. All Winter long she has been gathering the men around her like flies around a honey pot. Every new dance that comes out, she knows before anyone else. Every new style she wears long before others have even heard of it. The new plays are old to her when everyone else is just beginning to talk about them. She insists in being first all the time. If you are doubtful about the success of your party, you ask her, because she's "The Life of the Party."

But somehow when June comes around, she's lost! She's forced to the background by girls who have been quiet, demure, hardly heard of. True, she's asked to be bridesmaid, or maid of honor at the lovely weddings, but all the attention is centered on the lovely bride, and Miss Life-of-the-Party is just a bridesmaid!

That's a way Love has! Love doesn't seek the most conspicious; in fact, doesn't like anything that makes for attention and seeks notoriety. So the Life of the Party is left way at the end of Love's Procession. And she wonders about it. The men seem to have been enchanted by her loveliness, but when they sought a bride, they passed her by for her more demure sisters.

Perhaps she'll learn a lesson, for it's gall and wormwood to her to be "simply a bridesmaid."

If you seek Love, do it in a quiet, simple way. Don't stand up and shout at him and dare him to come to you. You simply scare him away. And perhaps next year, you'll be the center of attraction and someone else will be "just a bridesmaid."

LOVE'S AWAKENING

A Continuation of Love's Embers

By ADELE GARRISON

Family Bids Good-Bye to Marion and Wonders At Her Elation.

HARRY UNDERWOOD'S nonsense always banishes any threatened unpleasantness. Dicky tried to look resentfully dignified at his friend's gibing, but failed and laughed instead.

"Now that you've done your one good deed today," he said, "suppose you get back to cases. How early do we have to start?"

I knew that the matter of Edith Fairfax's week-end invitation was not settled—only postponed for the present—but I was glad to accept the truce. Dicky's query had been put to his friend, but Mr. Underwood waved a languid hand in my direction.

"There is the capable chatelaine, who, according to Lillian, has charge of all arrangements."

"Then we'll get under way a few minutes after midnight," Dicky growled.

"It's not that bad," I said, "but we will have to start at daybreak. We've the whole length of the island to travel, New York traffic and probably that of Newark to go through, to say nothing of all the smaller towns, and Marion wants to get to the school as early in the afternoon as possible."

"How far is the school from Jersey City?" Mr. Underwood asked.

"Sixty miles," I returned. "But you needn't get that speculative look in your eye. We've got to allow for possible breakdowns or accidents, and we've planned to start as soon as it's light enough to see the road."

"You remember the old woman who told the Fifth avenue traffic cop that she always allowed herself time to fall down twice when she crossed a street and wanted to know if the red signal would stay that long?" Dicky's grin at Harry Underwood, with a sidelong malicious glance at me, pointed the allusion. "But there's no use kicking, dearly beloved brother. If the women have decided to start at daylight we'd better roll in and get some sleep. For they'll start on schedule, darn 'em. I know 'em.

His rueful prophecy was justified, for the two cars rolled out of the farmyard gate the next morning when the sun was only a promise on the gradually lightening eastern horrizon. Katie had been up long before preparing Marion's favorite breakfast dishes, and her tearful farewell to the child she loved next to Junior was still audible at the gate.

"I do hope Marion won't be upset by that," Lillian said anxiously. "It's hard enough for her to leave home, anyway. Can you see her, Madge?" She twisted herself around to see Dicky's car behind us, in which it had been agreed that Marion should ride until we reached the town where the men were to leave us. "Why, Madge, she's actually laughing."

Her voice held stark wonderment, and I knew that her daughter's lightheartedness was sorely puzzling her. When Marion had gone away to school for the first time, only the year before, our hearts had ached for the child—she was so plainly distressed at leaving her mother. She had been quiet at breakfast time, but I, watching her closely, had decided that reluctance to appear jubilant before her mother instead of the disinclination to leave home was responsible for her silence. And as my eyes followed Lillian's gaze I saw that the young girl, unconscious of her mother's scrutiny, was giving herself up to gleeful anticipation of the coming year."

Middle Age Can Be Happy

NO woman need fear middle age if her health is good. Hundreds of active, contented middle-aged women tell their friends that they owe their health and vigor to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

MRS. ANNA WEAVER
R. F. D. No. 2, Rose Hill, Iowa

MRS. MINNIE SHERIDAN
Warrensburg, Missouri

MRS. MERTON SECOR
Afton, N. Y.

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a wonderful medicine at the Change of Life. I would get blue spells and just walk the floor. I was nervous and did not care for anything, could not sleep at night and was not able to do my work. I know if it had not been for your medicine I would have been in bed most of this time and had a big doctor's bill. If women would only take your medicine they would be better. I eat and sleep as I should and can do lots of work now."—Mrs. Anna Weaver.

"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at this time (Change of Life), also Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash, which I think is wonderful, and the Pills for Constipation. I recommend this full treatment whenever I can and I am perfectly willing to tell anyone what I know about it. I am in better health than I ever was and I am often told that I look more like a sister to my daughter than her mother. I am a hotel cook and have been at one place for six years."—Mrs. Minnie Sheridan.

"I am taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at the Change of Life and it certainly has done wonders for me. I highly recommend it to all women who are having troubles like mine. It has helped my nerves and my appetite and I sleep well. I feel much better and am gaining in flesh. I am able to do my housework for my husband and little boy and am always busy sewing or crocheting. I am willing to tell other women what the medicine has done for me if they care to write to me."—Mrs. Merton Secor.

Horoscopes

Sunday, June 23

SUNDAY'S horoscope emphasizes the social, domestic and affectional relations of the day. Aside from these, other matters may be vexatious or annoying, with a spirit of unrest, disturbance and peculiar complications. It would be well to be on guard against treachery and deceit.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of disturbed or unsettled business conditions, but happier and more prosperous situations dominate in purely personal affiliations. They should handle funds conservatively and be alert as to treachery or deceit.

A child born on this day may be gentle, affable and popular, although prone to be restless and unsettled.

Monday, June 24

MONDAY'S astrological map is under the rulership of Jupiter, the major benefic, both of lunar and mutual aspect. This promises increase and growth of business and money, with all things moving toward fulfillment. But these may be assisted to the desired end by the stability and perseverance of Saturn. Care is advised in signing all papers and writings.

Those whose birthday it is are at the threshold of a very prosperous year, with increase of business and money, albeit with the spur of hard work and perseverance. Be careful in signing all papers.

A child born on this day may be steady, industrious and ambitious and should attain to good position through its own efforts.

He that's liberal to all alike, may do a good by chance, but never out of judgment.
—Beaumont and Fletcher.

Society Kept in Flurry By Varied Events of Busy June Saturday

ENDING a somewhat eventless week, we have with us a Saturday that contains no less than three or four interesting weddings and a coming-out party. Surely nothing more could be asked of one June day! Caroline Crittenden is the debutante, and, as I've told you before, is scheduled to make her bow at a tea at "Sucasa," Shields, the home of her father and mother, the William Jackson Crittendens. After the tea is over, I understand that the Crittendens are going to entertain at dinner for the buds of the season.

One of the important weddings today is over East, near Philadelphia, when Virginia Morris, of Villanova, will marry William T. Collins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lafayette Collins, of Blackburn Farm, Berwyn, formerly of Pittsburgh. Mr. Collins is a grandson of Mrs. William Thaw, Jr., of Sewickley Heights, who, of course, has gone over for the wedding.

Then there is the wedding of Ivy Friesell and Dr. George Logan Kesel, to take place at 5:30 o'clock in the Friesell home, and later in the evening, the marriage of Emily Fulton and Robert Martin Hays.

ONE of the many people finishing school this June is LaSalle Dorrance, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Harold J. Dorrance, of South Negley avenue. LaSalle attended Ashley Hall in Charleston, N. C., and I believe her parents are going to send her East to school next year. Anita Doorly, of Bronxville, N. Y., came home with LaSalle for a short visit and has gone on to Bronxville. And on Monday, Margaret Weed, of Jacksonville, Fla., will arrive to spend the greater part of the summer with the Dorrances. A younger daughter of the Dorrances, Eloise, is leaving next week to stay at the Horton ranch in Wyoming until August.

Also planning a trip West are Mrs. Harcourt Newell Trimble and her daughter, Suzanne, and son, Harcourt Newell Trimble, Jr. They will leave this month for the Eaton ranch in Wyoming to remain through July. Mrs. Trimble is planning to spend the late summer in Los Angeles and Southern California, returning home early in the fall by the northern route, stopping for a while at Lake Louise.

MRS. ERNEST BOWLES entertained with a bridge luncheon this afternoon in the Pittsburgh Field Club in honor of Miss Margaret Banker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Banker, of Wayne road, whose marriage to Charles Locey Beares, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Beares, of North Euclid avenue, will be solemnized Thursday. Tonight Howell Beares, who is to be his cousin's best man, will entertain at dinner in the Edgewood Country Club. Miss Banker was guest of honor at a bridge-luncheon given Wednesday by Miss Audrey Voelp, of Aylesboro avenue, in the Pittsburgh Athletic Association, and on Tuesday Mrs. Kenneth Witherow entertained in the Edgewood Country Club. Last week Mrs. George Price and Mrs. James Kirk gave parties for Miss Banker, and others who have entertained for her are Mrs. Fannie Beares, aunt of Mr. Beares, and Mrs. Thomas F. Dunn.

THE marriage of Miss Marion Florence Stone, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carleton E. Stone, of Main street, Coraopolis, and William Raymond Pressler, of Franklin, was solemnized at 7:30 o'clock last night in the First Methodist Episcopal Church of Coraopolis, by the Rev. Charles Hartung, assisted by the Rev. Dr. Daniel McIroy Paul, of Wilkinsburg. The bride was gowned in white lace made in princess style, with a long skirt caught at the side with a satin bow, and she carried a shower of sweetheart and bride roses, orchids and lilies of the valley. Mrs. Clayton Ashley Rawson, of Chicago, was her sister's matron of honor, and a cousin, Miss Helen Robinson, of Coraopolis, was maid of honor. They wore princess frocks of organdie in dark and light shades of capucine, with petal skirts in shades of lavender, yellow and chartreuse green. They carried spring flowers. Peggy and Catherine Salts were flower girls, wearing Kate Greenaway dresses of sprigged organdie and carrying small Colonial nosegays. Kenneth Williams, of Franklin, was best man and the ushers were Charles Pressler and James Williams. Herman Scharpf played the wedding music and Paul F. Brautigam, of Knoxville, sang. A reception at the house followed the ceremony and later, Mr. and Mrs. Pressler left for a motor trip to the Great Lakes and Canada. They will make their home in Youngstown, O.

New President Takes Sheraden Club Reins

THE Woman's Club of Sheraden, which now has a June-to-June year instead of October-to-October, inaugurated its new custom yesterday when Mrs. Bruce Cobaugh gave the gavel into the hands of Mrs. Alfred C. Ackenheil. The club had its annual luncheon in the school room of the Episcopal Church of the Messiah, the women of the church preparing and serving the luncheon and the club members providing the effective decorations in their own colors—white and yellow. Great quantities of the club flower—the field daisy—were used in combination with white rambler roses and greens. There was a lovely program given under the direction of Mrs. Milton C. Reno by Mrs. Estelle Healy Close, Mrs. Neva Morris and Miss Gertrude Garis. Mrs. Close, with Mrs. Grace Blenko Martin at the piano, sang with her usual artistry and also gave several readings in her inimitable way. Mrs. Morris' contribution were two of those original adaptations which she does so well, in their inception intended for children, but appealing to grownups, too. Mrs. Bertha Gross King furnished the piano background for her two numbers. Miss Garris, an Oberlin student, home for the holidays, offered piano solos. The club will meet next year in Sherodd Temple, and while the formal opening will not be until October, a family picnic is planned for the first Friday in September. A new activity in the organization will be the choral which Mrs. T. C. Pitzer already is organizing.

MEMBERS of the Phoebe Brashear Club will be guests of the Frick Educational Commission and will hold a meeting to introduce its new officers in conjunction with the dinner which the commission will give Tuesday evening in the William Penn Hotel. Miss Mary Bower is the new Phoebe Brashear president, and Henry J. Browne has been reelected treasurer. The dinner will mark the twentieth anniversary of the granting of scholarships to Pittsburgh teachers, supervisors and principals as part of a plan to improve the social, civic and educational opportunities for the children of Pittsburgh.

Judge Joseph Buffington, president of the commission, will act as toastmaster. Dr. S. E. Weber, recently elected associate superintendent, will convey the greetings of the personnel department of the Pittsburgh public schools. Judge J. Warren Davis, of United States Circuit Court of Appeals, will speak on "Shelling the Woods." David E. Kaufman, United States minister to Bolivia, also will be a guest.

W. Arrott, Helen M. Freund, E. E. Cole, H. S. Bepler, M. B. Cohill, F. S. Guthrie, C. C. Kohne, A. E. McCloskey, J. J. O'Donnell and N. S. Reviere.

Dedicate Laughlin Library on July 6

AMBRIDGE, Pa., June 22.—The New Alexander Laughlin Memorial Library, built at a cost of $300,000 and presented to Ambridge as a memorial to their son, Maj. Alexander Laughlin, by Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Laughlin, of Sewickley, will be formally dedicated July 6.

Lincoln Highway Will Be Improved

GREENSBURG, Pa., June 22.—Preliminary work has started on the reconstruction of the section of the Lincoln highway between Idlewild Park, near Ligonier, westward to Kelly's Hollow.

Brothers to Lead Patrol In Scout Jamboree

When the prize patrol from Wilkinsburg Troop 9 enters the field of competition in the regional jamboree of Boy Scouts today at Slippery Rock, they will be led by two brothers, F. A. Gordon, scoutmaster, and J. D. Gordon, assistant.

Both native Wilkinsburgers, they have worked diligently to place their scouts among the best of the country, since receiving their commissions several years ago. "F. A.," the "kid" of the combination, says his success has been due to the World War experience of his elder brother.

On the other hand, "J. D." insists that it is his "kid brother's" executive ability that has made their efforts successful. East Borough Council officials point out it is doubtful if a better team is to be found in scouting circles, especially where the older brother is willing to accept the judgment of his younger superior.

BUSINESS HIGH GRADUATES 31

Thirty-one graduates of St. Mary's Commercial High School, Lockart street, North Side, will receive diplomas at exercises in the school auditorium at 8 p. m. tomorrow. Mildred Kozler, Marie Good and Rita Mihm have been named honor pupils. Others to be graduated are Beatrice Abt, Margaret Bittner, Bernice Connelly, Anna Curl, Vera Diel, Anna Drascovic, Elizabeth Flynn, Margaret Flynn, Martha Gibson, Dorothy Giger, Elizabeth Hartung, Winifred Honig, Stella Heyl, Anna Jesteadt, Alice Kohl, Catherine Kunkel, Mary Mihelic, Ruth Milbert, Marie Moser, Marie Mulvey, Gertrude Pogan, Catherine Powers, Catherine Racke, Grace Reithmeier, Caroline Shema, Margaret Schlie, Marie Schneider and Frances Schomaker.

Church to Join In Union Service

"The Riches of God's People" will be the 11 a. m. sermon of the Rev. Dr. Frank J. Bryson, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Allegheny, Arch and South Diamond streets. A union service will take the place of the 7:45 p. m. sermon.

Temperance Pageant Will be Presented

The Rev. W. S. Trosh, pastor of the Calvary Methodist Episcopal Church, Beech and Allegheny avenues, will preach on "Other Gods" tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock. A temperance pageant will be shown at 7:45 p. m.

North End M. E. To Hold Communion

The Rev. James Allen Kestle, pastor of the North End Methodist Episcopal Church, will administer holy communion Sunday morning at 10:45 o'clock. A union service will be held in the evening at the Perry High School.

Priscilla to Rewed Arnold; Apart Now

LOS ANGELES, June 22.—(AP.)—Priscilla Dean, motion picture actress, and Leslie P. Arnold, former Army aviator, separated yesterday with the announcement that they would re-marry after Arnold obtained a legal divorce from his first wife. The first Mrs. Arnold, whose home is in Groton, Conn., obtained a decision from a Georgia court early this week setting aside Arnold's divorce from her.

Arnold and Miss Dean, who returned to Los Angeles yesterday from a pleasure trip in the northern part of the state, said they learned of the decision only upon arrival in this city.

The Sun-Telegraph Fifteen Cent Pattern

A DAINTY FROCK FOR A DAINTY MISS.

Printed chiffon or dimity would be suitable for this little sleeveless frock. The bertha collar is a pretty substitute for sleeves. The long waist portions blouses above the flare skirt. Taffeta or printed lawn are also suggested for this design.

The pattern is cut in four sizes: 4, 6, 8 and 10 years. To make the dress for a 10-year size will require 2⅝ yards of material 35 inches wide. A sash of ribbon will require 2¼ yards. To finish neck, and lower edge of bertha and skirt with bias seam tape or binding will require 4¾ yards 1½ inch wide.

COUPON.

This pattern will be sent on receipt of 15 cents (silver or 2c and 1c stamps). Make number, name, address, etc., plain. Send to Pattern Department, The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa.

EXLER'S TRIAL DELAYED

Edward Exler, who served 15 years in the Western Penitentiary for an attack on Lillian Schradel, East Pittsburgh school girl, will be at liberty on bail until the September term of criminal court because the latest statutory charge against him could not be reached on the June trial list.

He was listed to face a judge and jury yesterday on an indictment brought against him by David Patterson, of 909 Madison avenue, on behalf of his 6-year-old daughter, Betty Jane Patterson, for an alleged offense committed last March 22, within a few months after Exler had been freed following service of his long term in the penitentiary. So many cases were ahead of it that the Exler trial had to go over to the next term of court.

Exler was found guilty of murder in the first degree and sentenced to death soon after Lillian Schradel's body was found in a reservoir on Ardmore boulevard. An appeal to the supreme court resulted in the conviction and sentence being set aside on a legal technicality. The supreme court decision set Exler free, as a new trial was not awarded.

He was re-arrested at the jail door and was tried on the statutory charge, convicted, and sentenced to the extreme limit, 14 to 15 years. He was released about the first of the year and soon after was arrested on the charge made by Mr. Patterson. He was held for court, but was admitted to cash bail furnished by his father.

CONTRACTS LET FOR 81 OVENS

The Jones & Laughlin Co. has let a contract to the Koppers Company for the building of 81 additional by-product coke ovens at the Aliquippa plant to cost several million dollars.

The company already has 122 by-product coke ovens in operation and the additional 81 will give the plant a total of 203. The additional ovens will produce 600,000 tons of coke annually, not taking into consideration the by-products that will be produced because of this plant extension.

Work has already been started on the job, giving employment to a large number of men, although the completion of the 81 additional ovens will not materially increase the number of employes directly operating the ovens. The new ovens will consume 835,000 additional tons of coal and ultimately will greatly increase the number of employes in keeping the plant supplied with coal, as well as aiding other industries which will profit by getting its share of the business, because of these improvements.

WIFE DIVORCES RAIL AGENT

"A steady stream of women" telephoned their house for her husband, Harry W. Haas, who started "running around" about a year after their marriage, according to the testimony of Mrs. Lydia E. Haas, 41, of 13 South Euclid avenue, Bellevue, granted a divorce by Judge Elder W. Marshall in Common Pleas Court.

Her husband, who was general agent for the Delaware and Hudson Railroad and had an income of $5,000 annually, gave her a black eye with his fist on one occasion and on another occasion he dug a hole in the wall with his fist when he struck at her and she dodged, Mrs. Haas testified.

They were married June 30, 1922, in Buffalo, N. Y., and moved here in January, 1927, Mrs. Haas stated. She charged cruelty and indignities, forcing her to leave him.

Undertaker's Safe Robbed of $110 Cash

A safe at the undertaking establishment of S. P. Sciutti, 123 Meadow street, was looted of $110 in cash last night, according to a report to the city detective bureau. Sciutto expressed the belief that the robbers entered through a rear door which had been left open. The money was taken from a cash box after the inner door had been forced open. The outer door showed no signs of having been tampered with.

Homestead Fireman Hurt in Collision

When the automobile in which he was riding collided with another at Maryland avenue and Elmer street, East End, yesterday, George Bayuzick, 23, a Homestead fireman, suffered a fractured skull. At Homeopathic Hospital it was said his condition was serious. Two other occupants of the car and the driver of the second automobile escaped injury.

SCOOTER DRIVE STIRS CITY

Who wants a brand new "Whoopee" scooter, with rubber tires, a special brake, strong, sturdy frame, disc wheels and a nice coat of paint—all the things automobile manufacturers have learned to put on their cars at the factory?

The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph has made it possible for any boy or girl in Pittsburgh to obtain one of these "Whoopee" scooters—free!

Orders pour into the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph so fast that shipping companies are having a hard time filling them.

All the advantages and good times attendant upon ownership of a "whoopee" scooter may be had by obtaining only one 26-week subscription to the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

Charlie Melson, who used a "Whoopee" scooter all this week at the Stanley Theater, advises children of Pittsburgh to get their scooters early. In that way, he explains, no one will miss the fun and everyone will be able to have a scooter on time.

Wife Admits Firing Shot at Husband

Peter Manfredo, 23, and his wife, Jean, 21, of 104 Hoffman alley, were held in Woods Run Police Station last night on charges of being suspicious persons, after Mrs. Manfredo went to the station and told the desk sergeant she had fired a shot at her husband. She said Manfredo had beaten her on several occasions and when she returned home from calling on a friend last night he grabbed her. Obtaining a revolver she fired to scare him, she said. The bullet went wild.

FLAG WINNERS IN CHICAGO

SYRACUSE, N. Y., June 22.—Official, business and professional Syracuse paid tribute to Robert J. Sullivan, 17, of Syracuse, and national boy flag champion yesterday. In the greatest civic demonstration ever staged in honor of a native citizen, Syracuse expressed its appreciation for the work of the United States Flag Association and the Hearst newspapers.

Two hundred and fifty boys and girls, schoolmates of Robert, paraded from Cathedral High School, through the center of the business section to the City Hall, where the civic exercises in honor of the flag champion were held.

Robert left Syracuse at 11:40 o'clock last night for Detroit, the first stop on his trip around the world. From Detroit he will go to Chicago and San Francisco, sailing from the latter city one week from tonight.

Clarke, a Saulte Ste. Marie high school boy, is one of the four finalists in the flag contest of the Flag Association, who will circle the globe as a reward for their efforts in the contest which the Hearst newspapers sponsored and in which more than 270,000 American boys and girls participated. Merle goes to Chicago and from there to San Francisco to sail next Friday for the Far East.

CHICAGO, June 22.—The four national winners of the first annual flag contest of the United States Flag Association will visit here today en route to San Francisco where they will begin their world tour.

First to arrive will be Alma Groves—Georgia's national girl flag champion—accompanied by Mrs. Edwin C. Gregory, daughter of United States Senator Overman, who is national chaperone to the two boy and two girl champions on the round-the-world trip.

Merle Clark, the Michigan champion, will arrive next, and later the two other champions, Mary McGonigal, of Troy, N. Y., and Robert J. Sullivan, of Syracuse, N. Y., will arrive in the company of Floyd Williamson, a Hearst representative, who will accompany the party on their three months' journey.

The entire flag party will stop here for the day before leaving for San Francisco.

VOTE SUSPECT GETS PAROLE

Daniel Dickson, Republican district chairman in the Twentieth district of the Twenty-first Ward, North Side, was fined $150 and paroled for three years by Judge James H. Gray in Criminal Court late yesterday. He pleaded guilty to a charge of conspiracy to cause a false count to be returned in the primary election of 1927.

At the same time Judge Harry H. Rowand sentenced John Blair and William Trautvetter inspectors of the election board, to pay fines of $100 and paroled them for two years.

Benjamin Foster, judge of the election board, is to be sentenced Monday. It was claimed the latter was ill and called on Dickson to assist in counting the votes, and that a recount showed that about 50 votes had been miscounted.

Trolley Riders Get $700 Each Week

In a campaign to reward owners of current street car passes, the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and Pittsburgh Railways Company are giving away $700 every week.

Of this sum, five $5 awards, five $2 awards, and 25 awards of street car passes good the following week are made daily. In addition to these benefits, once each week the Grand Weekly Award of $100 is offered to street car riders, with a Second Grand Weekly Award of $50 and 10 other weekly awards of $5.

Only owners of passes good during the week their numbers are published are eligible to receive awards. This week's passes are cerise of series No. 25.

Holders of current street car passes of the following numbers are eligible to receive awards of passes good all next week:

00,007	00,313	02,262	12,570	15,270	19,109

McKay No Candidate For Federal Position

MERCER, Pa., June 22.—District Attorney Leo McKay, of Mercer County, mentioned as a successor to United States Attorney John D. Meyer, of Pittsburgh, states that he is not a candidate.

COUNTY YIELDS 'POLISH JOHN'

Allegheny County will make no move to return "Polish John" Lucian, alleged member of the Flathead gang, from Detroit, but will let the man be brought back by state police for prosecution in Somerset County, it was decided yesterday. Lucian, alleged member of the Paul Jaworski gang, is wanted here for the Beadling and Mollenauer holdup murders, and in Somerset County for the Central City robbery June 6.

Local authorities believed that in Somerset County, where witnesses are ready to testify, Lucian can be quickly sent to the penitentiary, while in Allegheny County there is much work to be done in rounding up evidence of the old crimes. However, indictments will be sought here against Lucian for the murders of Ross Dennis and Isiah Gump, guards, who were killed in the two holdups.

Packing Firm Sued In Fatal Stampede

Claiming that her husband was fatally injured in an automobile wreck which she alleges was caused by a stampede of hogs in East Ohio street, Mrs. Marie Stewart has filed suit in Common Pleas Court for $50,000 damages from the Fried & Reineman Packing Co. The woman charges that the wreck occurred December 5, 1927, and her husband, John G. Stewart, 33, a passenger in the automobile, was fatally injured.

Plan Requiem for Greene County's 'Tapeworm'

WAYNESBURG, Pa., June 22.—Strains from the Waynesburg Citizens' Band will blend with airs of the Waynesburg American Legion Bugle and Drum Corps in the requiem for the Waynesburg and Washington narrow-gauge railroad's last train operated on July 9. The Waynesburg Kiwanis Club has arranged a special train to Washington as "taps" for the line.

The inroads of bus service during recent years caused the decision to suspend further passenger service. The line is operated as a subsidiary of the Pennsylvania railroad, although it was originally owned by Greene County residents.

Cars Resume Route Pending Agreement

Although the Pittsburgh Railways Company had torn down the trolley wires in Braddock avenue, Brinton district of East Pittsburgh, about two weeks ago to make way for the improvement of the avenue, it restrung the wires again yesterday and resumed operations in the district. Thursday night Pennsylvania Railroad engineers and the Borough Council met to discuss the street plans. The engineers could not agree on the project and the matter has been held up. Pending a settlement, the railways company has gone back to the old route.

PAROLE SQUIRE CASE WITNESS

Anthony Puniak, star witness for the Commonwealth in the extortion case against Justice of the Peace Charles J. Renshaw, of Neville Island, and four raiding constables, who were found guilty in Criminal Court last winter, has been paroled and the $100 fine imposed on him by Squire Renshaw remitted.

Judge James B. Drew took the action when First Assistant District Attorney Andrew T. Park called the court's attention to the aid Puniak had been to the state in not only the raiding constable case, but in the prosecution of members of the North Side booze ring.

An indictment for violating the liquor laws had been hanging over Puniak, and his parole ends the case.

Receiver Advocates Plaza Building Sale

Sale of the Plaza Building was recommended by the Peoples Savings and Trust Company, receiver, in a report filed in Common Pleas Court. Mortgages of $819,000 and $160,000, unsecured claims aggregating $200,000, city, county and state taxes amounting to $40,000 and other claims are listed in the report. The approval filed by D. R. Sweeney and L W Monteverde, appraisers, fixed the value of the land and building at $1,064,447.

STOCK MARKET SHOWS FIRM UNDERTONE

Prices Remain Steady Despite Profit-Taking; Rail Shares in Demand

NEW YORK, June 22.—(AP.)—Stock prices displayed a firm undertone at the opening of today's stock market, although profit taking was still in evidence. Allied Chemical showed an initial gain of 2½ points and Atlantic Refining 1. Fractional gains were recorded by Radio, Mack Trucks, Public Service of New Jersey and Wright Aero.

Early buying centered largely in the railroad shares on the theory that those issues were behind the general market, and would probably respond favorably to the publication of half yearly earnings reports, some of which are likely to set new high records. Union Pacific, New York Central and New Haven all moved into new high ground, while early gains of a point or two were recorded by Southern Pacific, Reading, Pennsylvania and Missouri-Kansas-Texas.

United Aircraft, which climbed nearly 10 points yesterday, quickly added 5½ more today, and Wright extended its gain to 2¼ points.

Case Threshing Machine certificates jumped 4 points, Commonwealth Power 3½ and Hayes Body 2. National Cash Register, Goodyear, Wilcox Rich B, Andes, Kennecott, International Harvester and Simmons showed early gains of a point or more.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, June 22.—The cotton market opened easy today at a decline of 5 to 12 points under a renewal of near month liquidation and some local or commission house selling of later months, promoted by the favorable view of weather and crop reports. Some stop orders were uncovered on the decline which carried the market off to 17.95c for July and 18.61c for December, or about 9 to 15 points net lower. There was covering enough to absorb the early offerings at these figures and the market showed rallies of a few points from the lowest by the end of the first half hour. There seemed to be a good deal of July changing hands at around the 18-cent level. Private cables reported further continental liquidation in the Liverpool market and said that sentiment in Manchester was pessimistic with sales of cotton cloths and yarns unimportant. The amount of cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance at the end of the week was estimated at 82,672 bales, against 83,792 last year.

Last Standing of Borg Warner Firm

CHICAGO, June 22.—According to well posted source total current assets of Borg Warner Company at present aggregate $17,448,000 against current liabilities of $4,300,000. Cash amounts to $2,250,000 and company has $2,900,000 out on call. Earnings are running in excess of $1 per share per month. It is stated that directors are planning on placing the new stock on a $4 annual dividend basis.

RELEASE HUGE WHEAT SURPLUS

NEW YORK, June 22.—"With the release of an enormous wheat surplus, withheld during the winter in an effort to raise demand and prices, the problem of fallen price levels and curtailed export markets is one of the severest that has faced the country's grain trade in many years," states 'The Index' published by the New York Trust Company.

It is pointed out that the events leading to this condition can be traced back to last autumn when the American wheat growers withheld a large portion of wheat from the market in order to raise the price. The unusually large yield of 1928 forced this surplus upon the market and caused a fall in prices. The farmer is now getting about 48 cents less a bushel than he got a year ago, and in addition faces a record breaking winter crop with large stocks already on hand.

The situation is made more acute because of the declining trend in American exports. Production of wheat in Canada, Argentina and Australia is twice the pre-war figure, and hence the American wheat grower faces keen competition. The railroad reduction on wheat for export has so far resulted in no positive relief. As was feared, Canada has already countered by reducing her own rail rates on wheat for export, and the resulting competition will no doubt tend to offset the beneficial effects of the reduction in this country.

Standard-Paragon Deal Is Dropped

CLEVELAND, June 22.—H. G. Jones, vice president, Standard Oil Company of Ohio, in an exclusive interview with a representative of the New York News Bureau Association, today denied that negotiations were being carried on whereby Standard Oil Company of Ohio would acquire the Paragon Refining Company. The report of such negotiations has been going the rounds in Cleveland brokerage circles for the past week.

Youngstown Steel Operations Jump

NEW YORK, June 22.—Reports from the Youngstown steel district state that operations of the industry so far this month have averaged from 15 to 18 per cent above those of June, 1928. Production and shipments, however, have been somewhat below the May record. Mahoning and Shenango valley mills will operate next week at from 85 to 90 per cent of rated capacity.

German-Chilean Nitrate Agreement

FRANKFORT-ON-MAIN, Germany, June 22.—Carl Bosch, a leader in the German dye trust, announced here than an agreement was impending between Chilean salt peter industry and the German synthetic nitrate industry.

Dr. Bosch also announced an agreement between the German dye trust and the Standard Oil Company of New York regarding production of artificial gasoline.

CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, June 22.—With reports that the Kansas-Oklahoma wheat crop outlook suggested a calamity, wheat prices here advanced today after an early setback. Some rain in Canada together with Liverpool quotations lower than looked for made the wheat market here weaken early. Opening at ½ to 1⅛c off, Chicago wheat afterward rose suddenly to well above yesterday's finish. Corn also was strengthened, starting ¼ to 1¼c down and later scoring all around gains. Oats were easy. Provisions kept about steady.

Pennsylvania R.R. Stockholders Increase

PHILADELPHIA, June 22.—Capital stock statement of Pennsylvania Railroad, as of May 31, compared with same period last year, shows total shares outstanding numbered 11,258,979 shares, an increase of 1,273,655. Number of holders were 158,566, average holdings, 71; corporation holders, 2,122. Transfers were 8,028, of which Philadelphia reported 1,263, New York 6,152 and Boston 554.

Women stockholders totaled 79,909, percentage of holders, 50.39 per cent; total shares held were 3,953,709. Pennsylvania leads in number of shares held, with total of 4,090,085, and percentage total of 43.60 per cent average holdings of 71 shares, compares with 97 in New York, 60 in New England, 116 foreign and 54 scattering.

MARMON EARNS LARGER NET

INDIANAPOLIS, June 22.—Marmon Motor Car Company and subsidiaries report for the quarter ended May 31, 1929, consolidated net income of $1,238,637 after all charges, but before federal taxes, equal, after 7 per cent cumulative preferred dividends, to $4.70 a share on 260,000 no-par common shares outstanding.

G. M. Williams, president, announced that this earning performance in first quarter of the company's fiscal year is in excess of the regular common dividends for the entire year. Net results of operations for the quarter closely approaches the net earnings of the company for entire fiscal year ended February 28, 1929, which were $1,447,919 before federal taxes. Shipments of Marmon and Roosevelt automobiles during the first quarter totaled 18,487 units, a gain of more than 115 per cent over the 1928 quarter.

I. C. C. Will Revise Iron-Steel Rates

WASHINGTON, June 22.—A revision of railroad freight rates on iron and steel articles generally will be made in the decision of the Interstate Commerce Commission in its Hoch-Smith investigation of these rates, which is expected here soon. The revised rates probably will be effective next fall and will include both increases and reductions with a view to a readjustment on an equitable basis, which will remove present discriminatory or low or excessive rates.

English Ford Plant Output Increasing

NEW YORK, June 22.—Edsel Ford, president of the Ford Motor Company, returning today after a six-week inspection of the company's foreign activities, said that from present indications the English Ford concern would produce nearly 50,000 cars this year and that it was expected the total would reach 200,000 in another year. Demand throughout Europe, he asserted, was increasing steadily.

Shell Union Plans $40,000,000 Issue

NEW YORK, June 22.—The Shell Union Oil Corporation is planning issuance of $40,000,000 of 5½ per cent convertible preferred stock which is expected to be underwritten by Lee Higginson & Co. Public offering is to be made next week. Proceeds will be used for expansion, including extension of the marketing system throughout the East.

Republic's Net Shows Good Gain

YOUNGSTOWN, O., June 22.—Net profits of the Republic Iron and Steel Company for the second quarter will show up substantially better than earnings for the first quarter, of $3.03 per share on outstanding common stock. The Youngstown independent enjoyed excellent business in April and May, while June is not far behind.

Stock Moves Up Sharply As Fuels Mark Time in Short Week-End Market

Fuel stocks were steady but there were no pronounced changes in quotations in the short session on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today.

Trading in the Crawford stocks, Lone Star Gas, Western Public Service and the "new" Lone Star in the unlisted division, did not reach the average proportions of the three previous sessions, but all of the stocks held their recent gains. Stockholders of the Lone Star Gas Corporation will meet Monday to approve the capital change whereby the present issue will be split up on a 2½-for-1 basis. Following this action it is expected an offering of the new stocks will be made to the shareholders at $12.50 a share in the ratio of one additional share for each eight of the new shares held. The new stock is selling in the local unlisted department around $34 a share at present.

Standard Steel Spring took a sudden jump of five points this morning when a block of the stock came out at $80 a share as against the closing sale at 75 last night. The stock had been hovering between 72 and 75 for some time. The company manufactures springs for automobiles and the plant at Coraopolis has been operating at a high rate the greater part of the year. The stock is listed here and on the Detroit exchange.

More Executives Flying; Easier Money Predicted

By B. C. FORBES

WILLIAM O'NEIL, of the General Tire Company, Akron, one of the brightest minds in the rubber industry, is using no fewer than seven airplanes in the business. Salesmen as well as executives fly whenever any considerable distance is to be covered. Mr. O'Neil declares that it will be only a short time before practically all high-priced men who have occasion to travel will go by air.

E. L. Cord, the youthful president of the Auburn Automobile Company and interested in various allied enterprises, is another enthusiastic flier for business purposes. Visiting New York this week, Mr. Cord remarked, "Almost every time I ride in a taxi in New York my heart's in my mouth. When I fly, I have a greater sense of calm than I have when on the ground. If you haven't done any flying, that may strike you as funny, but it is positively the truth. There seems to be a peculiar serenity while you are moving through the air, away from everything, as it were."

The latest notable admission to the ranks of aircraft officers is Capt. E. W. Rickenbacker, American ace of aces during the World War. General Motors has, appropriately, moved him from the sales managership of Lasalle to the vice presidency of the Fokker Aircraft Corporation, in charge of sales. This company is one of the recent acquisitions of General Motors in its program for entering the aircraft industry on a large scale.

Eddie will now be in his element. His modesty prevents him from saying much about his exploits in the air during the war, but I had the pleasure of listening to him talk for an hour with a 13-year-old admirer who had read Capt. Rickenbacker's book, and it was plain that flying has not lost any of its glamor for him.

By and by one of the qualifications for executives in many corporations will be a willingness to use airships freely.

SENATOR CARTER GLASS, in the opinion of Wall Street, has become a radical of radicals. All his latest proposals Wall street calls "crazy." One comment frequently heard in the financial world is that it is a good thing the country has a man like Andrew W. Mellon at the head of the Treasury instead of Carter Glass, who once held the position.

The Senator's proposed tax of 5 per cent on stock transactions completed with 60 days certainly would play havoc with the stock exchanges of the country. However, Wall street does not for a moment expect that Congress will act.

C. A. ARMSTRONG, sales manager of S. C. Johnson & Son, Racine, Wis., writes:

"Referring to your article on vacations with pay for workers, you may be interested in knowing that for years this company has adopted the plan of giving every employe of six months' service one week's vacation with pay, and of one year service or more, two weeks.

"Practically all employes take their vacation at the same time, only a few remaining to take care of rush orders and important mail. We find this plan works out very satisfactorily, as it confines the vacation period to two weeks in July instead of spreading it out from two to three months, and overcomes the necessity of redistributing the work."

American may not be ripe for the five-day week, but it is ripe for paid vacations for all classes of workers.

MONEY, it is often said, can do anything in this country. The statement is not, of course, wholly true. The last time I was in Scotland I visited the humble birthplace of Ramsay MacDonald who then, as now, was Prime Minister of Great Britain. Yet he was not permitted to play golf on his home town course, at Lossiemouth!

Because of certain sentiments he expressed during the World War he was drummed out of the club, and although he had become the virtual ruler of the land the local links still were denied him. His sons were permitted to play, but the Prime Minister had to go elsewhere—he was off playing at a distant course the day I was there.

Fancy the President of the United States being forbidden to play on any golf course in the United States! Americans do not have the dourness of the Scots. Lossiemouth is inhabited mainly by fisher folk who, serving mostly at sea during the war, lost tragically heavily from German submarine raids, and Scots are not quick to forgive or forget.

RAILROADS are sprucing up their service. James E. Gorman, president of the Rock Island, is to exhibit three crack new trains on one day, in Chicago. As a matter of fact, something like 18 of these new trains will be necessary to maintain the three runs—the Golden State Limited to California, the Rocky Mountain Limited to Colorado, and the Missouri River to Omaha and Lincoln. Competition from ships in the air and motors on the road are causing our railroads to bestir themselves. Competition is apparently the life of transportation.

MY guess is that money will rule easier in the second half of the year. This may or may not enable the bulls to hold up stocks.

Market Meets Mid-Year Money Turnover With Little Difficulty.

THE mid-year settlement period which was looked forward to rather apprehensively a few weeks ago is now virtually at hand. Banks during the coming week will have to complete preparations for handling the shift in funds which will come about a week hence. But Wall Street is much less nervous over possible disturbance to the money market as a result of this turnover than it was a month or six weeks ago. Several things have happened to allay apprehension to some extent, yet it would be no more than natural for the market to display some firmness as the time for such settlements draws near. The heavy liquidation last month in the speculative market was helpful to the situation, and while the reserve has not apparently definitely changed its policy, it is evident from its action in easing things over the June 15 period that something in the way of similar aid may be forthcoming in the present instance.

It is many a day since Wall street has witnessed such an extensive interest in a single issue in the bond market as has been shown this week in the new convetible 4½ per cent debentures of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company. These debentures were offered to stockholders recently and have been intensely active marketwise through the week. More than $2,103,000 par value of the issue changed hands in the first hour this morning, almost equivalent to the turnover of $2,400,000 recorded in one of the week's full day sessions. This issue naturally is highly regarded as an investment, but its principal attraction is its status as a "call" on the stock after January 1 next when the conversion privilege becomes operative.

DIRECTORS of Anaconda Copper Mining Company will meet for the purpose of inaugurating dividends on the new common capitalization on Tuesday. General opinion is that the rate on the new stock total will be continued on the $7 basis, which had prevailed previous to the offering of the additional stock subscribed for earlier in the week. The point is made that funds derived from that offering will be used to extinguish the funded debt of the company itself, among which was a large loan involving a substantial sinking fund. The net result is that common stock per share earnings will not be greatly changed, and with present conditions arguing for satisfactory earnings current aggressive buying is based on strong belief that the present dividend date will be maintained.

Interest in the railway shares showed a tendency to broaden out during the short session. The greater popularity of the carriers, which came more into prominence late yesterday is undoubtedly predicated in a large measure on the expectation that the May operating statements which should be available in substantial numbers next week, will make a relatively good showing. On the basis of weekly carloading reports an improved showing would appear likely, but several of the early statements coming to hand today with Chesapeake and Ohio the largest road in the budget, seemed to indicate that the roads were employing a more liberal policy in the matter of expenditures charged against earnings. In other words, while gross for the money showed some measure of increase, net results obtaining were in most instances slightly under May of last year.

RENEWAL of speculation for the rise in the airplane shares made that group the outstanding feature of the morning. United Aircraft assumed the leadership of the movement as it soared on large scale buying for a gain of more than 8 points to new high levels for the recovery. Aside from the placing with one of its subsidiaries of a part of the government order released yesterday, there was little to explain the sudden resumption of enthusiastic buying of the stock. Perhaps a sleeping short interest had been caught off its guard.

Reduce Wages of English Spinners

MANCHESTER, England, June 22.—Cotton employers of the Manchester Cotton Spinners' Association sent out notices last night announcing reductions in wages of operators in Lancashire spinning industry amounting to approximately 12.82 per cent.

Active steps are being taken to form a third combine in British cotton industry by a group of financiers. Offers that have been made to purchase entire capital of Hyde Spinning and Gorss Mills are being considered. These only represent 1,000,000 spindles, but the ultimate aim is much higher. Two others forming are Lancashire Cotton Corporation and a combine of 15 companies in the Egyptian section.

Justice Bureau Not Probing Merger

WASHINGTON, June 22.—Officials of the department of justice denied unequivocally that they had in any manner taken official notice of the consolidation of the Fleischmann Company, Royal Baking Powder Company, and E. W. Gillett Company, Ltd.

The department, however, has power to make an investigation of the merger should it have any reason to suppose that a violation of the anti-trust act had been committeed. So far it has not instituted such an inquiry.

RIVER TONNAGE INCREASING

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 22.—The tonnage of the Ohio River increased from 20,128,518 tons in 1927 to 20,938,267 tons in 1928, the increase amounting to 810,000 tons or 4 per cent. Omitting sand and gravel the tonnage for 1927 was 10,941,511 and for 1928, 12,189,034, an increase of 11.4 per cent; the average haul for this tonnage increased from 98.3 miles to 100 miles. The average haul for the total tonnage increased from 60.5 miles to 64.3 miles and this with the increased tonnage resulted in an increase of 10.7 per cent in ton-mileage, from 1,214,490,565 to 1,344,687,000.

The increase in tonnage and ton-mileage was mainly in the items of iron and steel, coal, petroleum products and packet boat freight; the tonnage of iron and steel increased from 1,039,821 to 1,412,216 and the ton-mileage from 294,390,600 to 350,556,663, the tonnage of coal increased from 8,517,714 to 9,160,766 and the ton-mileage from 682,993,438 to 740,122,972; the tonnage of petroleum products increased from 205,597 to 322,600 and the ton-mileage from 24,238,452 to 40,533,082; the tonnage of packet freight increased from 256,207 tons to 329,955 tons and the ton-mileage from 40,373,269 to 45,269,679; the tonnage of steel moving from the upper Ohio to the Mississippi increased from 250,000 tons to 275,000 while there was also a very large increase in local movements in the vicinity of Pittsburgh and as far down as Mingo, a distance of 71 miles. There was a decrease in sand and gravel traffic from 9,187,007 tons to 8,749,233 tons.

Phillips Brings in Four Pools in Year

CHICAGO, June 22.—Phillips Petroleum Company's No. 1 Sophus well, Section 9, Township 30 south, range 19 west, Ellis County, Kansas, has been brought in for 500 barrels daily from the same horizon producing in the Russell pool farther east.

The company has 4,000 acres surrounding the well. This is the fourth important discovery well developed this year by the company, proving up four substantial blocks of acreage in Western Kansas and West Texas, in which districts the company has several hundred thousand acres similarly located and carefully selected geological structures.

RAILWAYS SAVE BY REDUCING INVENTORIES

$10,000,000 Cut Off Yearly Expense When Companies Drop Carrying Charges

NEW YORK, June 22.—The Railway Age calls attention in its current issue to the fact that the railways, like other big concerns, have taken advantage of the improvement in transportation service within recent years to effect large savings through reduction of the stocks of materials and supplies carried by them.

"The railways have enjoyed a larger measure of prosperity thus far in 1929 than in any year since the war principally because of the great economies in operation that they have effected," the Railway Age says, "and these economies are so large in the aggregate because they have been made in the conduct of almost every branch of the business. Statistics which have just been compiled by this paper show that at the end of 1928 the stocks the railways had in their storehouses were less than in 1917 or any subsequent year.

"The stocks carried by the class I railroads at the end of 1917 represented an investment of about $530,000,000. Owing to rising prices, and perhaps to other causes, this increased in 1918 to $630,000,000, and in 1920 reached the record figure of $755,600,000. The annual cost of carrying inventories includes interest, depreciation, obsolescence, cost of rehandling and other factors, and depends to a considerable extent upon the kind of goods carried. The most satisfactory study of the matter that has been made on behalf of the purchases and stores division of the American Railway Association indicated that the annual cost of carrying such supplies as the railways carry averages 18½ per cent of the investment.

"On this basis it cost about $140,000,000 to carry the supplies on hand in 1920. The value of the supplies carried had been reduced at the end of 1923 to $683,000,000, on which the annual carry charge was about $126,400,000. The reduction between 1920 and 1923 was, no doubt, due to declines in prices, as well as to reductions in quantities. Prices have been unusually stable during the last five years, however; and yet at the end of 1928 the investment in the supplies on hand had been reduced to about $472,000,000, on which the annual carrying charges were about $87,300,000. The saving effected in the cost of carrying inventories as compared with 1920 was about $53,000,000, and as compared with 1923 about $39,000,000. The reduction in inventories last year as compared with 1927 was $53,300,000, and caused a reduction in the annual carrying charges of almost $10,000,000."

JULY SET FOR GAS MEET

SAN FRANCISCO, June 22.—Regional hearings on curtailment of natural gas waste will be held starting about July 10, according to R. D. Bush, state oil and gas supervisor. Hearings will inaugurate the actual operation of the new state gas conservation law, and will be based on field figures of June operations.

In commenting on the oil situation, Bush declared that the conservation of oil would be a probable result of the operation of the new law but pointed out that it was physically possible to conserve all the waste gas in the fields and yet not decrease oil production.

Public understanding that the new law is an oil production curb is incorrect, according to Bush, and while the law will tend to act indirectly as a control, conservation of gas and not oil is the primary object.

Hope in Labor Victory

Better Times Seen

SOCIALISM FEAR FAILS TO HIT MARKET

Great Opportunities Face MacDonald Government; Livestock Profits Notable

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER

NEW YORK, June 22.—The great advance in business since the war has been in a new appreciation and understanding of the status of labor. Capitalists and employers formerly regarded labor as something to be swatted and feared. Nowadays enlightened executives know that workingmen are human beings, interested in their own material advancement, who will co-operate with any honestly conceived program for improving the general status of trade. The symbol of the new attitude toward organized labor is the public reaction here and abroad to the recent victory of the British Labor party.

Not long ago, the overturning of the Conservative party by the socialistically-minded Laborites, would have caused consternation in financial circles. As recently as 1924, a temporary slump in the London Stock Exchange followed the first national victory of the British Labor party. But this year attempts to frighten the London financial district with the bogey of Socialism have failed. As a matter of fact, numerous substantial Britons, after the do-nothing Baldwin administration, are inclined to regard the Labor victory as good news, from a business standpoint, because of the promise of improved foreign relations and also because of the hope of a thoroughgoing program to deal with unemployment.

REASSURANCE, EXPECTATION

So capable an observer as the editor of the London Economist writes:

"Reassurance, then, springs from the record of the first Labor government in office and from the present parliamntary position. Hand in hand with reassurance goes keen expectation. For Mr. MacDonald and his colleagues return to power at a moment when circumstances have conspired to provide them with great opportunities in the international field they are faced with a great new chance of achieving an Anglo-American agreement which would open the door to security and disarmament and economy, while the task of putting through a new reparations settlement, with all that this implies, greets them on the threshold. Since a naval agreement is the key that will unlock the door to Anglo-American friendship and co-operation, there is an urgent need for a strong and enlightened statesmen at the Admiralty.

"But if the new government's opportunity in the foreign field is great, it is no less striking in the sphere of domestic politics. We are not thinking so much of the practical steps toward free trade and towards the cure of unemployment, although they are of first-class importance. We are thinking rather of the supreme opportunity of showing how minority government under the three party system can be worked to the advantage of the country."

MERITS ATTENTION

Ordinarily this column waxes suspicious over schemes to get rich quick, but the formula proposed by Everett C. Brown, president, Chicago Livestock Exchange, merits attention. Apparently to get many times the savings bank rate of return all you have to do is heed Mr. Brown's subjoined suggestion.

"Livestock farmers are now in a position to help the grain farmer. They can buy corn at 65 cents to 75 cents throughout the belt, convert it into beef and pork and market the grain that goes into the animal on a short turnover at 50 to 100 per cent profit. Reports of fabulous profits in Wall street are in circulation but none of them actually exceed current livestock growing profits with every prospect of continuance for 90 days."

CUTS DOWN WASTE

Many have spoken about the desirability of cutting down the high cost of distribution, but it remained for Philip Le Boutiller, president of Best & Company, New York department store, to take decisive action. To reduce the economic waste involved in the old fashioned system of letter salesmen, calling on buyers, cool their heels for hours, Mr. Le Boutiller has ruled that his buyers should see sales representatives of manufacturers and jobbers by appointment only. Recently more enlightened stores are giving more courteous attention to visiting salesmen, recognizing that they can be regarded as couriers of useful trade and style information. In announcing the new system, Mr. Le Boutiller said:

"In our opinion, the largest waste in the distribution of merchandise at wholesale is caused by excessive selling costs, many manufacturers being ready to engage salesmen on commission or with a small drawing account to see what they could sell, on the theory that anything they could sell was that much to the good.

'During the last 22 days of May there were 1,560 personal calls by salesmen, of which 767 were admitted to the sample rooms and 791 were not admitted, because on the wrong day for the buyer or other similar reasons. The orders placed with these salesmen were only a very small percentage of the total orders we placed during the same period.

"These salesmen's personal calls, the great majority of which produce no orders, add substantially to the cost of wholesale selling, and also to the cost of operating a retail store, consuming as they do, with very little result, so much time of the merchandising staff."

New Securities Take Big Jump For Week

NEW YORK, June 22.—New securities placed in the local market during the past week aggregated $162,670,500 of which $138,337,000 was in new bond offerings and $24,333,500 in new stocks. In the preceding week new stock and bond issues totaled $84,178,000 of which $49,028,000 was in bonds and $35,150,000 in stocks. In the 1928 week new bond financing was $64,499,000.

From January 1 to date new bond financing totals $1,796,282,808, against $3,238,640,090 in the 1928 period. Bond offerings for June to date aggregate $156,285,000 and new stocks $82,219,504. From January 1 to date new stock issues total $1,627,503,414.

SHARON STEEL HOOP GAINS

SHARON, Pa., June 22.—A first quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share on the outstanding no-par stock of the Sharon Steel Hoop Company was declared today, at a meeting of the directors. The announcement of a quarterly dividend is significant as in recent years the old stock had been receiving 50 cents a share semi-annually. The declaration on the new no-par stock is twice the previous rate of dividends.

The company has entirely changed its funded and capital structure during last year and the first half of 1929. Last year it retired its 8 per cent bonds by those of 5½ per cent, and on April 1 called for redemption all of its outstanding 8 per cent cumulative preferred stock. On May 1 it changed its $50 par common stock to a no-par common stock. The only stock now outstanding is 375,000 shares of no-par common, of which more than 12,000 shares are treasury.

It was stated that the net earnings applicable to dividends, after all deductions, were more than sufficient in the first five months to take care of the dividends for an entire year, and it is the expectation that the net earnings applicable to dividends for the first six months of this year will at least equal total the net earnings of all of 1926.

Important additions to plant equipment, which have come into production in the last few months or are coming into production now, contributed but little to the earnings of the first six months, but with a sustained demand for the company's products, these additions should make important contributions to the net earnings hereafter. The new hot-strip mill is now breaking in with two turns. It is expected to add the third turn shortly. The demand for the company's products is good and while some slight curtailment in demand may be expected over the next 60 days, it is not anticipated that this will be sufficient to decrease operations. The company was stated to be in a strong cash position.

AIRWAY CREDIT PROFITS UP

NEW YORK, June 22. — The Aviation Credit Corporation, recently organized as part of the Keys-Curtis group to finance sales of aviation equipment on the installment plan, reports net earnings of $90,005 for its first two months' operations ending May 31, 1929, after charging off all organization expenses, according to a statement issued by Howard L. Wynegar, president.

Mr. Wynegar in his statement says that "this income derives from operations and from temporary investment of such funds as are not yet required for sales financing. We are in a peculiarly favorable position, in that our arrangements with the Commercial Credit Company of Baltimore, under which we have available as needed all the credit and collection resources of that company and its 134 regional offices, enables us to preserve practically intact all funds not actually employed for financing. We incur practically no overhead expense except that chargeable to each financing operation as it comes up. In this way we are able to show, in addition to profits from operations, a profit from investments pending the growth of the aviation business to a point where it will absorb all our available capital. The book value of the 250,000 shares outstanding as of May 31, 1929, was in excess of $20 per share.

"The financing of aviation equipment sales is naturally a process of slow growth, but on account of the favorable arrangements we have been able to make with the insurance companies in recognition of the recent engineering and operating advances in aviation, we have already made substantial progress in facilitating sales. We can also look forward to a continued reduction in insurance rates on standard aviation equipment as insurance companies gradually accumulate a broader experience table."

Building Awards Tendency Upward

WASHINGTON, June 22.—(AP.)—Building construction in the country east of the Rocky Mountains, after slowing down during several recent months, is now advancing again. The latest census bureau estimate of daily building contracts let shows new building construction instituted during the week ending June 15 to have exceeded substantially the totals for comparable periods.

Figures for the daily rate of new construction let out on contracts are:

Week ending June 15	$23,942,000
Preceding week	18,849,000

M'NEEL SAYS PROSPERITY TO STAY

Financial Conditions in United States and Canada Basis for Claim

BOSTON, June 22.—R. W. McNeel, director of McNeel's Financial Service, issued the following statement on his return from a five-week transcontinental survey of business and financial conditions in the United States and Canada:

"A careful survey of conditions after visiting numerous states from coast to coast and the Western Canadian provinces gives every reason to anticipate continued prosperity in business unless the Federal Reserve authorities so use their power as to break down the confidence of investors.

"The present policy of the Federal Reserve Board is tending to break the confidence of investors all over this country and a continuation of that policy will undoubtedly stop the free flow of capital into American industry. A continuation of that flow is essential to our industrial and commercial well-being.

"In the last three or four years there has been a great awakening on the part of the American people who have a surplus of income over expenditure as to the advisability of investing a part of such funds in sound growing American concerns. They have been taught in every other phase of their purchases whether it be farm lands or city property, agricultural implements, automobiles, electric refrigerators, radios, etc., to buy on the instalment plan. Their tendency is to follow the same plan in making purchases of securities especially at a time when the intrinsic merits of our securities are so rapidly increasing.

"To make such purchases, with the idea later of completing payment, they naturally call on the broker and the uncompleted part of their payment is represented in brokers' loans. To attack brokers' loans, to break down confidence in the market—and to indirectly force such investors to sell their securities at low prices only to see them later advance to discount their true values, is a phase of Federal Reserve policy which deserves the strongest condemnation.

"The policy of financing our great industries through sale of common stock, which is the soundest form of financing is dependent on the retention of investor confidence and especially of the confidence of that great new class of investors which includes everyone from small tradesmen, professional men and farmers up and down who wish diversification in their investment and wish an interest in the fundamental industries of this country.

"The other fundamentals of business all over the country seem sound. The low price of wheat is discouraging of course in agricultural sections and the Canadian Northwest but this is likely to prove a minor irritant and it should eventually correct itself."

Pacific Utility Merger Is Denied

SAN FRANCISCO, June 22.—(AP.)—Rumors current in Wall street today of a possible merger between Pacific Lighting Corporation and the Pacific Gas and Electric Company were denied here as untrue and "absolutely without foundation" by A. F. Hockenbeamer, president of the latter company.

Crude Oil Program Ends in California

LOS ANGELES, June 22.—The California crude oil curtailment program will end Monday. Voluntary conservation measures sponsored by the sub-committee of American Petroleum Institute regional committee have been discontinued and all operators have been released from compliance with the state oil umpire's orders.

Bradford Area Oil Bringing Premium

OIL CITY, Pa., June 22.—(AP.)—The Derrick today says that all oil produced in the Bradford area is now being sold for $4.35 a barrel, or a premium of 25 cents above the posted price.

Bread Crop Prices In Delicate Balance

NEW YORK, June 22.—Over the north temperate zone, the conditions affecting the growth of 1929 bread crops continue to be so delicately balanced that the grain price levels all over the world are maintained in a state of nervous fluctuation The general opinion in the trade at home and abroad, as it is pictured by Agriculture Department reports and by other information, seems more and more to be slanting toward the conclusion that the result of the season will be sharply to diminish available world bread grain supplies. A sizable reduction in acreage in India, a little too much rain in Hungary for the best growth and a continuing need of rain in Canada are among the straws which indicate the drift of current.

On the other hand, crop prospects in Russia, hitherto notably gloomy this season, in the last agriculture findings are showing improvement. That country is likely to have a more nearly adequate bread supply from domestic harvest this year than it had last. What the concensus is can best be told by the price trend, which has been sharply upward for two days on all leading markets.

Local Exchange Shines After Sand Bath

The Pittsburgh Stock Exchange has been cleaned by the sandblast method and its shining exterior is now one of the most pleasing architectural exhibits in Fourth avenue. The handsome facade of the structure, facing the rather ancient but, nevertheless, impressive Bank of Pittsburgh, N. A., is eliciting numerous comments from passers-by.

Many Pittsburghers, whose business takes them to the lower Fourth avenue district, have passed the exchange time after time without even a casual glance at its attractive front, but it stands out now like the proverbial "sore thumb," demanding, even from the busiest, a glance or a word of approval.

Gen. Electric, Ltd., Earnings Expand

TRADE MARKET MORE FIRM

NEW YORK, June 22.—(AP.)—Dun's weekly trade review says:

"Less irregularity appears at this time in the business situation than is customary at this season, and conditions have been benefited greatly during the past week by the first extended period of real summer weather. There is little evidence of any unusual dullness in the leading markets. Retail distribution is on a very wide scale and reports from all leading centers tell of activity in summer, holiday and sporting goods lines. Buying had heretofore been deferred, but many needed supplies in the wholesale dry goods markets have now been cleaned up quickly, and reorders have been substantial, particularly for articles of apparel. Production in cotton mills is beginning to lessen and the usual curtailment of output for the first week of July has been directed. Cotton consumption in May was well up to the peak of earlier records. Silk production is lighter in some centers and finishing plants are over the rush period. Weekly bank clearings, $12,174,744,000, a decrease of 2.9 per cent from a year ago."

COTTON MARKET TONE EASY

NEW YORK, June 22.—(AP.)—Improving weather and crop reports have imparted an easier tone to the cotton market during the past week. When it was found that the government figures on domestic consumption for May and boll weevil emergence prior to June 1 had been fully discounted before their publication toward the end of last week, reactionary impulses developed.

They were later prompted by reports of more favorable crop progress in the South and liquidation of July contracts in anticipation of notices next week no doubt contributed to the decline which followed. October contracts which had sold at 18.96 shortly before the publication of the domestic consumption report toward the close of the previous week, broke down to about the 18½-cent level under liquidation or realizing.

General business was comparatively quiet during the entire week, and a good part of the trading seemed to be connected with the evening-up of the July position, which included a good deal of switching into later months at gradually widening differences.

Rios Railway Co Directorships Restricted

LONDON, June 22.—(AP.)—At an extraordinary general meeting of the entire Rios Railways Company, a resolution was unanimously adopted yesterday to the effect that in the future, no person other than of British or Argentine nationality will be eligible for election as a company director except by the unanimous consent of the directors then in office.

Stockholders of other than British or Argentine nationality will be placed on a special register and their total holdings will be limited to 20 per cent in each class of the issued share capital of the company.

Follett Holt, chairman of the board, who will shortly leave for Argentina said he wanted to be in a position to dispel a feeling of uneasiness existing among the staff and other circles caused by the passing into other hands of the control of several other British companies.

Creole Petroleum Doubles Earnings

NEW YORK, June 22.—Creole Petroleum Corporation net profit for year ended December 31, 1928, was $611,731 after taxes, depreciation, depletion, amortisation, royalties, etc., against $337,862 in 1927.

C. C. C. REPORTS LARGER NET

BALTIMORE, Md., June 22.—The Commercial Credit Companies are experiencing the largest and most satisfactory year in their existence. Consolidated volume for the five months ended May 31, 1929, was $191,782,567. This record breaking volume of business coming as the result of many new contracts obtained in the past 12 months covering the financing of automobiles, boats, labor saving machinery, Diesel engines, refrigerators, oil burners, radios, etc., has created the necessity for increased capitalization to cope with the anticipated future large volume of business.

The consolidated volume and net income for April and May, 1929, were respectively the largest of any months in the companies' history. Consolidated net income applicable to outstanding common stock of your company for April, 1929, was at the annual rate of $5.29 per share, and for May, 1929, was at the annual rate of $6.19 per share.

For the five months ended May 31, 1929, consolidated net income on the average common stock outstanding was at the annual rate of $4.31 per share as against $2.72 for the corresponding period of 1928.

DROP IN STEEL OPERATIONS SEEN

Orders Show Sharp Drop In Volume and Production Is Expected to Follow

By B. E. V. LUTY

Order receipts of the steel mills, taken as a whole, have been decreasing somewhat markedly in the last week or two, following some slight recession which began in the second half of May. Thus far there has been no visible influence upon the rate of steel production, but a decrease in production to begin within the next fortnight is regarded as inevitable. All the indications are that the decrease will be small.

The most marked decrease in buying has been on the part of the automobile industry, whose activity is naturally a seasonal matter. On account of building operations being lighter than expected, and bad weather curtailing the amount of spring repair and other work done on farms, jobbers in nails, barb wire, fence and pipe recently found themselves rather well stocked and they have since been buying less freely.

Otherwise there is little change in the volume of steel buying, but a mental influence is likely to be seen, through buyers observing steel deliveries to be more easily obtained and thus becoming less keen to cover their future requirements. With production maintained, any steel released by lighter shipments in one direction is put into other channels, giving them a greater supply. There is even a possibility that, with some of the steel now scheduled for delivery at mill convenience, some buyers will instruct postponement or the stretching out of deliveries. That was a frequent experience before the war when steel had become scarce at intervals and then became more plentiful

OUTPUT AT CAPACITY

Steel ingot production has been virtually at capacity and there is no material decrease, if any, up to the present time. Open hearth production has decreased a trifle, from furnaces yielding under the long strain of hard driving, but increased Bessemer production, as compared with March or April, has practically made up the difference. Production in May was at about 96 per cent of rated capacity for Bessemer and at a trifle over rated capacity for open hearth

The official report of automobile production in May shows a total of 635,528 cars and trucks made in the United States and Canada, or about 12,000 above the preliminary statement issued by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce. The decrease from April was 4.2 per cent, which may be regarded as simply seasonal. Ford production, reported at 200,903 for May, showed an increase of 5.5 per cent over April, and it appears that all other production decreased about 8.1 per cent. The five-month total, 2,844,650, is one third over the expectancy computed on the basis of seasonal variation in the last five years and the rate of increase during that period.

The point about automobile production as reported for May and as estimated for the present time is that there is no more than the average seasonal decrease, despite the phenomenally heavy production early in the year. At that time there were suspicions that the peak rate would be reached earlier and the subsequent decline would be more pronounced, than usual.

MOTOR CONSUMPTION

By a computation which can be made precisely from known statistics, but is subject to some uncertainty on account of elements that cannot be measured, such as changes in the avergae weight of all cars produced, the manufacture of parts for replacement and export, etc., it appears that, while in the whole of 1928 the automobile industry accounted for 18 per cent of the steel produced, in the first five months of this year it accounted for 23 per cent, and in April its peak at 28 per cent.

In the last five years the average drop in automobile production from April to July has been 18 per cent, with a slight recovery for August, and decreases thereafter. Assuming a somewhat largrer drop in number this year, and allowing for sustained or increased production of Ford, a relatively light car, the 26 per cent of April would become say 18 per cent.

That is, 8 per cent of the steel making capacity would be released and would be represented in a decrease in total steel production or in heavier shipments to other consumers. This is purely a computation based on certain known facts and involving unknown elements, but the 8 per cent gives an idea. The actuality should certainly lie between 5 and 10 per cent.

Rail production is about to begin its usual decrease, somewhat later than usual, annual orders being ordinarily for delivery during the first six months of the year. This decrease, occurring during the next couple months, would amount to 5 to 7 per cent of the total steel. Agricultural implement works will take somewhat less steel as they are changing from autumn implements to spring implements.

INCREASE SHOWN

There are no other visible decreases in steel requirements than those covered above. In some lines there may be increases. For a proper appraisal of the future it must be noted that it is normal for steel production to be about 10 per cent lower in the second half than in the first half of a year, and that 1928 was an exception in showing a slight increase, while it must also be noted that in the last 12 months steel production has been 15 per cent above that in any other period of 12 months. Thus there is double reason for a decrease and as things have been going there is more prospect of a slow decline for months than of a sharp dip and then a recovery.

Fabricated structural steel makes a very good showing, the more remarkable as general building has fallen off this year. May lettings are reported at 4,346,500 net tons, exceeded by only one month this year and only one month last year. The five-month rate is 15 per cent above the average monthly rate last year, which was a record year, and shipments by the fabricating shops have been 11 per cent under their bookings, suggesting that they will use more steel in the future.

Forecasts

A. C. ROBINSON

President Robinson, Peoples Savings and Trust Company, who sees continued business activity during the summer months.

Summer Exceptionally Prosperous

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

CURRENT business activity is exceeding expectations, A. C. Robinson, president of the Peoples Savings & Trust Company, said in discussing conditions affecting the prosperity of the country in general.

''There have been few new developments,'' said Mr. Robinson. ''The summer depression has been considerably deferred and the good weather we have had during June has kept the business volume at a very satisfactory rate.

''Sales of automobiles are declining but the slackening in this field has not been as great as was expected,'' continued Mr. Robinson. ''In other industries sales have been maintained at a high rate.

Money Rates Low

''MONEY rates are being kept low in spite of the fact that conditions are close. Accommodations can be secured at 6 per cent. In view of the abnormal demand for funds needed to take up rights such a rate should be considered very satisfactory.

''There has been a heavy call on the banks for loans for this purpose. Most people in this vicinity seem to have preferred to exercise their subscription privileges rather than to sell rights. The offerings of new stock by Aaconda, United States Steel, Pennsylvania Railroad and other large corporations has created an almost unprecedented situation.

Reserve Warning

''LESS uncertainty is overhanging the business situation,'' continued Mr. Robinson. ''The last Federal Reserve warning has been heeded and this has been responsible for the present moderate rate for money. There is now less fear that the Reserve Board may take some drastic step than was the case a few months ago.

''The bond market has improved recently. Money is likely to be more plentiful by the middle of July and it is very probable that the investment interest in bonds may undergo a distinct revival.''

In summarizing the outlook Mr. Robinson said that the volume of summer business promises to be heavier than usual and that there are no very marked signs of changed conditions in the fall.

Penn-Mex Fuel

THE Penn-Mex Fuel Corporation yesterday made its earnings public for the first time in four years. While it has been generally known that this company made one of the most important oil discoveries in Mexican fields in recent years, its actual profits have been the subject of much speculation.

As a result of a protracted period of litigation between the company and the owners of land on which drilling operations were carried on under leases, it was impossible to make figures for 1925, 1926 and 1927 public. The statement made available yesterday showed that net income after expenses, depreciation and depletion last year were $1,965,701 which was equivalent to $4.91 a share on the 400,000 shares of $25 par value stock.

The South Penn Oil Company owns 55 per cent of this stock. Penn-Mex paid $800,000 in dividends last year of which South Penn received $440,000.

The profits of the subsidiary organization in the present year are expected to be less than in 1928 as a result of the appearance of sediment in its crude oil and the necessary curtailment of production.

RAIL BUYERS MEET

SAN FRANCISCO, June 22.—With many subjects of importance to be considered, including means of bringing about increased economy in the operation of railroads through the reclamation of old materials and supplies, and continued development of efficient means of purchasing, handling and distributing supplies of all kinds needed by the rail carriers, purchasing agents and storekeepers representing practically all the railroads throughout the United States, Canada and Mexico, will meet in San Francisco beginning on Monday, June 24, to attend the tenth annual convention of the purchases and stores division of the American Railway Association.

The membership of the purchases and stores division is one of the largest of any of the American Railway Association divisions. Approximately 600 persons are expected to attend the San Francisco meeting, which will continue in session three days.

Among the speakers will be Paul Shoup, president of the Southern Pacific Company; R. H. Ashton, president, American Railway Association, and C. C. Kyle, of St. Paul, purchasing agent of the Northern Pacific Railway and chairman of the purchases and stores division, who will also preside.

W. Davidson, general storekeeper, Illinois Central system, is vice chairman of the division. The secretary is W. J. Farrell, of New York.

Blair Strip Steel Plans Big Addition

NEW CASTLE, Pa., June 22.—George D. Blair, Jr., president and general manager of the Blair Strip Steel Company, has announced the award of contracts for an addition to the plant on the Butler road. A building 110 feet by 125 feet will be erected. A new office building will be erected as soon as the addition has been completed.

Coal Men to Study Ventilation In Mines

A. P. Cameron, of Irwin, Pa., vice president of the Westmoreland Coal Company; R. M. Fleming, of Colver, Pa., an official of the Ebensburg Coal Company, and George F. Osler, of Pittsburgh, president of the Chartiers Creek Coal Company, are members of a national committee on coal mine ventilation under appointment by the American Mining Congress, which has announced the completion of standard recommendations covering approved practices for coal mine ventilation.

This committee, which is largely representative of the coal mining districts of the United States, has set forth what is believed to be the safest, most economical and efficient practice for this phase of mining operation.

No more important precaution from the standpoint of the efficiency and safety of men underground can be taken than that of adequate ventilation and the committee is hopeful that extensive use will be made of the standard by mining companies throughout the country. Every effort is being made by the committee to bring it to the attention of responsible mining officials.

STEEL ACTIVITY SHOWS GAINS

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 22.—Commercial transactions during the week ended June 15, as reflected by check payments, were larger than in either the preceding week or the corresponding period of 1928, according to the weekly statement of the Department of Commerce. Activity in steel plants showed a higher rate of operation than in either the previous week or the same week of last year. Production of crude petroleum for the latest reported week showed a gain over the corresponding period of last year. Bituminous coal production likewise was greater than a year ago. Distribution of commodities, as indicated by loadings of freight cars covered the latest reported week, was greater than at this time last year.

The general level of wholesale prices showed a gain over the preceding week, but was lower than a year ago. Iron and steel prices showed no change from the previous week, but were higher than last year. Cotton prices averaged fractionally lower than in the previous week, being lower also than a year ago. Loans and discounts of Federal Reserve member banks showed only slight change during the week, but were higher than at this time last year. Interest rates on call loans averaged higher than in the previous week, while time money rates were easier; interest rates on both time and call funds were higher, however, than a year ago. Bond prices showed no change from the previous week, but were lower than last year. Stock prices showed only slight change from the preceding week, but were higher than a year ago. Business failures were more numerous than at the previous week, but showed a decline from the corresponding period of 1928.

Receipts of cotton were lower than a year ago. Receipts of cattle and hogs at principal primary markets during the week ended June 8 also showed declines from last year. Wheat receipts, however, showed a gain from the corresponding period of 1928.

Mid-Western Wire Combine Under Way

CHICAGO, June 22.—Negotiations are under way for merger of Keystone Steel and Wire Company and Continental Steel Corporation, according to D. P. Sommer, vice president of Keystone Steel.

If the transaction is consummated, it probably will be on a share-for-share basis or nearly so Mr. Sommer said.

The combination would have assets of more than $25,000,000.

SALES VOLUME INCREASES

Dun's Weekly Trade Review reports trade conditions in Pittsburgh as follows:

Warm weather has acted as a stimulant in creating more activity in the demand for seasonable lines and department stores and retailers handling men's and women's wearing apparel have had a very fair volume of business this week. Jobbers in those lines also are benefiting, to some extent, although buying is largely for "filling-in" purposes. Jobbers in dry goods are only transacting a moderate volume of business, although they are booking some fall orders, and business is averaging slightly better than it did a year ago. Sales of camping and sporting goods continue quite active. While sales of shoes have been fairly numerous, and the volume slightly ahead of last year's, the average continues small. Seasonable lines of hardware are moving quite well, and there is a slightly better demand for building materials, but the aggregate is below that for the same period last year. There is a fair demand for groceries and provisions, with demand for confectionery slightly better.

Industrial operations shows a slight recession, although operations, as a whole, continue at a considerably higher rate than they did a year ago, and steel plants still are maintaining an unusually high rate of operation for June. There is a moderate increase in the demand for window glass, although production is at a low rate, the total for June probably being the lowest for some months.

In the bituminous coal market, a slight improvement in demand is noted, and lake hipments are made in considerable volume. Stocks in consumers' hand are reported the lowest in several years, but prices, nevertheless, continue at a very low level. Western Pennsylvania grades of run-of-mine coal are quoted, per net ton, as follows: Steam coal, $1.25 to $1.75; coking coal, $1.50 to $1.75; gas coal, $1.65 to $1.75; steam slack, 80c to 90c; and gas slack, $1.00 to $1.10.

Domestic Film Rentals Increase

NEW YORK, June 22.—Paramount Famous Lasky Corporation's domestic film rentals during April were 17 per cent ahead of the same time of 1928 and that in May were 20 per cent better than similar month a year ago. So far in June film rentals are believed to be running well ahead of the 20 per cent figure footed in May as compared with last year.

Cotton Put On Auction Block In Egypt

LONDON, Eng., June 22.—The "Times" has a Cairo report that Egyptian Council of Ministry has ordered creation of a special reserve to be formed of capital taken in recent years from general reserve for purchase of cotton to maintain market and for advancement to cotton growers against their crops. To this will be added annual proceeds of ginned cotton tax.

At the same time council has ordered immediate sale at auction of cotton valued at 2,500,000 pounds—Egyptian—still held by ministry of finance. Some of this cotton was purchased as far back as 1925. The government intends to maintain ginned cotton tax for several years.

WINDOW GLASS INACTIVE

Developments in the several branches of the flat glass industry were of a relatively minor nature the past week, with both production and distribution of these products following the same general line as in the first half of the month, says the American Glass Review.

Window glass is reported in slightly better movement out of manufacturers' warehouses, although still below the seasonal average. With production of this commodity during June said to be at the lowest figure in some months, owing to the temporary suspension of operations at several units for repairs and improvements, all indications are that demand for the month will about equal the output.

A gradual reduction in jobbers' stocks of window glass, coupled with the present decreased output, should result in more favorable marketing trends within the next few weeks. Two tanks now out for repairs may resume operations early next month, it is reported, provided trade conditions justify.

Marketing conditions in the plate glass field continue unusually good and the remarkable manner in which the demand for this product is being sustained is easily the feature of activities these hot summer days in the flat glass industry as a whole. While the volume of new business from automobile manufacturers, as in the two preceding weeks, has eased up a bit, it is reported still well above the average for this time of the year.

Clearly indicative of the appreciably improved conditions in the domestic plate glass industry, as compared with a year ago, are the figures on production of polished plate glass during the month of May, released this week by P. A. Hughes, secretary of the Plate Glass Manufacturers of America. Output for the month totaled 12,781,975 square feet, a gain of over 1,900,000 square feet compared with the May, 1928, production of 10,881,834 square feet. An increase, although appreciably less, is also shown in comparison with the April, 1928, production of 12,554,979 square feet.

The situation in the rough rolled and wire glass market is likewise reported satisfactory, with no change of consequence either in production or distribution trends during the week just ended. Demand for these products is holding up very well and is understood to be in keeping with present operating schedules in this branch.

Manufacturers of pressed and blown glassware for the home, table and decorative uses, almost without exception, are experiencing an entirely satisfactory seasonal demand for their wares. With the near approach of the vacation period some curtailment of operating schedules at glassware factories will soon be in order, however.

CANADA'S COAL PRODUCTION

MONTREAL, June 22.—Canada's coal production during the first three months of 1929 amounted to 4,613,739 tons as compared with 4,508,297 for the corresponding quarter in 1928, making an increase of 2 per cent. Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Saskatchewan showed increases in production over the same period in 1928.

Total imports of coal into Canada during January, February and March were 7 per cent greater than during the first quarter of 1928. The figures were 3,343,830 tons, comprising 3,282,985 from the United States; 51,184 from Great Britain; 9,716 from Russia, and 35 from Newfoundland, as against 3,112,224 tons, of which 3,094,271 were from the United States, and 17,953 from Great Britain during the first quarter of 1928.

Imports of anthracite totaled 861,724 tons, including 808,857 from the United States; 43,151 from Great Britain, and 9,716 from Russia. This total was 133,557 tons greater than the tonnage reported for the corresponding quarter of 1928.

C. A. RAILWAYS' ROMANTIC GROWTH

Transportation Lines in Tropical Territory Changed By American Enterprise

NEW YORK, June 22.—The transformation of the railroad lines of Salvador and Guatemala from a few straggling, badly-constructed and unprofitable lines into a well integrated system, with an operating ratio comparing favorably with some of the best American roads, is recalled by the death of Minor C. Keith, who has been called ''the James J. Hill of Central America.'' The upbuilding of this system into a profitable investment of $80,000,000 sustains the adage that the only sure method of getting enduring profits out of any enterprise in the American tropical countries is to create wealth and income for them.

Mr. Keith had done great things for the financial and economic rehabilitation of Costa Rica before he turned his attention to Salvador and Guatemala. He had observed how quickly an improvement in the transportation facilities of a tropical country could be reflected in the wealth of that country.

INLAND OPENED UP

Guatemala to that time derived her income mainly from coffee grown along the Pacific seaboard and had no means of overland transportation to the Atlantic coast at Puerto Barrios. That was and still is the logical shipping point for all Guatemala products, since their principal markets are on the Atlantic coast of North America and in Europe. The government had started in 1892 building a road from the Atlantic toward Guatemala City but had run short of funds before reaching the foothills of the main mountain range.

When Mr. Keith and his associates took this stretch of 130 miles over from the government in 1904, it was nothing more than the proverbial "two streaks of rust and right of way," and decidedly unprofitable because, although ending at Puerto Barrios, it came from nowhere in particular and carried little freight. If this 130 miles could be made to pay its way, Keith reasoned, it would be worth while to continue it to Guatemala City, the capital, 5,000 feet above sea level and therefore difficult to reach.

UNITED FRUIT'S INCEPTION

Thirty years before Keith attacked a similar problem in Costa Rica, namely, that of creating a line of freight to make a stretch of transcontinental line profitable. He had transferred banana plants from Panama and in time this product had not only made the railroad profitable, but had laid the foundation for the establishment of one of the greatest trading and development companies in the world—the United Fruit Company.

Banana plants were brought into the lowlands of Guatemala in the opening years of the twentieth century. While they were growing to maturity, the Keith group was extending the railroad to the capital city, where it connected with another line, reaching the rich coffee crops of the Pacific slope.

Thus the development of a jungle made possible the link between oceans, and the whole Guatemalan railway system was transformed into a profitable investment.

Leitch Made Head Of Clark Car Co.

R. L. Leitch, one of the best known men in railroad equipment circles throughout the country, yesterday was elected vice president of the Clark Car company and a member of the company's board of directors. Mr. Leitch has been with the Clark company only a few months, prior to that time having been secretary and treasurer and a member of the board of directors of the Fort Pitt Spring and Manufacturing company, with which he was connected for almost 20 years.

Baldwin Locomotive May Recapitalize

PHILADELPHIA, June 22.—Reapitalization of Baldwin Locomotive Company by splitting up the common shares four-for-one is a possibility of the near future, according to reports in financial circles. It is not expected the preferred stock will be called, however, as this would involve payment of a premium of $5,000,000 on top of the investment by Baldwin of a sum nearly as large in the new General Steel Castings Corporation. Directors meet next week.

Businessmen of Allegheny County, Let Us Increase Business and Prosperity Here by Adopting the

METROPOLITAN CITY PLAN

The undersigned businessmen of Allegheny County, all of them directors of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce, are issuing this appeal to the businessmen of the whole County because in our judgment there has been nothing more momentous in our history than the election on the Metropolitan Charter next Tuesday, June 25th.

We earnestly urge our friends in the boroughs and townships as well as our friends in the present city of Pittsburgh to join us in every effort to bring about the adoption of the charter, for it will unquestionably be the signal for new growth and development and pave the way for an unprecedented stimulus to trade and industry.

A MEANS OF INDUSTRIAL EXPANSION

In the industrial expansion and the increase of trade and employment which we have every right to expect as a result of our becoming the fourth city of the United States with 1,500,000 population, the boroughs and townships will share at least as much as the present city of Pittsburgh and probably much more. In the old city, little room for expansion is left. The boroughs and townships are the natural territory for new development from now on.

WHOLE COUNTY WILL BENEFIT

It is therefore a common interest, a common stake, that we all have in the success of the Metropolitan Plan, which is to make the federated city of Pittsburgh one of the great cities of the world.

The businessman and the wage earner of Homestead, or Wilkinsburg, or Dormont, or Tarentum, or Pittsburgh, will share in the benefits of the plan alike.

A GREAT CIVIC ENTERPRISE

It is a magnificent civic enterprise in which all citizens of Allegheny County are equal partners. For the first time in the history of the long effort to secure a Greater Pittsburgh, a plan is offered which does not sacrifice the independence of any of the political units. The borough and township government are preserved, and their rights of home rule are scrupulously protected.

The board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce has not only approved the charter by a unanimous vote, but it has urged every one of the nearly 6,000 members of that organization scattered throughout Allegheny County to vote for more industry and business throughout the county and thus get us the place in the eyes of the country and the world which belongs to us.

WORK AS WELL AS VOTE

The unanimous resolution of the directors of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce furthermore provided for the publication of this appeal, with a respectful recommendation to not only the businessmen but the citizens in general of Allegheny County that they aid in securing the large majority required for the charter's ratification by:

1. Casting their own votes in favor of the charter.

2. Exerting themselves to assure that the members of their families shall go to the polls and vote.

3. Using their influence to persuade their friends and their business associates of the tremendous importance of the plan to the community's growth and prosperity.

A GOOD BUSINESS PROPOSITION

It is a business proposition, as well as one in good government and civic pride. Let us all do our utmost as individual citizens to end the situation which is injuring every one of the 122 communities in Allegheny County by holding us up in a false light and a lower rank than that which is rightly ours among the metropolitan centers of the country and the world.

KREMER TO PITCH TODAY

SPORT COMMENT

by JAMES J. LONG

McCarthy's Poor Gamble.

Grove Chasing Hoodoo.
Grimes Deadly to Cubs.

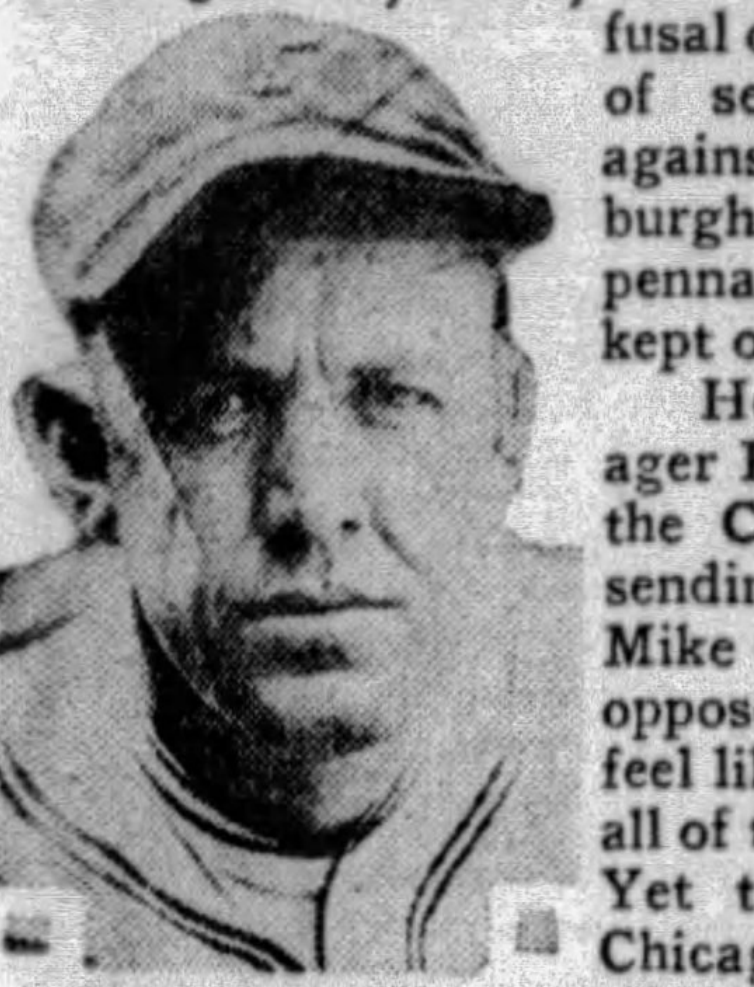
Taylor's New Honors.

VIRGINIA WILSON AMAZES GOLFDOM

THANKS to Burleigh Grimes' promptness in starting off on what the fans of this region hope will prove another long winning streak, aided, as he was, in his new start, by the refusal of Joe McCarthy to take the chance of sending one of his real pitchers against the Pirate spitball star, Pittsburgh is leading in the National League pennant race again today after being kept out of first place for six days.



Burleigh Grimes

How would local fans take it if Manager Bush were to open a series against the Cubs with first place at stake by sending in a pitcher of the caliber of Mike Cvengros as his opening hurler to oppose a Bruin star? They'd probably feel like running Donie out of town, and all of the other Pirate officials with him. Yet that's what McCarthy pulled in Chicago yesterday, the same McCarthy who is being continuously advertised as one of the smartest managers in baseball. The result was that the Bucs won the game and with it the pennant leadership in the very first inning.

EVEN then, instead of trying to save the game by using a capable hurler, McCarthy followed up with two more second-stringers in Claude Jonnard and Berlyn Horne and it took them two hours and 26 minutes to complete a game that was nothing more than a joy ride for the Pirates.

Naturally, Pittsburgh fans are not at all sorry that McCarthy took the course he did, and they also appreciate the tribute that the Cub leader thus paid to Grimes, but they can't see wherein McCarthy showed any of the smartness that has been credited to him.

IT IS true that Joe had used Nehf and Root on Thursday, Malone and Bush on Wednesday and Blake and Bush on Tuesday, but it seems that Blake, at least, should have been available, as he had pitched only part of Tuesday's game and had had two day's rest. McCarthy merely took a gamble on Cvengros, who is not a starting pitcher and is serviceable only for short relief or finishing roles. It was a 100-to-1 shot, and the Bruin boss lost, as might have been expected.

McCarthy was not only showing fear of Grimes, and fear of having one of his good pitchers defeated; but his courage was one likely to give his players the impression that their leader had given up the game in advance and that they didn't have a chance to win. A queer way to run a ball club. A real manager never gives up and is always willing to take a chance.

Bob Grove.

THE fact that the first double-header in the five-game series between the Athletics and Yankees ended in an even break may be looked upon somewhat in the light of a victory for the Mackmen. The Yanks cannot gain on the A's by merely maintaining an even pace with them, and if the Macks can continue to hold their own with the world champions the main obstacle to their pennant success will be removed. The manner in which Bob Grove crushed the Yanks in the opener yesterday is another item that brightens the Mackian outlook. He has now won two games from the New Yorkers this season, exactly twice as many as he took from them during all of last year. It indicates a vast difference in conditions this year, a difference all in favor of Philadelphia.

INASMUCH as both flingers won their games yesterday, Grimes and Grove still are tied for the pitching leadership of the major leagues. Each has won 11 games and lost only one. Cincinnati is the only club that has defeated Grimes, and Grove has lost only to Cleveland.

Sammy Gray, of the Browns, ranks next, with 10 won and two lost. George Uhle, of the Tigers, has won 10 and lost three. Waite Hoyt, of the Yanks, and Rube Walberg, of the Athletics, have each won 10 and lost three. George Earnshaw, of the A's, has won eight and lost three. His defeat yesterday broke a string of six straight wins.

GRIMES surely is a terror to the Cubs. Yesterday's victory was his fourth over them this season, without a defeat, and he should have five decisions to his credit, as the opening game with the Bruins here on April 24 ought to have been won in nine innings by the Pirates before Burleigh retired.

The Corsair ace has held Chicago's vaunted slugging quartet of Hornsby, Wilson, Stephenson and Cuyler to a collective batting average of only .243 in his five games this year.

CUYLER has batted .263, Hornsby and Stephenson .250 each, and Wilson only .211. In 70 times at bat, the four have made only 17 hits and have scored only six runs against Burleigh. Hornsby has not scored a run against Burleigh. Counting his final game against them last year, Grimes has defeated the Bruins five times in a row. He won five games out of six against them in 1928. As a Giant in 1927 Burleigh won the final two games in which he faced the Cubs, so that in his last 12 games against them in which he was responsible for the result he has defeated them 11 times.

Joyce Wethered.

THE golf world has long recognized two of Great Britain's linkswomen as the best in the game—Cecil Leitch and Joyce Wethered. Several years ago, Miss Wethered startled the golf world with her splendid score of 72, and it stood the test until yesterday.

Virginia Wilson, petite star from Chicago, accomplished the scintillating feat of registered a 71 at the Allegheny Country Club, taking the world record from Miss Wethered. Aside from the fact Miss Wilson had no less than 10 birdies and was eight strokes

NEW YORK, June 22.—With "fair and warmer" predicted by the weather man, baseball's all-time attendance record of 85,265 cash customers for a single day may go by the board this afternoon when the Athletics and Yankees square off at the Yankee Stadium for the second double-header of their all-important series.

Chicago Girl Breaks Low Score Record

By VERN SWARTSFAGER.

Little Virginia Wilson, Chicago star, startled golfdom with her splendid world record score of 71 yesterday in the opening 18-hole round of the Allegheny invitation tournament, and this morning she is out stroking as neatly as one could wish in an effort to duplicate the feat and win the honors in the first division. Miss Wilson's 71 of yesterday was one stroke better than the lowest score made in competition prior to that time by Joyce Wethered, British champion, several years ago.

Endeavoring to overtake the petite Windy City satellite the Anjeanette Hunter, of Stanton Heights, West Penn champion, and Edith Quier, of Reading, who ranked second at the end of yesterday's play with 77s. Helen Payson, of Portland, Me., the defending champion, has a slim chance of overtaking the leaders in the event their games prove off form today, but it is quite unlikely she will be able to succeed. The task appears to be almost insurmountable.

Mrs. Harley G. Higbie, of Detroit, finished next at the end of the qualifying play with an 82, tied with Louise Fordyce, of Youngstown. Bernice Wall, of Oshkosh, Wis., and Mrs. William McGivern, of Detroit, scored 86s.

In setting her world record, Miss

FEELING AMONG STARS TENSE

CHICAGO, June 2.—The tense feelings of the opposing players in the crucial series here finds an exhaust in expressions that might easily cause trouble. Manager Bush and Shortstop English rushed at each other during the progress of the first battle, but less excitable athletes were around—as they generally are—to prevent a head-on collision.

Grimes and Beans Reardon had two separate and distinct clashes which seemed to be enjoyed by the

BUCS REGAIN LEAGUE LEAD WITH WIN

By CHARLES J. DOYLE,
Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, June 22.—The Burleigh Grimes complex lay heavily upon Chicago fans today as the home supporters rallied to the Cubs' banner. Another vast assemblage is ready to swarm into Wrigley Field for the second game of the series, yet there was a feeling of keen disappointment as a result of Grimes' fourth victory over the Bears yesterday. Burleigh made the McCarthy clan like it as he recorded his eleventh victory of the season, the game ending in a complete rout of the Bears. The score was 14 to 3.

Manager Bush will send Remy Kremer out to heckle the Bruins this afternoon. Marse Joe has Sheriff Blake all primed for the tussle. The two right-handers should make the game a real duel, but in these days of lively balls and short fences, any pitcher may find himself walking the path to the showers before the battle has progressed far.

40,000 SEE GAME

Indications point to a big holiday gathering for the games today and tomorrow. The initial clash was witnessed by approximately 40,000 fans, but more than half of these Chicago boosters were women and girls who shared in the pleasures of Ladies' Day.

The Buccaneer brig was riding high on the crest of the National League seas today as a result of the Pittsburgh success in the important first game. The positions of the two clubs were reversed by the game,

Tony Fuente Stops Seifert in Fifth

ERIE, Pa., June 22.—(AP).—Tony Fuente, 190, Los Angeles, knocked out Sandy Seifert, Pittsburgh 189, in the fifth round of the scheduled 10-round feature go here last night. The Los Angeles Mexican had his man down three times in the fifth before the kayo punch.

Favor Rose of Sharon In Illinois Oaks

CHICAGO, June 22.—(AP.)—Rose of Sharon, fleet filly owned by the former Senator John N. Camden, of Kentucky, had a chance to clinch the 3-year-old championship today in the renewal of the $10,000 Illinois Oaks at Washington Park.

The fleet filly was a 6-to-5 favorite over the field of 10, which included two 100-to-1 shots, Golden Trail and Nancy Seth.

Dockey C. E. Allen was to be up on the Camden entry. Others granted a good chance to win were Lady Broadcast, Current and Altitude, which were quoted at 4-to-1.

Fight Results

At Erie—Tony Fuente knocked out Sandy Seifert, 5 rounds; Billy Jones defeated Rosy Rosales, 10 rounds; Ray Collins defeated Matty Oldach, 6 rounds; Leo Mozdy defeated Roy Minteer, 6 rounds; Nick Severo knocked out Joey Perrotti, 1 round.

MIND A BLANK AS HE TOOK '440' CROWN

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

Pete Bowen, otherwise Reginald Bowen, football track and swimming star of the University of Pittsburgh, has the floor for a brief oration. Pete, it will be remembered, recently won the ICA-4 440-yard championship at Philadelphia and has been the biggest star of the spring track season in the Pittsburgh district. Just now he is seeking the financial wherewithal to defray his expenses to the National A. A. U. championships at Denver and is a bit worried because they may not be forthcoming.

Pete Bowen

Pete strolled into the sports sanctum yesterday and immediately was pounced upon for a talk and emitted such interesting chatter about the running game that it simply must be passed on to the reading public.

RAN SELF OUT TO WIN

"I went out to get an early lead and succeeded," he said. "About midway in the race, Engel, of Yale, began to catch up to me and he was going like the wind. When he was almost even, I spurted and in the next few strides opened up a gap of a few yards. This appeared to take the life out of him and he wilted for a fraction of a second, according to spectators, while I kept hotfooting it for the tape. As I neared it, something seemed to snap in my brain and everything went black and I could feel myself struggling on, fighting my way home. I don't know how I made it. It was as if I was staggering and crawling. Finally, just as I got to the finish mark, I was conscious of something sweeping in behind me, like a fresh breeze. I learned afterward it was Engel, who had kept pounding after me as I faltered and had gained with every step until I just barely beat him in. The first assurance I had that I had won was when friendly arms grabbed me and I found myself standing before a battery of cameras being photographed.

"That isn't the first time I have finished that way. The 440 is probably the toughest race in the sport. It is a sprint all the way. Several coaches and other runners have told me there should be a letdown somewhere in the event to save up something for the finish, but I've never been able to find a soft spot in the race. It's always been a case of running myself out and several times I have finished as I did at the Intercollegiates, running on sheer instinct and condition alone. It was condition that pulled me through to the title, just as I am convinced that it was condition that enabled Gene Tunney to pick himself up off the floor and come on to win over Jack Dempsey in their famous fight at Chicago. It's in the pinches that condition counts. It is the margin between victory and defeat."

CONDITION BIGGEST FACTOR

In most of his meets, Pete runs all of the sprints, the 100, 220 and 440-yard events. I asked him if he did not find such a grind wearing on and possibly injurious to his physique. He replied in the negative.

"Not when I'm in condition," he said. "Of course, I'm tired at the end of such a day and probably also the next day, but there are no permanent ill effects. This I attribute to the fact that I am careful about what I eat and get lots of rest. I'm in bed not later than 10 o'clock every night when I'm in training, storing up energy for my efforts on the track. The 100 and 220-yard events, with all of their trial heats, are as nothing compared with the 440-yard struggle. That's one that calls for endurance as well as speed and takes everything you can put into it."

HIS SUCCESS FORMULA

Pete has his own formula for success.

"I never run against the field," he said. "I tried it once this year and I lost the race. Now I just go out and run as fast as I can and let the other fellows chase me. I don't jockey with them for position or try to single out one or two men I will have to beat to win. While you're watching them some one else is likely to pass you and you'll find you can't swing into a stride that will catch him. I find the best way is to run your own race and let the others run their own. If you're better than they are, you'll win."

PRAISES SIMPSON

I asked Pete how he rated George Simpson, of Ohio State, and Claude Bracey, of Texas, the two outstanding 100-yard dash collegiate men of the year. He said they were so closely matched that it was hard to make a comparison, but that in his judgment Simpson would beat Bracey oftener than the latter would be returned the victor. He was lavish in his praise of Simpson.

"He's the last fellow you'd take for a great sprinter," he said. "He's small and none too strong in appearance, but he's the type that goes running crazy when he hears the pop of a starting gun. He runs like a scared rabbit. Just a running fool, that's what he is. He certainly has a great competitive spark in his makeup."

RUNS AT STADIUM TODAY

Bowen will compete in the Allegheny Mountain Association championships at the Pitt Stadium this afternoon and figures to outclass his fields. Last Saturday, he ran in Washington and on Monday in New York. An injury kept him off the Olympic team last year. While in New York he was approached with a view to having him represent the New York Athletic Club at Denver and he was tickled to death to accept the offer, in view of the fact that Pitt is not in a position to send him to the A. A. U. championships, but the four months' residence rule barred him off the New York team. Unless some local organization or individual sportsman defrays his expenses, it is unlikely that he will be able to face the stars of the club as well as collegiate ranks in the titular competition, and that would be a pity, indeed, after his splendid work to date.

There is some talk of the Keystone Athletic Club sponsoring his trip to the Rocky Mountain region, although its policy has been against fostering representative competition, at least for the present. Such a step by the newest of the local clubs undoubtedly would be popular, in view of the unusual circumstances involved and the fact that Pete has a chance to add to the laurels he already has corraled for Pa Pittsburgh.

Baker Horses Win Closing Circuit Races

LEXINGTON, Ky., June 22.—(AP.)—The horses of F. J. Baker scored another signal victory in the Grand Circuit meeting here yesterday, the last day of Lexington's first spring meeting. Winnipeg and Tony Worthy, both owned by Mr. Baker, were returned winners. Winnipeg won the 2:07 pace from the fastest field of record pacers of the meeting, and Tony Worthy won the 3-year-old pace, in which his stablemate, Petro Guy, was favored. Baker's horses won six races during the meeting. Palin was the leading driver, with five winners. He was behind Winnipeg yesterday, but Fred Egan was behind Tony Worthy. The summary:

Dickey Sets Course Record at Wanango

FRANKLIN, Pa., June 22.—Harold W. Dickey, playing in a foursome with Fred Kroehl, C. H. Stickle and Willard Lamberton, this week broke the amateur course record at the Wanango Country Club. He turned in a card of 71, two strokes below par. Several times members have turned in cards close to this tally, but at no time has it been equaled, with every putt holed out, as was the case in this match.

Midge Gladman Wins Second Title

WILMINGTON, Del., June 22.—(AP.)—Marjorie K. (Midge) Gladman, Santa Monica, Cal., captured her second singles title in a week yesterday when she won the Delaware state women's lawn tennis championship by defeating Miss Virginia Hilleary, Philadelphia, 6-3, 6-1, in the finals.

Miss Gladman won the Pennsylvania championship last week.

M'TIERNAN TRAINS FOR SPEED

Buck McTiernan trained for speed yesterday in preparation for his 10-round windup battle with Andy DiVodi, of New York, in the Meyers Bowl, North Braddock, next Monday night. The Swissvale youngster laid off his heavy sparring partners for the day and worked exclusively with Pete Zivic, veteran bantamweight, and Johnny Smackey, fast featherweight, of Canonsburg.

A change in the program saw McTiernan go through his paces again in Flynn's gym, downtown. He was scheduled to perform in the ring at the bowl, but a high sun caused his handlers to fear that he might burn under it and they kept him indoors. However, it is planned to stage today's workout late in the bowl to familiarize Buck with the conditions there. This will be his last drill for the bout, his biggest test so far, for he will spend Sunday in the country, away from his friends and other admirers.

DiVodi is due to arrive in the city tomorrow morning and will stop at one of the downtown hotels.

PARIS TO BOX IOVINO

Sammy Paris, of the Hill, has been substituted for Georgie Tomosky, of Wilmerding, as the opponent of Al Iovino in the main bout at Butler next Tuesday night. Johnny Jones, of the North Side, will meet Roy Minteer, of New Castle, in one of the six-round preliminaries, and Tony Icone, of Youngstown, and Young (Kid) Sapienza, of Zelienople, are down for the four-round opener.

Johnny Michaels, of Swissvale, has been signed to box Jimmy Davis, of Erie, in the semi-final to the Rudy Ceder-Allen Beatty bout at New Kensington next Tuesday night. Andy Stahura, of Braddock, and Frankie Lanz, of Sharpsburg, are in another preliminary.

The card has been completed, with the exception of the signing of one principal, for the show at New Castle next Monday night, as follows: Paris Cangey vs. Maxie Strub, 10 rounds; Leo Mozdy vs. Mickey Donato and Lou Sanders vs. opponent to be named, 6 rounds each, and Walter Pickard vs. Frank Monroe and Red Hartley vs. Jimmy Kaufman, 4 rounds each.

Johnny Smackey will box Ralph Oger, of Moundsville, W. Va., in the semi-final to the Dominick Profio-Mike Payan bout at Washington, Pa., Monday night. Young Joe Walcott will oppose Joe Choko, Tommy Heilman will meet Petey Patch, and Joe Juhasz will battle Jack Pisarcik.

AMATEUR CARD COMPLETE

The program has been completed for the Twenty-seventh Ward A. C.'s open-air amateur show at its grounds on the North Side, Monday night, as follows: Dick Pritchard vs. Eddie Hebner, Mike Koppin vs. Al Becker, Sid La Cove vs. Jerome Glick, Joey Leonard vs. Johnny Warner, Chuck Mullin vs. Young Walsh, Joe Troski vs. Willie Hoppe and Tommy Nichols vs. Billy Mackey.

PIRATES REGAIN LEAGUE LEAD

the Bears today being one-half a game below the Pirates.

The Wisconsin wildcat was prowling high, wide and hondsome as he measured the Bears for his fourth triumph in five tilts with them, Grimes getting a draw in an extra-inning argument that marked the opening in Pittsburgh, this game eventually being won by the Corsairs.

Seldom in his Pirate career has the Fighting Lumberjack carried on as he did yesterday in the face of the Chicago attack. He fought Umpire Reardon, he argued and he smeared the ball in his best form. Ordinarily trying to save something for a reserve punch Burleigh threw caution to the winds several times as he fought to victory.

The final score has nothing at all in common with the fury of a game that "broke" in favor of the Pirates when George Grantham hit a four-run homer into the right field seats in the seventh inning with two out. The Buccos were carefully nursing a one-run lead at the time and the mood of the players was such that fist fights were narrowly averted.

The opposing athletes swapped punches like champions through six rounds, but when Boots brought his swing up from the floor in the seventh the home battlers were counted out. A long count would not have helped the Bears at this time, for the four runs that trickled over on Grantham's wallop were enough to take most of the fight out of the average player.

CVENGROS OUT EARLY

Silent Mike Cvengros didn't get much of a chance to try conclusions with the Pittsburgh Ace. Mike was placed in a bad spot by Hack Wilson in the first round when Hack dropped Lloyd Waner's long fly. Bartell started the game by drawing a base on balls and when Wilson muffed Lloyd's loft, runners were on third and second with none out. Four runs had gone over the plate and two were out as Claude Jonnard relieved little Mike.

Jonnard moved along like a star from the moment of his arrival until Grantham parked the ball in the right field seats in the momentous seventh. Berlyn Horne relieved Jonnard in the inning and the Buccos made a lot of hay as the youngster toiled. The eighth brought two more tallies and the Pirates made it a complete walkaway in the ninth by adding four more markers, it being the third inning of the game to produce that many runs.

Hack Wilson threw the multitude in an uproar in the third when he smashed his seventeenth homer of the season into the rightfield bleachers.

Tad's Immortal Fight Stories

By TAD

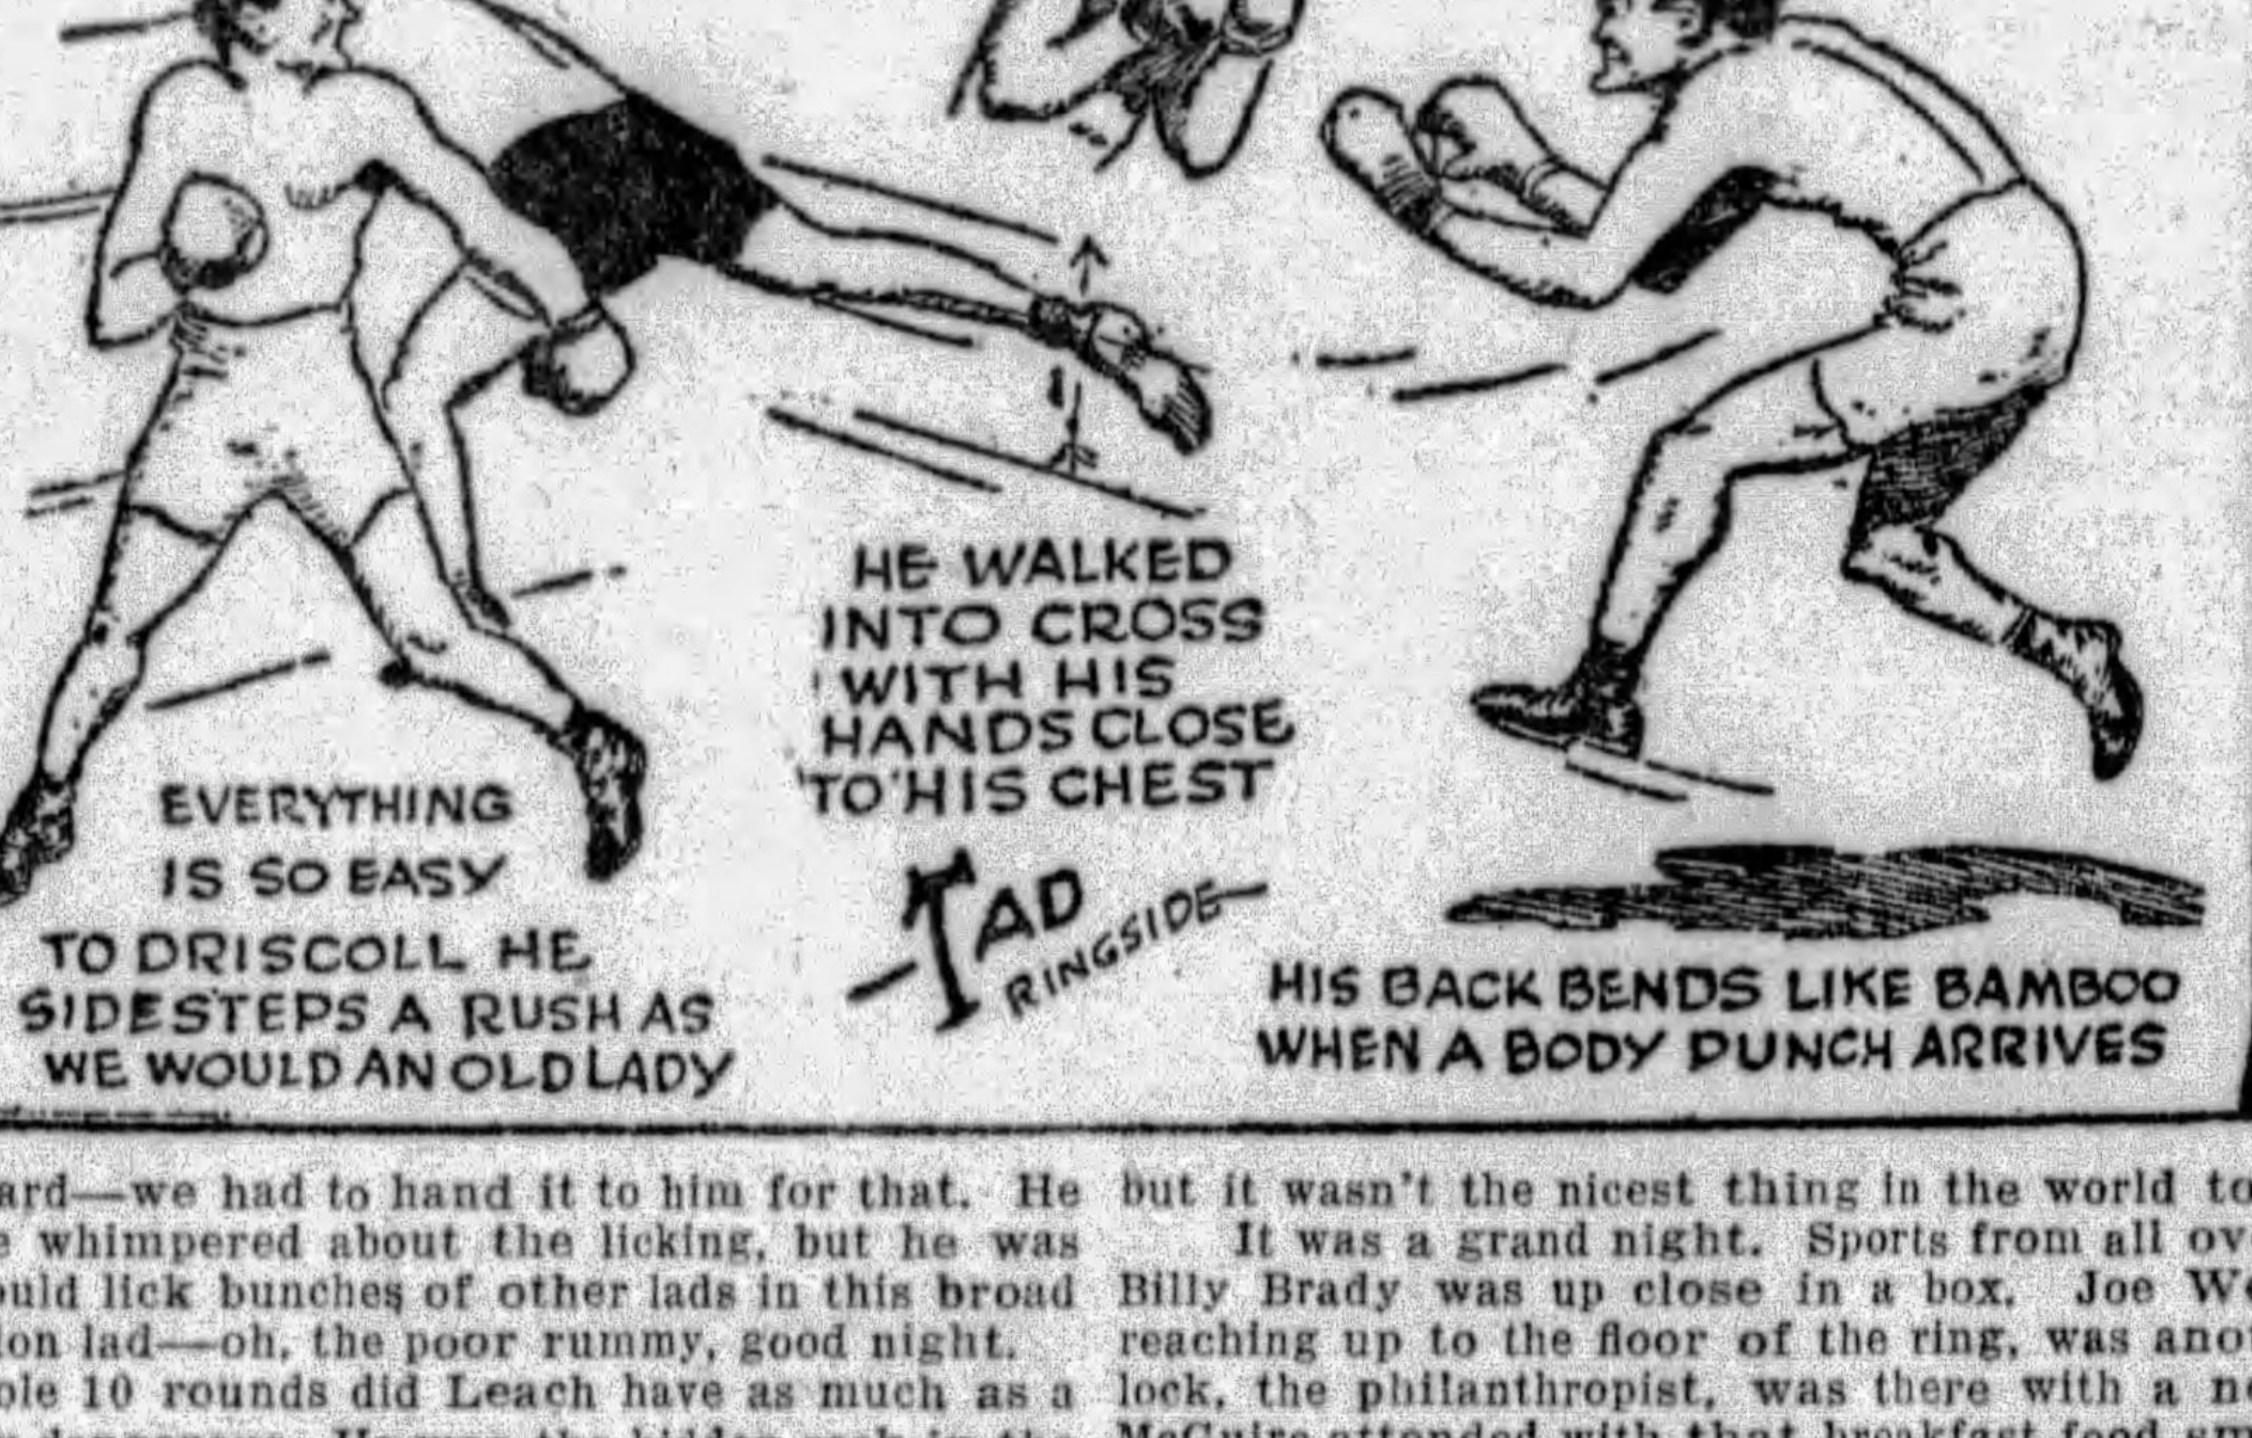
(For 10 years, Tad (T. A. Dorgan), one of the greatest cartoonists and sports authorities, covered the "fight game." Shortly before his death, recently, he wrote and illustrated a score of stories describing, in his inimitable style, those ring battles which for thrills and sensationalism were stamped indelibly in his mind. These reminiscences deal not only with fights in which titles were at stake, but also with thrilling affairs staged in private and at the smaller clubs. This story is one of the series. Others will follow.)

THEY played a joke on Leach Cross, February 11, 1909, at the old Fairmont Club up in the Bronx. Some one told him that he was just the lad who could trim Jem Driscoll, the English wizard, and Leach believed it.

He went up to Harlem and for 10 rounds floundered about the ring trying to find Jem.

Did you ever walk around in the dark hunting for something and then fall down a hole and bump yourself five or six or seven times before you hit bottom? That's what Leach did. Not only once, but all through the fight. He knew that Driscoll was before him, but like the man in search of happiness, never found it. The longer he stayed, the more certain he was that no such thing existed. There was no Driscoll as far as Cross' gloves were concerned. Jem did the thinking for both.

One was the class; the other the dummy. One was the fighter, the boxer, the clever ring general, the master thinker; the other the ordinary pug. One was as far above the other as the sun is above the subway. It was ridiculous sometimes to see Cross trying to hit that bounding Briton. Cross tried hard—we had to hand it to him for that. He was game; he never once whimpered about the licking, but he was out of his class. Leach could lick bunches of other lads in this broad land, but, as for the London lad—oh, the poor rummy, good night.



EVERYTHING IS SO EASY TO DRISCOLL HE SIDESTEPS A RUSH AS WE WOULD AN OLD LADY
HE WALKED INTO CROSS WITH HIS HANDS CLOSE TO HIS CHEST
TAD RINGSIDE
HIS BACK BENDS LIKE BAMBOO WHEN A BODY PUNCH ARRIVES

NEVER once in the whole 10 rounds did Leach have as much as a look-in. He was surely dangerous. He was the hidden rock in the channel, but that brave old skipper, Driscoll, simply skipped rings around the danger. He knew that Cross had a right with the "good night" sign on it. It skipped by his chin time and time again, but Jem was just a teeny, weeny bit away from it.

He was just a teeny, weeny bit away from most all of Cross' punches.

It would take your breath away to see that fellow Driscoll get by things. There never was any one around who could do it with such ease.

You'll say it's luck when a man just pulls away an eighth of an inch from a deadly slam, but what do you say when he does it 25 times in a round? Fighting a big fellow like Cross was no cinch, and slamming him around and at the same time making the crowd howl with delight at your cleverness is simply marvelous.

He would walk up to Leach, jab him on the nose with a left, duck a left hand swing that would have torn City Hall loose from its foundation, come up and duck a right of the same brand, and then jab again. Clever? That's what they all said.

Cross almost broke his back trying to land. He would back Jem into a corner, take good aim with his right and let it go like a cannon ball. Swish! Driscoll was gone and there was a left jab in the nose for the trouble. Cross then would cover up to get near, and, like a flash, swing a left and right. Swish! A left in the nose and a right on the eye for his trouble.

It beat boomerangs to death. You can throw a boomerang so that it will come back right at your feet. Cross had that beaten to a frazzle. He would toss a left, maybe, and before he knew it, he got three back before you could say Jack Robinson. M-a-r-v-e-l-o-u-s, as Dave Montgomery used to say.

It was that way from start to finish.

It wasn't a bloody, bruising fight. Cross' nose bled after the fifth round and his left eye was puffed up a bit, but outside of that there were no marks upon either.

IN THE eighth round Silent Charley Harvey, who was in Jem's corner, dumped a quart of champagne on his man's head as a bracer. Yes, it did look like a waste of good material.

In the ninth round, Jem slipped in his own corner during a mix and Cross soaked him right hard upon the back. He was hissed roundly for this bit of play. It didn't hurt, though, but it wasn't the nicest thing in the world to do.

It was a grand night. Sports from all over the town were there. Billy Brady was up close in a box. Joe Weber, with his hat just reaching up to the floor of the ring, was another. H. Connolly Pollock, the philanthropist, was there with a new yellow kelly. Gene McGuire attended with that breakfast food smile.

After the preliminaries, Mr. Jabez Write, of London, England, climbed into the ring. Mr. J. Twin Sullivan, the twin who tried to lick Ketchel for licking his brother and got the same dose, was introduced. Mr. Owen Moran, with a diamond the size of a cabbage, smiled sweetly at the crowd. Mr. J. Gans, the bacon dealer from Baltimo,' jumped in, too.

Coming down in the car after the fight, two Grand street fans were chattering about the number of solid blows Cross landed throughout the fight. "Why, I counted three," said one, holding up his hand. "Just three, that's all he landed."

"No, you're mistaken about that," piped the other, "he hit him four. Three when he was up and once when he went down."

Burke Takes Lead In N. Y. Golf Play

RYE, N. Y., June 22.—(AP.)—Breaking the course record with a 68 on his second round Billy Burke, Westport, N. Y., professional, took the lead at the halfway mark of the 72 hole New York state open championship at the Westchester-Biltmore Club yesterday. Burke's round of 68 followed a 72 in the morning giving him a total of 140 strokes.

Four strokes behind, Lighthorse Harry Cooper of Buffalo and George Christ of Rochester were tied for second place. Each carded 74 for the first round and 70 for the second. Five players, including the leader of the amateur contingent, George Voight of North Hills, were tied for third place with totals of 146 for the 36 holes.

GERMANS "IN"

PRAGUE, June 22.—(AP.)—Germany qualified yesterday to meet England in the final round of the European Davis Cup matches by defeating Czecholslovakia, 4 to 1.

STARS COMPETE FOR A. M. A. TITLES

By JESS CARVER.

Track and field luminaries of the district will compete today for honor, glory, gold medals and the banzais of the multitudes in the annual championship carnival of the A. M. A. of the A. A. U. If you don't know what "banzai" means, change it to read "huzzahs." It means the same thing.

Nine of the 16 reigning champions of the Allegheny Mountain Association will be on hand out in the Stadium to wage strenuous warfare in defense of their titles. Two of these champs are double ones, Pete Bowen holding the laurels in the 100 and 440, and Marshall Lewis in the 220 and the 120-yard high hurdles. With two champions out of competition, one of whom holds three crowns, it is very likely that we will see the coronation of at least five new rulers by even tide.

RECORDS SEEM SAFE

Despite a fine array of flesh and blood on the entry list today, it is highly improbable that many new records will be set. In fact, it is unlikely that any of the present best marks, except in the hurdles, will be replaced.

The big feature of today's carnival is expected to come with the running of the century dash, in which Pete Bowen, University of Pittsburgh and P. A. A. flyer, will attempt to set a new mark. The present record of 0:09 4-5, set last year at Schenley Oval by this same Bowen, will very likely withstand the assaults of Mr. Bowen. The field, while strong, does not appear to be classy enough to force Pete to a new mark.

The champions on hand today will be: Pete Bowen, 100 and 440; Marshall Lewis, 220 and high hurdles; Bob Carter, mile; Rufus Tankins, six-mile; George Mullen, mile walk, Red Lathom, low hurdles; Cooper, high jump; A. E. Rose, broad jump, and Bill Robusch, pole vault.

STAR FIELDS ENTERED

Opposed to this list of known stars will be a host of lesser lights and ones who have yet to strike their full stride. If some of these chaps go right today, some of these other fellows with more gold medals adorning their manly bosoms may assimilate a few kicks in the trousers.

Following are the present A. M. A. records, holders, and the year they were established. Peruse:

TRACK EVENTS
220-yard dash—King, Ohio Wesleyan, 1920, 0:21 3-5.
440-yard run—Bowen, P. A. A., 1928, 0:47 4-5.
880-yard run—Ashton, P. A. A., 1926, 1:58 2-5.
Mile run—Ashton, P. A. A., 1926, 4:26.
Six-mile run—Tankins, E. T. A. A., 1928, 33:11 2-5.
Mile walk—Young, E. T. A. A., 1921, 7:14 3-5.
High hurdles—Campbell, Yale, 1926, 0:14 4-5.
Low hurdles—Lathom, P. A. A., 1928, 0:24 4-5.

FIELD EVENTS
High jump—Robusch, P. A. A., 1927, 6 ft. 5 in.
Discus—Welch, P. A. A., 1928, 147 ft. 5 in.
Pole vault—Robusch, P. A. A., 1927, 12 ft. 10½ in.
Shot put—Welch, P. A. A., 1928, 43 ft. 5 in.
Javelin—Angier, Westinghouse, 1926, 188 ft. 4 in.
Hammer—Linn, P. A. A., 1928, 144 ft.

YANKS, MACKS BREAK EVEN

American League pennant battle to an even break yesterday. The Mexican stand-off was a moral victory for the Mackian maulers, who put the burden of proof even more heavily upon the champions, and a personal triumph for Babe Ruth. The feat of that interesting invalid in twice pulling the hit-and-walk play saved his mates from utter rout and thrilled thousands of fans who are expected to make the turnstiles click at a record speed today.

MOUND ACES WIN

The rival mound aces won yesterday, Lefty Grove breezing to an 11-to-1 landslide in the opener and Waite Hoyt negotiating an 8-to-3 win in the nightcap. Today the rival pilots will shoot their right bowers, Walberg and Pipgras. The other hurlers probably will be Zachary or Heimach and Quinn or Orwoll.

Ruth's feat in driving in seven runs with a pair of homers and a single yesterday was a rarity, but not a record. Al Simmons also hit two homers and six other bingles, but drove in only five tallies.

In the National League the Pirates slaughtered the Cubs, 14 to 3, taking the league lead away from the Bruins. Grimes recorded his eleventh win for the Bucs and Hack Wilson, of the Cubs, contributed his seventeenth homer, which was his sixth four-bagger in four days.

GIANTS ADVANCE

By taking their fourth straight game from the Phillies, 11 to 5, the Giants advanced to within less than a game of the third-place Cardinals, who were playing an exhibition contest.

Bressler's homer in the fifteenth climaxed Brooklyn's 7-to-3 victory over the Boston Braves, who had trimmed the Robins three straight. Brooklyn regained sixth place while Boston dropped to seventh.

Charley Ruffing, of the Red Sox, held Washington to five hits, but lost, 5 to 4.

PLAN REIGH COUNT DAY

CHICAGO, June 22.—(AP.)—Every dog has his day and now Reigh Count, the fleet red colt, is to have his. Soon after the thoroughbred, which won second place in the Ascot Gold Cup race in England this week, returns to America, Arlington Park will sponsor a Reigh Count day. During the ceremony, the Hertz colt will gallop in an exhibition.

PAULINO TO FLY TO SCHMELING BOUT

MAX ANXIOUS TO WAGER HE'LL WIN

By SID MERCER,
International News Service.

HOOSICK FALLS, N. Y., June 22.—Without asking permission from his managers, William F. Carey or the sponsors of the milk fund boxing carnival, Paulino, boldest of the Basques, has announced that he is flying down to New York next Thursday morning to keep his date with Max Schmeling at the Yankee Stadium that night.

The woodchopper is not making any great hit with Carey risking his neck on the eve of such an important fight, for Carey has no substitute to put in with Schmeling and the customers won't like it, either, if they pay their money just to see the German win by default.

But the old Beezark of the Basque is determined to fly. He wants to remain here in this cool, pleasant spot as long as he can. And particularly does he wish to avoid a hot night in the city before the battle. He was unable to sleep last Monday night in New York because of the heat.

BOYD TO BE PILOT

It develops that he has been dickering with the airplane people for some time and his intended flight next week is no press-agent yarn. Lieut. James Arthur Ellison, of the First Pursuit Group of the Air Corps, arrived here last evening with Bertys Perry, one of Paulino's managers. They flew from New York to Albany. Ellison is stationed at Selfridge Field, near Detroit, but is on a leave of absence. Paulino has commissioned him to purchase a plane immediately after next week's fight and Ellison is to teach the Basque how to fly.

Capt. J. Errol Boyd, chief pilot of the Coastal Airways, will handle the big Fairchild plane for Paulino next Thursday, with Lieut. Ellison acting as assitant pilot.

The Basque laid off the boxing stuff yesterday in adherence to the program mapped out for this week by Prof. Arthus. Paulino returned from his visit to Williamstown early in the afternoon, took a warm up in his outdoor ring and thereby disappointed a flock of prospective customers, including Louis Kid Kaplan, who drove up from Meriden, Conn., to see a workout.

MAXIE WOULD GAMBLE

LAKEWOOD, N. J., June 22.—(INS.)—Max Schmeling offers to bet 5 per cent of the purse he will receive for fighting Paulino Uzcudun in New York next Thursday that he will defeat the Basque. The German heavyweight made the offer on an even money basis.

Der Maxie enjoyed the amusement devices at Atlantic City yesterday. He will resume training today and also will work out today, tomorrow, Monday and Tuesday.

GRAYS CHECKED BY HILLDALE

By TOM BIRKS

The Homestead Grays were checked in their efforts to climb to the top of the standing in the American Negro League at Forbes Field last evening by the Hilldale team of Philadelphia, losing a 3-to-1 decision in 10 innings.

The visitors tied the score at one-all in the ninth and then tallied twice in the tenth to win. The teams wil clash in the second game of the series at Forbes Field this afternoon. This evening, the Grays meet Dormont at Dormont.

Stowe Civics barely nosed out Book Shoe in the City League last night, winning by 6 to 5. Reliance Life pounded the Pleasant Valley Smilers, 5 to 2.

ROONEY REDS WIN

In the Wagner Junior League, the Rooney Reds defeated the Ardmore A. C., 10 to 7. The Troy Hill Millers defeated Fineview, 14 to 5, in a North Side Twilight League tussle.

Rankin won over Westinghouse, 7 to 5, in the Tri-Boro League; St. Boniface downed Liptak, 6 to 2, in the Greater North Side League; St. Michaels won from St. Stanislaus, 16 to 4, in the West Penn; Philadelphia Company upset the Pittsburgh Railways in a Philadelphia Company loop fray, 7 to 4; Hawthorne defeated the Methodists, 10 to 3, in the Crafton Church League, and W. O. W. walloped Roosevelt, 20 to 4, in the Central League, in other sandlot loop battles.

Edgewood won an 18-to-0 victory over the Collier Colts in an independent tussle. The Pitcairn Railroaders defeated the Pitcairn Stars, 5 to 2, and the East Liberty Hoosiers defeated the Uniontown Elks, 2 to 0, with Diethorne hurling a no-hit, no-run game.

DROP HURLER

Shires Imitates Violet Born To Blush—!

CHICAGO, June 22.—(AP.)—Art Shires, who has had plenty of ups and downs since joining the White Sox, has discovered a method of getting more ups.

He is going to get more extra base hits.

"No use of a great hitter like me getting himself a flock of skimpy singles," Shires informed the world over radio. "You never get your name in the headlines with singles. It's distance the public wants. From now on I'm aiming for the next county. I'm going out after those home runs."

"Come out and razz me," he urged his audience. "You'll go away cheering me when I slam them against those bleachers. I sure can hit that ball and I'm not so bad around first base either."

Since Shires returned to Manager Lena Blackburnes' good graces, he has been hitting brilliantly.

GIRL GOLFER SETS RECORD

Wilson registered no less than 10 birdies, four of them going out and six coming in. She was out in 35, which was two under women's par, and home again in 36, six under women's par, for her 71—in all, eight under the stipulated strokes for women. It was a marvelous feat. Her streaks of playing were most remarkable; on the first nine she took holes 3, 4, 5 and 6 in birdies, with three 3s and a 4 in that order. A 5 to begin with and two more, one on the seventh and another on the par 5 ninth, gave her two more strokes than she would have had had she held to par on the holes on which she did not register birdies. No one can kick about being over par on a couple of holes when they go out in 35, however.

Coming in on the homeward trek, Miss Wilson had no less than four more holes in better than par—the tenth was a birdie 4, the eleventh a birdie 4, the twelfth a birdie 3 and the thirteenth a birdie 4. She then equaled par on the fourteenth with a 5 and again matched it with a 4 on the fifteenth, but followed this up with a ninth birdie on the sixteenth, chalking up a 3. She equaled par with 5 on the seventeenth and then wound up what must have been the most perfect of her golfing days with a birdie 4 on the eighteenth for a 36. Her card, with par:

Par out	4	4	4	4	4	5	4	3	5	—37
Miss Wilson out	5	4	3	3	3	4	5	3	5	—35
Par in	5	5	4	5	5	4	4	5	5	—42	—79
Miss Wilson in	4	4	3	4	5	4	3	5	4	—36	—71

LOCAL STARS TRAIL

A number of local and out-of-town stars who are on the scene of action failed in their attempts for good scores yesterday, but are shooting improved golf at Allegheny this morning. Among this group are Mrs. J. Bernd Rose, of Allegheny, who had a 96, and Mrs. J. Raymond Price, of Oakmont, who scored 95, both former West Penn champions; Mrs. F. C. Letts, of Chicago, who needed 99, and Mrs. William Boggs, who carded 98.

Little Betty Abernethy, of the Oakmont Country Club, took the lead in the field early yesterday when she brought in a card of 87. She was out in 45 and home again in 42, which was splendid golf.

The tournament will wind up with the completion of today's 18-hole medal round, and the visiting stars will take a few of the local women along with them to Buffalo, where they will participate next week in an invitation tournament there.

Aside from the honors she won in the tournament, Virginia Wilson went ahead late yesterday to win a special driving contest. She had an average of 212 yards. Anjeanette Hunter, West Penn champion, should really have won this event, her first drive of almost 275 yards being out of bounds and her second and third attempts being 248 and 228 yards. Miss Wilson's drives were 218, 207 and 211 yards respectively.

Mrs. Sarah Wadsworth came through to bring the honors in the approaching and putting contest to the Oakmont Country Club in the final event on yesterday's program.

The day was ideal for golf, with only a slight breeze blowing and a warm sun flooding the course. Allegheny's layout is at its best at this time of the year.

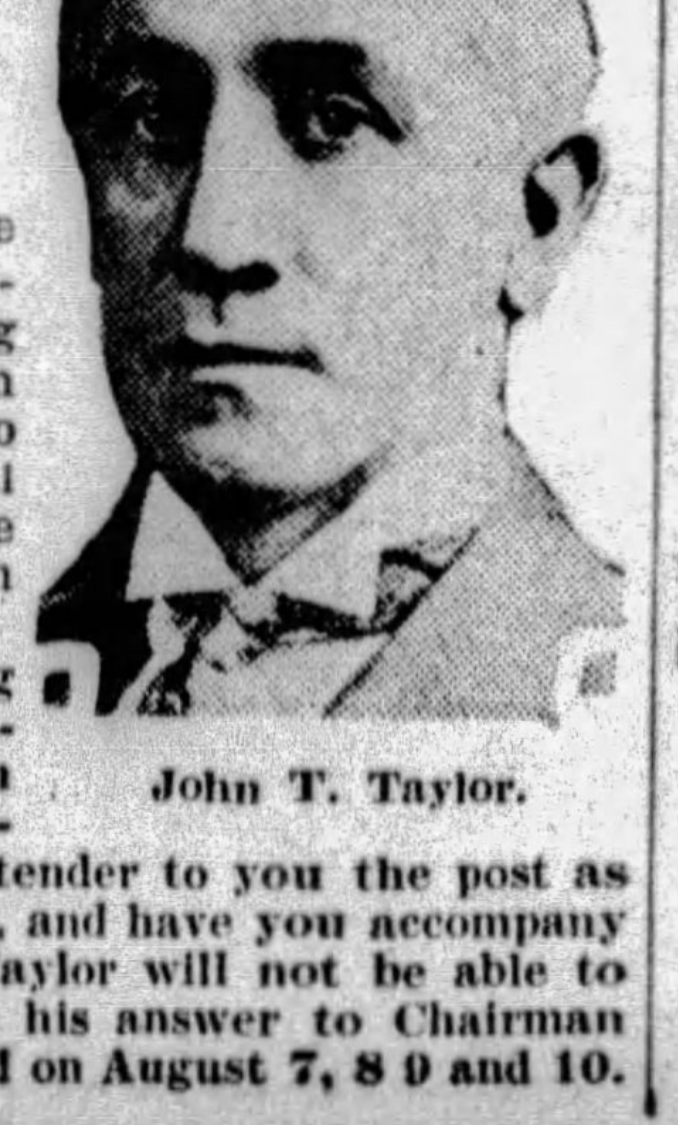
under women's par for the course.

IT IS remarkable that so slim a girl could score as well is Miss Wilson did. She is not an exceptionally long driver, although she won a driving contest yesterday after the play for the day was finished, averaging slightly more than 200 yards.

But she is deadly with her approaches and her putting is consistently steady. Indications are that Miss Wilson will make a real stab at the National title this year, and it will be no great surprise if she wins Glenna Collett's throne.

APPARENTLY the National body of the A. A. U. has got to come back to John T. Taylor, of Pittsburgh, when some unusually important swimming event requires expert handling. Taylor, long one of the leading and most competent officials and managers of amateur swimming, not only in the country but in the International Federation, retired as chairman of the National swimmng committee of the A. A. U. some time ago, and has been devoting all his time to his duties as secretary and treasurer of the Allegheny Mountain Association, but evidently the National body cannot get along without him.



John T. Taylor.

SEVERAL times the Pittsburgher's advice and assistance have been sought in connection with the Olympic games and big meets in this country, and now he has again been signally honored by being asked to serve as referee at the women's National championship swimming competition to be held in Hawaii, and to accompany the team on the long trip.

Taylor yesterday received the following letter from Frank W. Blankley, of the Illinois A. C., of Chicago, who succeeded him as chairman of the National swimming committee of the A. A. U.: "I would like to tender to you the post as referee at the Women's Nationals in Hawaii, and have you accompany Whether he can accept or not, however, Taylor will not be able to decide for about two weeks. He will give his answer to Chairman Blankley at that time. The meet is to be held on August 7, 8 9 and 10.

HILL CREST C. C. CADDIES ENTER TOURNEY

Eight boys at the Hill Crest Country Club, near New Kensington, qualified yesterday under the direction of Fred Robinson, professional, for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph's second annual Western Pennsylvania junior amateur tournament for the William Randolph Hearst Trophy, which is to be played at the Schenley Park municipal links on Thursday, July 11.

Two boys, V. G. Choltco and J. Zararowski, tied for the medal honors, each getting a 48 for the nine hole test over the stiff New Kensington layout. A. Defassio and W. Raybits ranked next with 49s, while M. Soloman registered a 50. Three were deadlocked for last place, S. Rodnite, J. Defassio and F. Taker each registering 51.

The tournament is open to all boys 18 years of age or under, not attending class above high school grades, who hold an amateur status as defined by the United States Golf Association code. That means all caddies 15 years of age and under who are now caddying are eligible to play as amateurs, although they must first qualify at their own club. The only exception to this rule is made for boys who live at such great distance from the city that interest at their club is not sufficient to warrant a qualifying round.

It's only a matter of a couple of weeks now until the tournament will be at hand—don't delay sending in your signed entry if you are eligible.

A few additional entries follow:

Edward Jones: 16, 4107 Beechwood Blvd., Pittsburgh. Grade 9-A, Taylor Alderdice High. Ed isn't a caddie.

PIRATE, CUB STARS TENSE

men and boys of the crowd. Grimes "hopped on" the arbiter because he thought Reardon missed a third strike on Ki Cuyler just before the former Pirate walked in the sixth. Stephenson's double followed to score Cuyler and put the tying run on second with none out. Grimes, however, kept that run on the sacks.

GRIMES, UMP, TANGLE

When Grimes came to bat after the Cuyler incident, the pitcher and umpire went at it again, but Burleigh was allowed to continue in the game. Later, Bush and English flared into a big scene.

Grimes made three hits in a row and ran the bases with considerable speed after his arguments with Reardon. As a rule, Burleigh saves himself, but he was worked to a high degree of anger and seemed to find relief in smearing the ball. His single of the eighth was a vicious drive against the left field fence, but he did decide to slow down on this drive, the smash scoring Hargreaves, with Grimes being content to reach first.

Capt. Traynor came through another game with three hits. Harold Joseph annexed three in the last encounter in Cincinnati and his day of rest here appeared to put him right on edge.

It would be a bit foolish to play the third baseman in exhibition contests in his present condition. Pie started the Pirates on the road to success by hitting in two runs in the first round.

GRANTHAM HERO

Grantham was the real hero of the contest with a homer, a triple and a single. The rightfield seats here are tailor-made for the long lofts of the southpaw hitter. George naturally pulls a ball and it is not much of a trick for him to plant them in the seats. Cuyler climbed the fence in front of the bleachers in a wild effort to haul in this victory drive.

Grimes still showed signs of being overworked, but he should be back in his normal stride again soon. He allowed only nine hits in the opener with the Cubs, but in a general way he was not as effective as he generally is, especially while flipping them up to the bears. Burleigh's control was good, however, he walking only two men.

Grantham and Bartell helped to take the Horseman out of a bad spot in the fifth. English led off with a single and up came Hornsby. Grimes made him hit a grounder straight at Grantham and the second-base pair, with some aid from Sheely, reeled off a double shuffle.

Nice Feller This English Chappie

CHICAGO, June 22.—An attempt by Shortstop English to "dust off" Manager Donie Bush of the Pirates was the incident that caused the Bucco pilot to rush out on the diamond in the direction of English in the eighth inning of yesterday's game.

Bush ventured a "crack" to the Cub shortfielder on a rather stupid play by the latter just before English let fly with the ball.

Woodie was on first with two out when Wilson hoisted a fly to Paul Waner. Instead of rushing around the bases on the loft, English, apparently thinking only one was out, ran back to the bag after the catch had been made.

"That's a great play, for a first place ball club," was the purport of Donie's remark.

English evidently was stung by the shaft, and as he picked up the ball he is said to have thrown it at Bush, who was on the coaching line.

Donie then took after him.

REID, KURZROK IN OHIO NET FINAL

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN
Staff Correspondent.

CLEVELAND, June 22.—Kirk Reid, Cleveland's veteran, several times ranked in the national "first ten," will encounter Leo Kurzrok, rising New York southpaw, in the final round of the Ohio State men's singles tourney on the Tennis and Racquet Club courts here today. Reid came through to the titular tilt yesterday afternoon by dint of rushing the net to smother the cagy change of pace of George O'Connell, Chicago star—and former Pittsburgh lad—in a hectic four-set debate, 6-2, 6-1, 3-6, 6-4.

Kurzrok breezed through the semi-finals at the expense of Walter Martin, seventh ranking Canadian player, 6-3, 6-3, 6-2, the Canuck's flat drives proving largely ineffective and frequently erratic in the face of the Gothamite's blistering baseline attack.

Meanwhile, in the United States inter-city doubles conclave, pairs representing New York, Cleveland and Toronto, Ontario, entered the semi-finals, with the Chicago and Buffalo delegations yet to terminate a torrid quarter-final combat interrupted by twilight last evening as the Windy City duo struggled to the fore, two sets to one.

Kurzrok and Sheridan, flashy, hard-hitting New Yorkers, measured off the Gotfredson brothers, of Milwaukee, 6-1, 6-0, 6-2, to enter the bracket of four, and Reid and Bartel, Cleveland, accounted for another fraternal combination, the Reindels, of Detroit, 6-1, 6-0, 6-4.

Nunns and Martin, Toronto twain, experienced even less difficulty with the Columbus crew, Herman Wirthwein, Ohio State University net coach, and Chuck Okerbloom, No. 1 man of the Buckeyes.

O'Connell and Royer, of Chicago, dropped their initial set to Cliff Marsh and Jack Castle, of Buffalo, 6-3, but spurted to annex the second third, 6-3, 6-2. The joust will be resumed at 10 a. m. today.

In the women's title tussle today Clara Louise Zinke and Ruth Oexman will stage an all-Cincinnati affair. Miss Zinke dropped a set yesterday to Mrs. Andree Russell, Cleveland luminary, but pulled ahead to triumph, 6-8, 6-2, 6-4, while Miss Oexman also found trouble disposing of another Clevelander, Barbara Duffy, 8-6, 6-4.

Barnum, Former W. Va. Star, Hurt In Mill

BALTIMORE, June 22.—(AP.)—Robert (Pete) Barnum, 27, of Parkersburg, W. Va., former high school and West Virginia University track and football star, now working as a steel puddler in the plant of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation at Sparrows Point, a Baltimore suburb, was seriously injured yesterday afternoon when he stumbled and fell into a vat of molten metal at the steel plant.

Barnum was seriously burned over his entire body, his left side and arm being most seriously affected. He saved himself from instant death and cremation by grasping a small ledge inside of the vat and holding on until pulled to safety by fellow workers.

Sub Crews Race On Hudson Today

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 22.—(AP.)—With the main body of the oarsmen resting until Monday, the opening gun of the Intercollegiate Rowing Association Regatta will be fired today with two races for substitute shells. Six crews will participate in the battle between the men who cannot get into the big races.

The first race, scheduled for 4 o'clock, eastern daylight time is for eight oared shells with Cornell, Pennsylvania, Columbia, and a combination crew composed of four men from Wisconsin and four from Washington, competing. The latter is the heavy favorite.

DOG SHOW TODAY

The second annual one-day dog show of the West Penn Kennel Club is on today at Olympia Park, McKeesport. A large field is entered and the event is licensed by the American Kennel Club. Entries have come from many cities in the East and Middle West to the extent of more than 500 and 10 licensed judges are officiating in making the awards, beginning at 11 a. m.

VOGAN IS ASSISTANT

STONEBORO, Pa., June 22.—Roland Vogan, of Sandy Lake, a Westminster College athlete, has been named assistant athletic director at the local high school for next year.

NEW YORK, June 22.—Mei Foo won the Bramble Handicap, feature of yesterday's racing card at Aqueduct. Sun Forward was second.

W. PA. TENNIS PLAY OPENS TODAY

Play in the forty-first annual West Penn tennis tournament will begin today, opening round men's singles matches being scheduled on the Pitt, Carnegie Tech and Stanton Heights Country Club courts. Play in the men's doubles, women's singles and the mixed doubles will get under way next week, with the entries closing for those events Monday evening.

The men are playing for the David I. McCahill three-year trophy, to be awarded for the first time this year and the Grogan Cup, a one year award. In the women's singles, the prize will be the newly awarded Honus Wagner trophy.

Maryland Golfers Reach Semi-Finals

HAGERSTOWN, Md., June 22.—(AP).—B. Warren Corkran, of Baltimore, defending Middle Atlantic champion, won his way to the semi-finals in the golf tournament over the links of the Fountain Head Country Club here yesterday, disposing of Harris Jones, another Baltimore player, one up after an extra hole in the morning round, and beating Ernie Caldwell, also of Baltimore, in the afternoon, four and three.

Corkran will meet C. K. Stonebraker, of Hagerstown, and J. F. Grimes, of Baltimore, will meet T. T. Speer, of Baltimore, in the semi-finals.

GENGER TO MANAGE

WEST MIDDLESEX, Pa., June 22.—Carl Genger, local young man, has been named manager of the Steelton team in the greater Youngstown Baseball League for the remainder of the year. Genger will play in the outfield. His nephew, Raymond, is an infielder and Ted Bair, another local lad, is on the pitching staff.

LENORE ULRIC HAS WEDDING RING BUT WON'T SAY WHERE IT'S FROM

By DOROTHY HERZOG

(Copyright, 1929, by Premier Syndicate.)

HOLLYWOOD, June 22.

LENORE ULRIC is a sly wench. Verily, she is sly. Sundry have been the questions hurled at David Belasco's erstwhile star: "Are you married to Sidney Blackmer?" and Lenore sustains a stony silence. Or maybe it isn't stony. At the Fox Studio, where the Ulric will traipse in a cinetalky, she wears an artful, flesh-colored silk glove on her left hand. She stripped off the glove in the lunch room 'tother noon and there and behold on the left finger gleamed a wedding ring. Upon leaving the restaurant, she wriggled her fingers into the glove again. Darn clever these Broadwayites.

Recently read in the public prints that Lewis Stone was divorced from his wife. He isn't at all.

Some eight years ago, Mr. Stone married Florence Oakley, an actress on the New York stage. It was his second marriage. Miss Oakley and he had been co-emoters in a stock company years previous. After her marriage, Florence permitted her career to fade. She concerned herself with domestic starring and with Mr. Stone's two children by his first marriage, Virginia and Barbara.

Lewis Stone

Time lapses! A year ago, Virginia, now 20 years old, yearns for the stage. Her step-mother accompanies her to New York. She is gone a month or so. She hears from her husband daily. When she returns, the thunderbolt strikes. Mr. Stone desires a separation. His heart has gone A. W. O. L. for another, it seems. Florence at first refused to believe. Finally, she accepted the inevitable, but the suddenness of it all resulted in her having a nervious breakdown.

A month later she left the hospital. She returned to the stage to act the lead in the Los Angeles production of 'The Royal Family." Miss Oakley gave an excellent performance. At this penning, she is playing in Leatrice Joy's flicker, "A Most Immoral Lady." A plucky trouper, Florence Oakley.

Stepin Fetchit Is Mystery Man

STEPIN FETCHIT is a mystery man. Um, a mystery man. The studio can rarely reach him. The casting director has about five telephone numbers, but Stepin invaribly manages a sixth or seventh. Even when he traipsed on location to Annapolis with the John Ford outfit, he evaporated into a mystery man. Disappeared for five days. Wired Ford the day the troupe departed for home that he was in Washington, D. C., lookin' around!

'Tother afternoon the slow-motioned Fetchit was discovered sittin' in the broiling sun near a lumber pile.

"What are you doing here, anyway?"

Fetchit took five minutes off to raise his eyes heavenwards and lower them. Then: "Jest sunnin' mah make-up!"

Monongahela Road Contract Awarded

WASHINGTON, Pa., June 22. — Contract has been awarded by the Pennsylvania department of highways to Hardy and Rankin Company, of Canonsburg, for construction of 4,063 feet of reinforced concrete highway in round 247, between Finleyville and Monongahela. The section to be improved extends from the Finleyville borough line to Lank's hill.

Traffic will be detoured through Finleyville, rejoining route 247 at Mingo Church. The five-mile detour is mostly improved.

Kennywood Park Keeps Elephant Act

Mlle. Adele Nelson will continue for another week as the special free attraction in Kennywood, presenting twice daily an elephant act. The next free act will be the Sensational Jacks, aerialists, who arrive June 30 and will be the Fourth of July attraction. The Playboys, now furnishing afternoon and evening dance music, will be succeeded July 1 by the Kennywoodians, a Nirella organization.

Alan Hale Latest Screen Son of Mary Carr

Mary Carr has adopted another son!

Alan Hale is the latest screen player to be mothered by this famous character actress, who, since her memorable portrayal in "Over the Hill," is said to have had more well-known stars for screen sons than any other player in the industry.

"Sailor's Holiday," a new all-dialogue feature in which Alan Hale is featured, is the picture in which Miss Carr will do her latest mother portrayal. This is an original screen story.

FRED FISHER, whose song hits include "Dardenella" and "In Sunny Italy," was among the first Broadwayites to hasten to Hollywood when the talkies demanded special melodies. The other day, Fisher, who is also a dialectician, was inspecting a film for which he was to prepare incidental music.

One of the scenes proved so tense and compelling Fisher became emotional. "It is marwelous!" he cried, "it is beautiful and great! It is so greand it should be accompanied by a symphony. Do you hear—a symphony?"

Then in the next breath, he added: "Boy! Bring we a pencil!"

Broadway Philosophy

(By Nat N. Dorfman.)

The slogan of the movies is to spend $2 where one would ordinarily do . . . A farce is a plot surrounded by slamming doors and mistaken identities . . . Give a producer a hit and he begins to think he is nothing short of a genius . . . Give an author a bright line and he writes three acts around it.

AND Harry Reichenbach, without the accompaniment of "Hearts and Flowers," says that he would rather be a high-instep on Broadway than a fallen arch on Fifth avenue.

By Way of Report

It appears that our recent comment doubting the John Green-Carol Falk engagement has not only aroused those concerned, but the press agent, Mr. Irving Strouse. Mr. S. argues that the engagement report was strictly legitimate, or, as we night-loafers say, "on the urp-and-urp." The pain will be acute when the pair get welded.

But what we should have mentioned at the time was that Mr. Strouse, who gave out the report, was the lad who landed in all papers some time ago with the story about the nude dancer working at Vincent Lopez's night club. She was supposed to have "attempted suicide" in the Central Park Lake, you might recall, and his most recent front page announcement had it that Tommy Guinan would wed Norma Taylor on June 15.

RECOMMENDED for Frank J. Wilstach's annual book of best similes: James J. Montague's: "About as futile as eating cinders." . . . Charles G. Shaw's: "As full of memories as a log fire." . . . George F. Hummel's: "I felt so low I could have walked under a snake's tail wearing stilts and a high hat." . . . Russell Crouse's: "As useless as a memory course to an elephant." . . . Irvin S. Cobb's: "A personality like a sleeping car blanket — weight without warmth." . . . Will Rogers': "Asking Europe to disarm is like asking a man in Chicago to give up his life insurance.' . . . Bugs Baer's "As much chance as a grasshopper jumping the Grand Canyon," and Anon's: "As happy as an old maid being held for ransom."

Old, But Good

This tale was born long before you were in long bloomers and it is supposed to have happened in a Michigan hamlet which boasted of a timeworn op'ry house. A second-rate road troupe booked for a one-night stand discovered that the joint contained but one huge dressing room beneath the stage.

"Have you no other dressing rooms?" queried the company manager.

"Nope," was the indifferent retort. "We ain't got none."

"But," rejoined the indignant impresario, "what are we to do? We have a large company of ladies and gentlemen, and they certainly cannot dress in one room!"

"What's the matter?" drawled the dope. "Are they sore at each other?"

Always the Critic

AT a recent Broadway premiere the audience almost went into a panic when the sickening odor of something burning wafted across the footlights. Eeveral apprehensive auditors dashed from their seats to the street, and not until the star assured the others that nothing was the matter was order restored.

Before he sailed Monday we met George Jean Nathan, America's severest drama defender. "Weren't you a little nervous that night?" we queried.

"No," was the typically indifferent response, "it was an excellent excuse to go out?"

Sotto Voce

Frank Small: No can use.
Harriet Carter: No like.
Wallace Cox: Swell. It runs Fridee.
Theodore Robertson: Verlwell, sir.

A Form of Criticism

"What kind of a job did you say he had?"

"He's a columnist."

"I don't getcha."

"A columnist, a columnist! You know, the guy on a newspaper who thinks that his stuff is the first thing the readers turn to."

Robertson Company Ends Sessions Today

Two business sessions today will close the annual international convention of the H. H. Robertson Company, being held in the Keystone Athletic Club. Sessions were cut short yesterday and delegates entertained at the St. Clair Country Club where a golf tournament was held. Yesterday the delegates discussed plans to further development in sales in the 89 countries served by the company. James S. Ervin, sales manager, presided.

Gilbert to Step From Tolstoi To Molnar

John Gilbert will step from Tolstoi to Molnar when he begins work in "Olympia." The Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer star has just completed "Redemption," an adaptation of Tolstoi's story of the same name.

Opposite him in "Olympia," a dialogue production, will be Katherine Dale Owen, former New York stage actress. Lionel Barrymore will direct. The cast will include Nance O'Neil, prominent Broadway actress, Gustav Von Seyffertitz, Richard Carle, Hedda Hopper, Andre Beranger, Gerald McKay and Eva Dennison.

Storm Destroys Movie Camp In Africa

Struck by a midnight cloudburst the African camp of the "Trader Horn" motion picture expedition was washed away and about $10,000 worth of personal equipment lost, according to word received by cable from Butlaba in the Uganda Protectorate.

Director W. S. Van Dyke, caught in a swirl of water was carried bodily to the edge of the river—the Victoria Nile, where he was saved by being wedged in a group of three stumps at the water's edge.

Thirty-five white persons and about a hundred natives were in the camp, which had been established about 60 miles up the Victoria Nile near Murchison Falls. All were rendered temporarily helpless when the deluge swept away tent supplies and foodstuffs and leveled the radio set that had been erected outside the camp. Harry Carey, who has the part of Trader Horn in the picture, lost his entire wardrobe and all of his personal belongings.

The loss of supplies, including films and cameras, will delay the company about two weeks, it is estimated, until more are brought forward from base headquarters in Nairobi.

Breaking unexpectedly shortly after midnight, the storm quickly formed a small river in the canyon behind the camp, sweeping down with tremendous force. A six-inch rise in the water level resulted from the cloudburst and when the flood had subsided the ground was covered with trees, brushwood and dead animals.

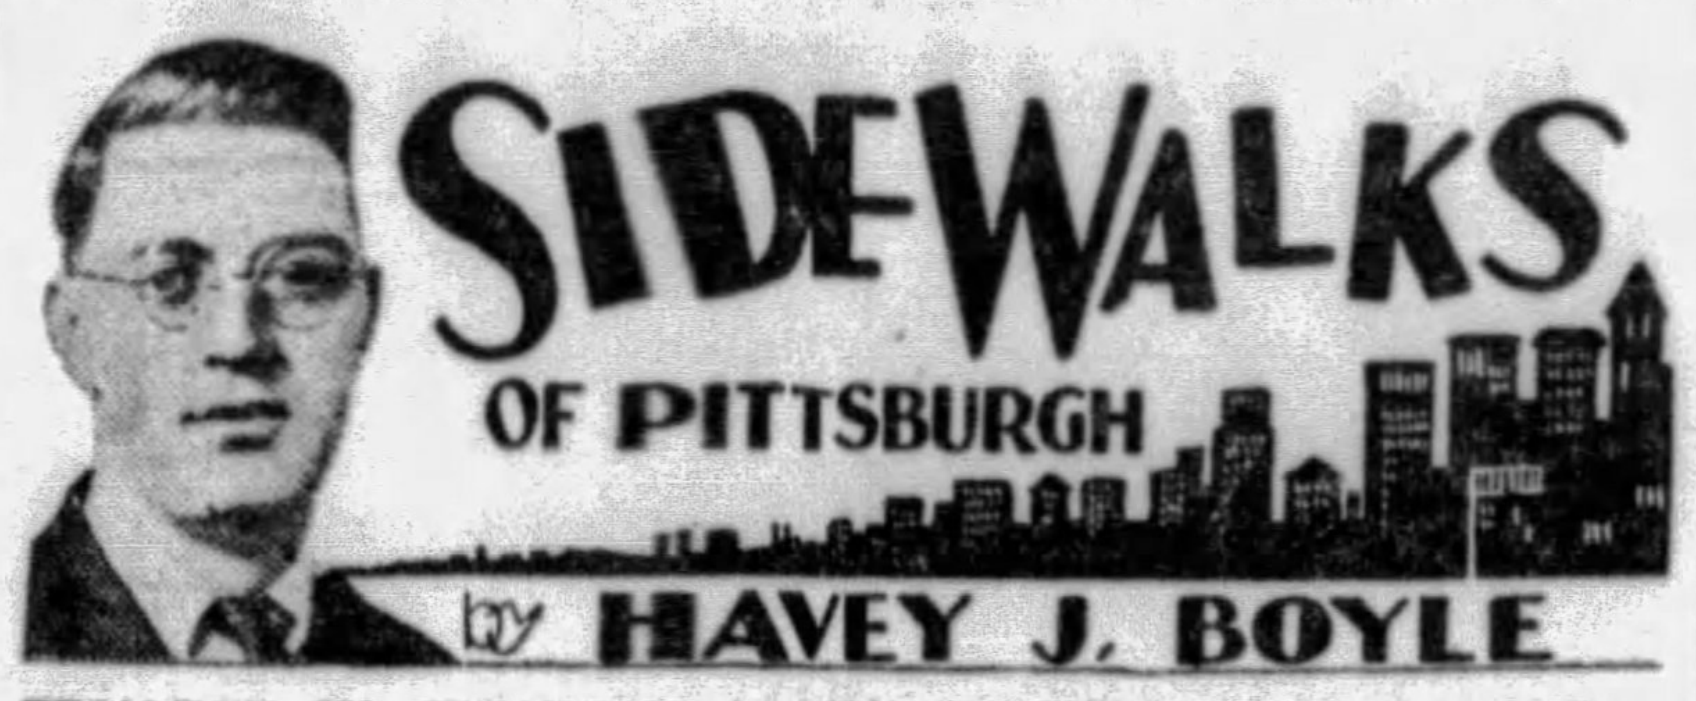
Injured Policeman Sues for $10,000

For injuries suffered when he was struck by an automobile while on traffic duty, Nevin W. Murray, 3812 Mintwood street, city policeman, filed suit against Nathan G. Bagran, 1345 Inverness street, asking $10,000 damages, in Common Pleas Court.

Murray said Bagran was driving recklessly.

HOME AGAIN

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Morosco are at home again in Hollywood, following their European jaunt, and Mrs. Morosco—Corinne Griffith, you know—is busy with a new film, "Lilies of the Field."



SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH by HAVEY J. BOYLE

WALTER W. CREAHAN, a well-known Western Union man, has a police dog that has been causing him some trouble lately. The dog has the golf complex, frequents a links near the Creahan home, and amuses himself by picking up golf balls on the course and trotting home with them. Mr. Creahan is no golfer; otherwise he might see some merit in the actions of his dog. It must not be assumed that everyone who has lost a golf ball can retrieve it by calling at the Creahan home, but Bill Schragen says at least a dozen golfers might be taken care of—if they furnish proof.

Caddies, who now resort to the trick of stepping on and burying the ball of a golfer who doesn't tip enough, probably will start bidding for the Creahan police dog.

A correspondent declares the passing of an old custom. He said he recently went into a dentist's office to have a tooth pulled, and after the operation was completed, the dentist merely handed him a drink of water. This was the first tooth-pulling of the patient since before prohibition went into effect and he was therefore surprised that the dentist did not hand him a drink of whisky after the tooth was yanked. This, he says, was the invariable custom in another day. The correspondent asks if there is an old-fashioned dentist in town who sticks to the old tradition. The query has been sent to Dean Friesell, of the Pitt dental school.

ARCH MACKRELL, father of Joe Mackrell, register of wills, was visited by an agent for a gasoline lawn mower who offered to demonstrate the machine. The story goes that Mr. Mackrell couldn't quite make up his mind whether he wanted the machine until after the agent had cut the entire lawn and then as luck would have it Mr. Mackrell decided that at this time he was not in the market.

IT'S VERY FINE---BUT I DON'T LIKE TO SMELL GASOLINE !

SOME few days ago a carload of unfortunate men were taken to Atlanta penitentiary to serve varied sentences for varied offenses. A man who was one of the party of officers in charge reports such a ride a sad sight to observe. The men about to be incarcerated hold up pretty well during most of the trip, but almost everyone of them at one time or another moves a [illegible] to a secluded place in the car and indulges in a "breaking do[illegible]" spell. Experts in such matters say it is not the horror of incarceration, for at Atlanta there are no real horrors, but it is the stigma of the sentence that sears the souls of the men and they are convinced their lives are ruined forever.

Into a West Liberty avenue automobile agency the other day a well-dressed man walked, asked to look at a car, liked it, and said that if he could take it out to demonstrate it he would probably buy it. The sales manager appointed a young man to get in the car and let the prospect drive to his heart's content. Several hours later the young man came back, ashen-faced, and trembling. The prospect had proved to be a "nut." He drove the car 60 miles an hour, passed red lights and generally cut up in such fashion that his companion several times closed his eyes to await the crash. By some miracle an accident was avverted and the prospect came to a stop, got out of the car, said good-by, and walked away.

WHO WAS YOUR PROSPECT-- DID YOU SELL HIM ?
I THINK HE WAS NAPOLEON AN' I DIDN'T SELL HIM !

Mother Wins Court Fight for Child

Judge Harry H. Rowand ordered Robert M. Ford, 1009 Penn avenue, Wilkinsburg, to deliver Dorothy Ford, his daughter, to the custody of her mother, Mrs. Florence L. Ford, 52 Prospect street, Ingram, after a hearing on a writ of habeas corpus in Common Pleas Court, procured by Mrs. Ford. The mother has custody of three other children, 7 to 12, and the future of Dorothy will be best served by being with them, Judge Rowand decreed.

Express Plane Hits Launch, Pilot Saved

NEW LONDON, Conn., June 22. —(AP.)—A seaplane owned by the American Air Express crashed into a small unoccupied launch anchored in the Thames river early last night just after the Yale-Harvard varsity race was completed. The plane was badly damaged, but the pilot was rescued.

Tarkington Story Makes Rogers Gambler

"River of Romance" has been definitely selected as the final title of Charles "Buddy" Rogers' starring vehicle, an adaptation of Booth Tarkington's "Magnolia," it has been announced at the Paramount studios in Hollywood.

In the Tarkington story, Rogers has the part of Tom Rumford, Southern boy who lives down a stigma of cowardice by becoming Mississippi's most daring gambler, "the Notorious Colonel Blake." Mary Brian has the leading feminine role of Lucy. Wallace Beery, June Collyer, Henry B. Walthall, Natalie Kingston, Fred Kohler, Walter McGrail, Anderson Lawler and Mrs. George Fawcett are featured in the cast of the production.

Richard Wallace, who recently completed Maurice Chevalier's first film vehicle, "Innocents of Paris," directed the ormance.

TALK FILMS IN NEW BILLS

Margaret Anglin, who starred in "The Lady of Bronze" when it toured from coast to coast, will play the leading role in the George Sharp Players' version of that play in the Pitt next week.

"The Idle Rich," featuring Bessie Love, will be the film attraction in the Penn next week. It is a talkie, based on the stage drama, "White Collars."

More than 50 speaking parts are said to be enacted in "Through Different Eyes," picture of talk, murder and mystery, opening Monday in the Aldine.

The Stanley screen next week will present "Thunderbolt," talk film of underworld life. George Bancroft, Fay Wray and Richard Arlen head the cast.

"Father and Son," talk film, with Jack Holt and Dorothy Revier, will be presented in the Harris all next week. It also will be seen in the Sheridan Square the last three days of the week.

Telephone girls are being tested in Hollywood for roles in pictures. Several, because of their pleasing voices, are heard in "The Time, the Place and the Girl," picture opening in the Enright today. Betty Compson is featured.

"Noah's Ark," film spectacle of flood and war, opens its third and final week in the Grand today.

The entire locale of "Careers," talk film, to be seen next week in the Liberty and Colonial, is laid in Indo-China. Billie Dove is the star.

Stars to Send 'Sunshine' To Byrd in Antarctic

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor.

HUDDLED about a loudspeaker in the impenetrable darkness of Little America, Commander Richard Byrd and his crew will receive sunshine, figuratively, when a group of stage and movie stars broadcast at 11:06 o'clock tonight over KDKA. Clara Bow, Eddie Cantor, Jesse Lasky, Moran and Mack—these are some of the celebrities who will step before a KDKA microphone in the Ambassador Hotel, Atlantic City, to send cheer to the brave explorers 11,000 miles away.

An extra attraction will be a rebroadcast of music and conversation with 2ME at Sydney, Australia. P. A. Boyd, publicity engineer at KDKA, enjoys these little radio visits and it is said that he has stayed awake until 4 and 5 in the morning to chat with radio men in countries thousands of miles away.

WJAS has an unusual bill this afternoon at 1:15 o'clock, taking the New York-Philadelphia baseball game, which will last until 5 p. m.

DISCUSSES TARIFF BILL

John Golden, famous theatrical producer, will play a role in a radio excerpt from his current success "Let Us Be Gay" during the Cavalcade, WCAE at 8 o'clock. Mr. Golden produced "Lightnin'," "Seventh Heaven" and "Turn to the Right."

Harry F. Guggenheim, a pioneer pilot and an outstanding leader in the aviation world, will no doubt have a few words of interest in his talk, "Safety in the Air," to be delivered through WCAE at 7 o'clock. Mr. Guggenheim, a very close friend of Col. Lindbergh, saw service in France, Italy and England during the war and finished his military career as a lieutenant-commander in aviation.

Senator Samuel Shortridge, of California, will tell how a tariff bill is made during the WJAS National Forum at 10 o'clock. Because of recent controversies and aroused opposition to the present tariff bill this discussion should be interesting to every taxpayer.

Mrs. Herbert Hoover will greet members of the 4-H Club at 11:01 through WCAE.

We will have lots of fun, too, with the Pickard Family, KDKA at 8:30, the Nit Wit Hour from WJAS at 9, and gay old dance music by the Lucky Strike boys and George Olsen later in the evening over WCAE and WJAS.

She consented to face the microphone for the sake of the young members of the 4-H Club, for whom she is believed to have a particular message.
The entire program originates in Washington, where the annual camp gathering of the 4-H Club will be held. Other speakers include the presiding officer, Dr. C. W. Warburton, director of extension work for the United States Department of Agriculture; Isabel Bevier, dean emeritus of home economics at Illinois University; Dean A. R. Mann, of Cornell University, and prize-winning members of the club.
Musical features will be provided by the United States Marine Band.

SEVERAL MOVIE STARS
KDKA will transmit a special program from the Paramount-Famous Players-Lasky convention being held at the Hotel Ambassador, Atlantic City.
Eddie Cantor, Clara Bow, Moran and Mack, Maurice Chevalier, Dennis King, Rudy Vallee, Adolph Zukor, Jesse L. Lasky and George Akerson, secretary to President Hoover, will broadcast. Some of these offerings will be delivered in person and some were specially recorded on film in Hollywood and rushed to Atlantic City for this broadcast.
Two representatives of the Paramount company, Joseph T. Rucker and Willard Vander Veer, are members of the Byrd Expedition and are giving up two years of their lives in an endeavor to secure an adequate pictorial history of the accomplishments of the expedition, and it is to these two that the program will be dedicated.
This will be followed with a special program arranged by Messrs. Farmer and MacDonald, of Station 2 ME, Sydney, Australia.

'GETS HIS MAN' AFTER SWIM

Patrolman Ernest Whitworth chased a man, suspected of stealing 250 feet of copper cable, into the Allegheny River early today and captured him after a short swim.

Whitworth and Patrolman Joseph Scanlon saw three men taking Duquesne Light Company cable at Montgomery avenue and Federal street and speed away. The policemen commandered an automobile and followed.

The fugitives abandoned their car in Madison avenue and Scanlon captured two of them. The third, Charles Gunther, 22, of 508 Lacock street, ran into the river.

Whitworth fired a shot, then dove into the water. A speedy swimmer, he nailed his prisoner with a dozen strokes.

Gunther and Charles Jones, 38, of the same address, were sent to the workhouse for 60 days. The third man, Harry Sims, 46, of 515 East Robinson street, got 30 days.

2 Hurt in Falls, Sue for $55,000

Two suits in which an aggregate of $55,000 damages is asked for injuries resulting from sidewalk falls were filed against the City of Pittsburgh in Common Pleas Court. Eleanor C. Conley and Patrick Conley, her husband, asked $30,000 damages for injuries suffered by Mrs. Conley January 31, when she fell on a slippery sidewalk in front of 2904 East street, North Side.

Mary Ladeda and Antonio Ladeda, her husband, asked $25,000 damages for injuries suffered by Mrs. Ladeda in a fall on an icy sidewalk on Mt. Vernon street, February 11, last.

Car, Trolley Collide; Two Men Injured

Charles Singer, 28, of 1745 East street, and A. T. Haulette, 62, of Lelia street, suffered minor injuries when the auto in which they were riding collided with a street car at Brookline boulevard and Pioneer avenue yesterday. The driver, Oliver Girdwood, of 57 Dilworth street, escaped injury.

Air Firm Official Killed, Pilot Hurt

ST. LOUIS, June 22.—(AP.)—Sidney Crutcher, chief inspector for the Curtiss-Robertson Aviation Company, was killed, and Alfred Dunlap, 18, a transport pilot, was injured when a plane in which they were making a "maiden trip" crashed near Lambert-St. Louis Field here late yesterday.

FLASHLIGHT ON SHIP HURTS 9

NEW YORK, June 22.—(INS.)—No more flashlight pictures will be allowed to be taken aboard Cunard liners or on the company's piers, officials stated today, following the explosion of a bottle of flashlight powder which injured nine persons yesterday while photographers were taking pictures of Henry Ford, his son Edsel and the latter's children.

The elder Ford was greeting his son after his return from Europe aboard the liner Berengaria. The Fords, although within 10 feet of the exploding powder which was ignited by a spark, escaped injury, although glass splinters injured others much farther away.

John Schutz, the photographer whose powder exploded, was the most seriously injured. He may lose the use of his right hand and arm, which were badly cut and burned. The others, returning passengers and friends who had come to the pier to greet them, suffered abrasions and cuts. Among the injured was Miss Anne McCormick, of Mt. Lebanon, Pa., who was cut about the ankles.

BUYER FOR LOCAL FIRM

Miss Anne McCormick, of Birch avenue, Mt. Lebanon, who was injured in a flashlight powder blast on the liner Berengaria, in New York, is buyer for the infants' wear department of the Joseph Horne Company.

Other Pittsburgh persons on the Berengaria were: Mrs. John A. Beck and Miss Rhea E. Beck, of Pittsburgh, Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Hardie, and Miss Janet Hardie, of 5896 Bartlett street, Miss Irene H. Mitchell, of 3500 Universal street, and Mr. Max Walske, of 5742 Holden street, Pittsburgh, returned from Europe last evening in the S. S. Berengaria from Southampton and Havre. The Beck party spent nearly two months touring through the principal cities of the continent.

BINDLEY, TRADE LEADER, DIES

Edward H. Bindley, 51, of Fifth avenue and Emerson street, died last night. He was president of the Neely Nut and Bolt Company, and vice president of the Pittsburgh Steel Company.

He was born in Pittsburgh in 1878, attended the public schools and Shady Side Academy, and was graduated from Yale University in 1900. Shortly after the organization of the Pittsburgh Steel Company he became active in its affairs, and in 1906 was made director. He also was a director of the Duquesne National Bank of Pittsburgh, the Workingmans Savings and Trust Company, North Side, and the Albion Land Corporation.

Mr. Bindley was a member of the Duquesne and University Clubs, the Pittsburgh Golf Club, Fox Chapel Golf Club, Oakmont Country Club and Yale Clubs of Pittsburgh and New York, and the Calvary Methodist Episcopal Church East End.

NO. 433.

AN ORDINANCE—Granting unto the Pittsburgh Railways Company, its successors, lessees and assigns, the right to enter upon, use and occupy Ferry street, between Third avenue and Liberty avenue with an additional track and certain connecting curves, for street railway purposes, subject to the terms and conditions herein provided.

SECTION 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh, in Council assembled, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same. That the Pittsburgh Railways Company, its successors, lessees and assigns, shall have the right and they are hereby authorized to enter upon, use and occupy for street railway purposes the streets and highways in, on and along the following route, with the right to install, maintain and operate an additional single street railway track over said route, and with the right also to install, maintain and operate certain connecting curves at Fourth avenue and Ferry street, and at Diamond and Ferry streets, as hereinafter described:

(a) Route for additional single track:

Beginning in the westbound track on Liberty avenue at right angles opposite a point in the south curb line of Liberty avenue 14 feet as measured eastwardly along the south curb line of Liberty avenue from its intersection point with the east curb line of Ferry street, thence southwestwardly by curve 55 feet to and onto Ferry street, thence southwardly along Ferry street parallel with the east curb of Ferry street, and 29 feet 9¼ inches therefrom, 259 feet, thence curving southeastwardly 70 feet more or less to a point of connection with the existing connecting curve leading from Fourth avenue.

(b) Connecting curves at the corner of Diamond and Ferry streets, and at the corner of Fourth avenue and Ferry street respectively.

Beginning in the existing track on Diamond street at right angles opposite to a point in the south curb line of Diamond street situated 35 feet 6 inches as measured eastwardly along the said curb line from its intersection with the east curb line of Ferry street, thence northwestwardly 86 feet to a point of connection with the existing northbound track on Ferry street.

Beginning in the existing northbound track on Ferry street at right angles opposite a point in the east cub line of Ferry street 62 feet as measured southwardly along the said curb line from its intersection with the south curb line of Fourth avenue, thence by curve northeastwardly 120 feet more or less to a point of connection with the existing track on Fourth avenue east of Ferry street.

SECTION 2. The Pittsburgh Railways Company, its successors, lessees and assigns, shall also have the right and privilege of relocating the existing curve at the intersection of Diamond and Ferry streets from its present connection with the northbound track on Ferry street, in such a manner as to connect the existing track on Diamond street with the additional single track authorized to be constructed in sub-paragraph (a) of Section 1 hereof.

SECTION 3. The Pittsburgh Railways Company, its successors, lessees and assigns, shall have the right and they are hereby authorized to construct, maintain, operate and use an additional single street railway track on the route hereinbefore mentioned, and to construct, maintain, operate and use certain connecting curves as above described, together with the necessary switches and connections, and to operate cars thereon and to use electricity as a motive power, and to erect, maintain and use in the streets and highways hereinbefore mentioned such posts, poles and other supports as said Company may deem convenient for the support and maintenance of an overhead system, and for the operation of street railways, subject, however, to the provisions of an ordinance approved February 25, 1890, entitled "A general ordinance relating to the entry upon, over or under or the use of occupation of any street, lane or alley, or any part thereof, for any purpose by passenger or street railway companies, or by companies operating passenger or street railways, and providing reasonable regulations pertaining thereto for the public convenience and safety."

SECTION 4. The Company shall furnish clean, sanitary and well-lighted cars, properly heated and ventilated, and shall provide sufficient cars to furnish reasonable service to accommodate the traffic.

SECTION 5. The Pittsburgh Railways Company may assign any of the rights hereinbefore granted to such of the underlying companies operated or to be operated by it as it deems proper, subject to the consent of Council of the City of Pittsburgh, and subject, also, to the acceptance by said underlying companies of all the terms and provisions of this ordinance.

SECTION 6. The term of this grant shall be for the period of fifty (50) years from the date of acceptance hereof.

SECTION 7. This ordinance shall be accepted by the Pittsburgh Railways Company within sixty (60) days after its passage or approval by a Certificate of Acceptance of all the conditions and provisions thereof. The said Certificate to be executed under the corporate seal of the Company, duly attested by the President or Vice President, and the Secretary or an Assistant Secretary thereof, and filed with the Controller of the City.

SECTION 8. That any Ordinance or part of Ordinance, conflicting with the provisions of this Ordinance, be and the same is hereby repealed, so far as the same affects this Ordinance.

BUGS BAER Says

SHOOT, IF YOU MUST, THIS OLD GRAY HEADACHE.

CANADA expects 12,000,000 American tourists this summer and we would like to get the same prerogatives that a moose gets in winter.

Bugs Baer

If a man has a bottle on his hip, should we shoot the hip or the bottle?

Shall we shoot first and ask questions afterward or shall the interrogative aria precede the target practice?

When we go to Canada we go to see the scenery. Not to be buried under it.

At present, we seem to have all the rights of a mountain goat in the middle of a group of taxidermists.

At one time, Canada was the haven for fugitives who had broken the laws of the United States.

Now, the fugitives go to Canada in the potential mood. They aren't going to break the law. Just bend it a little.

If you happen to be motoring on a suspicious detour near the border, a revenue agent shoots your tires off. Even if you are walking he shoots your tires off just the same.

What we desire is a better understanding between diluted tourists and armed agents of the eighteenth dimension.

After he recovered—

He could shoot. If he recovered.

We resent the implication that all Americans who go to Canada go there to drink the fermented elixir that makes a bear stagger like a man.

When we go to Paris we don't ask Napoleon to move over. When we go to Venice we don't jump into the Grand Canal.

Canada is a beautiful country. Of course, the mountains are far and the vistas are long. Sometimes, we are forced to look at them through glasses.

The last time we went to Canada it was to see a magnificent tree, 50 feet around at the girth. We did not go to Canada to drink. But after seeing this big tree we decided that lampposts had superior hugging facilities.

Which proves that some tourists really admire hills and valleys. Provided that you don't happen to have a hill under one foot and a valley under the other.

We intend to go to Canada in a few weeks.

All we ask the government agents is not to shoot us going up.

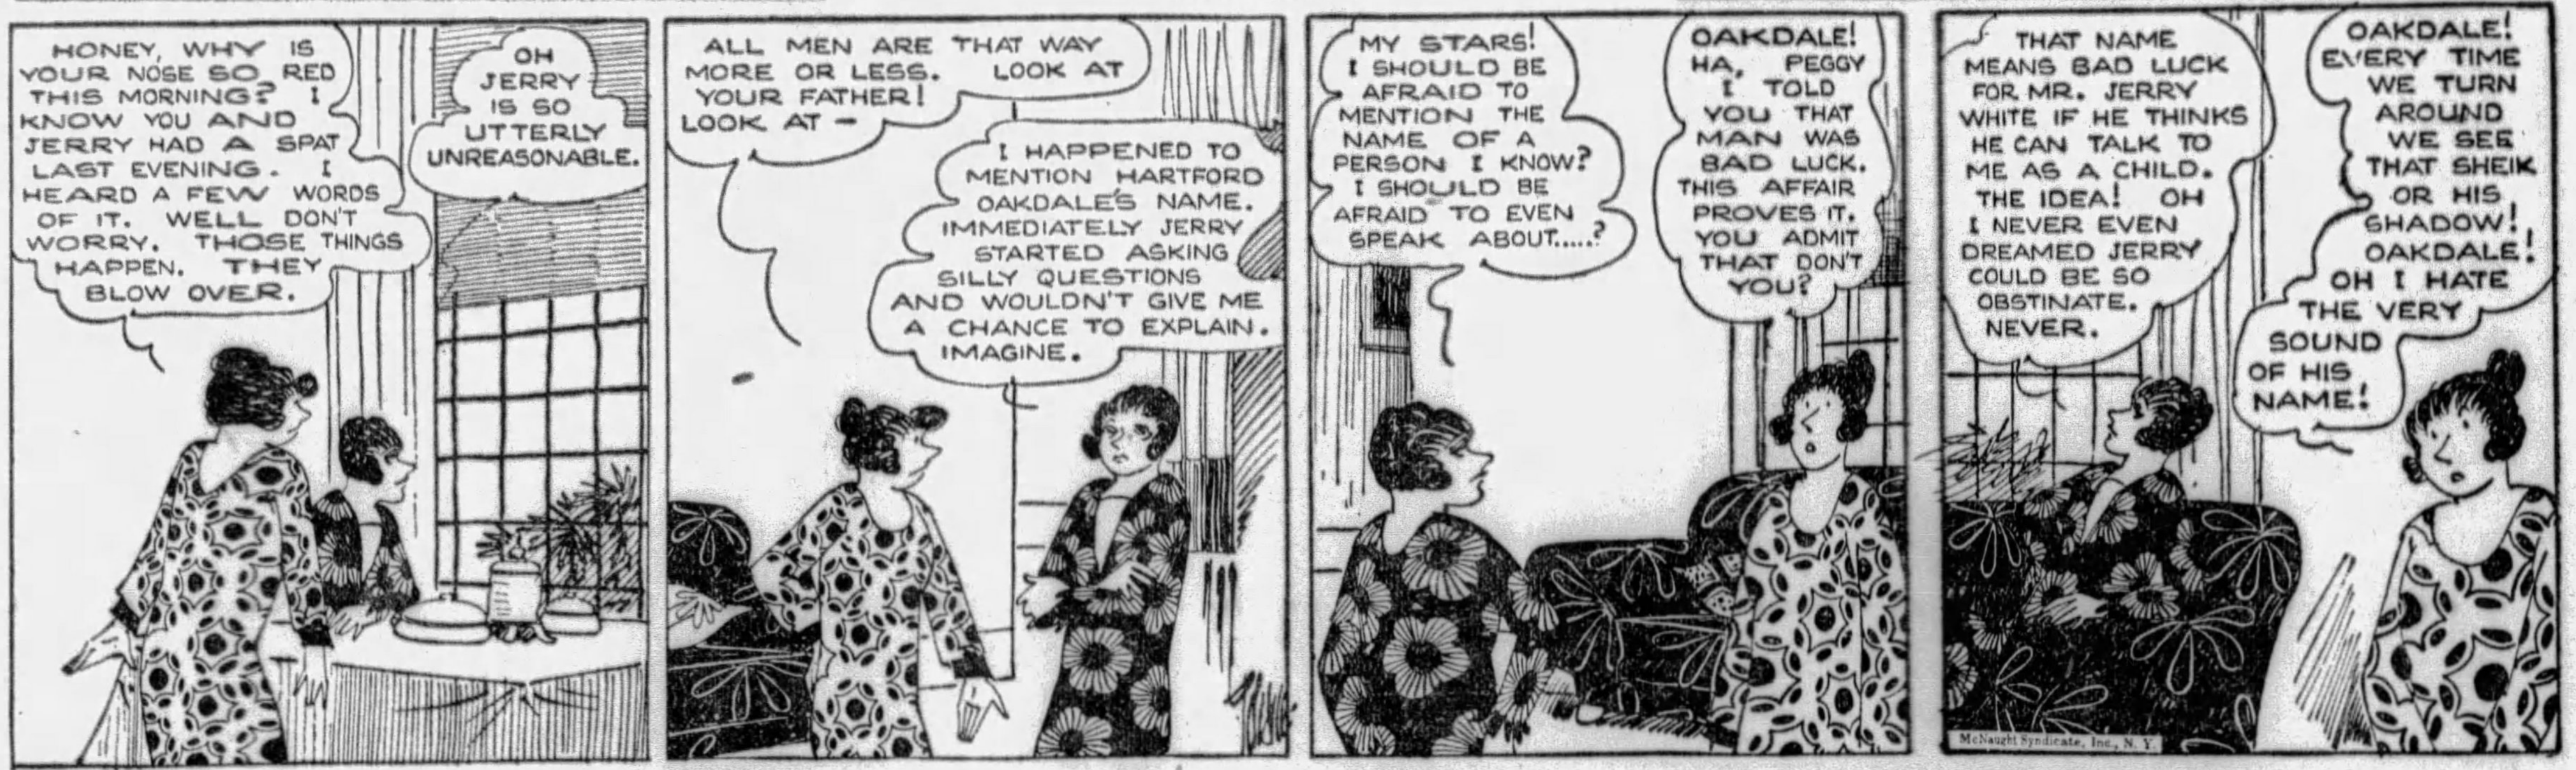
THE BUNGLE FAMILY

A Shadow

By Tuthill



HONEY, WHY IS YOUR NOSE SO RED THIS MORNING? I KNOW YOU AND JERRY HAD A SPAT LAST EVENING. I HEARD A FEW WORDS OF IT. WELL DON'T WORRY. THOSE THINGS HAPPEN. THEY BLOW OVER.
OH JERRY IS SO UTTERLY UNREASONABLE.
ALL MEN ARE THAT WAY MORE OR LESS. LOOK AT YOUR FATHER! LOOK AT —
I HAPPENED TO MENTION HARTFORD OAKDALE'S NAME. IMMEDIATELY JERRY STARTED ASKING SILLY QUESTIONS AND WOULDN'T GIVE ME A CHANCE TO EXPLAIN. IMAGINE.
MY STARS! I SHOULD BE AFRAID TO MENTION THE NAME OF A PERSON I KNOW? I SHOULD BE AFRAID TO EVEN SPEAK ABOUT.....?
OAKDALE! HA, PEGGY I TOLD YOU THAT MAN WAS BAD LUCK. THIS AFFAIR PROVES IT. YOU ADMIT THAT DON'T YOU?
THAT NAME MEANS BAD LUCK FOR MR. JERRY WHITE IF HE THINKS HE CAN TALK TO ME AS A CHILD. THE IDEA! OH I NEVER EVEN DREAMED JERRY COULD BE SO OBSTINATE. NEVER.
OAKDALE! EVERY TIME WE TURN AROUND WE SEE THAT SHEIK OR HIS SHADOW! OAKDALE! OH I HATE THE VERY SOUND OF HIS NAME!

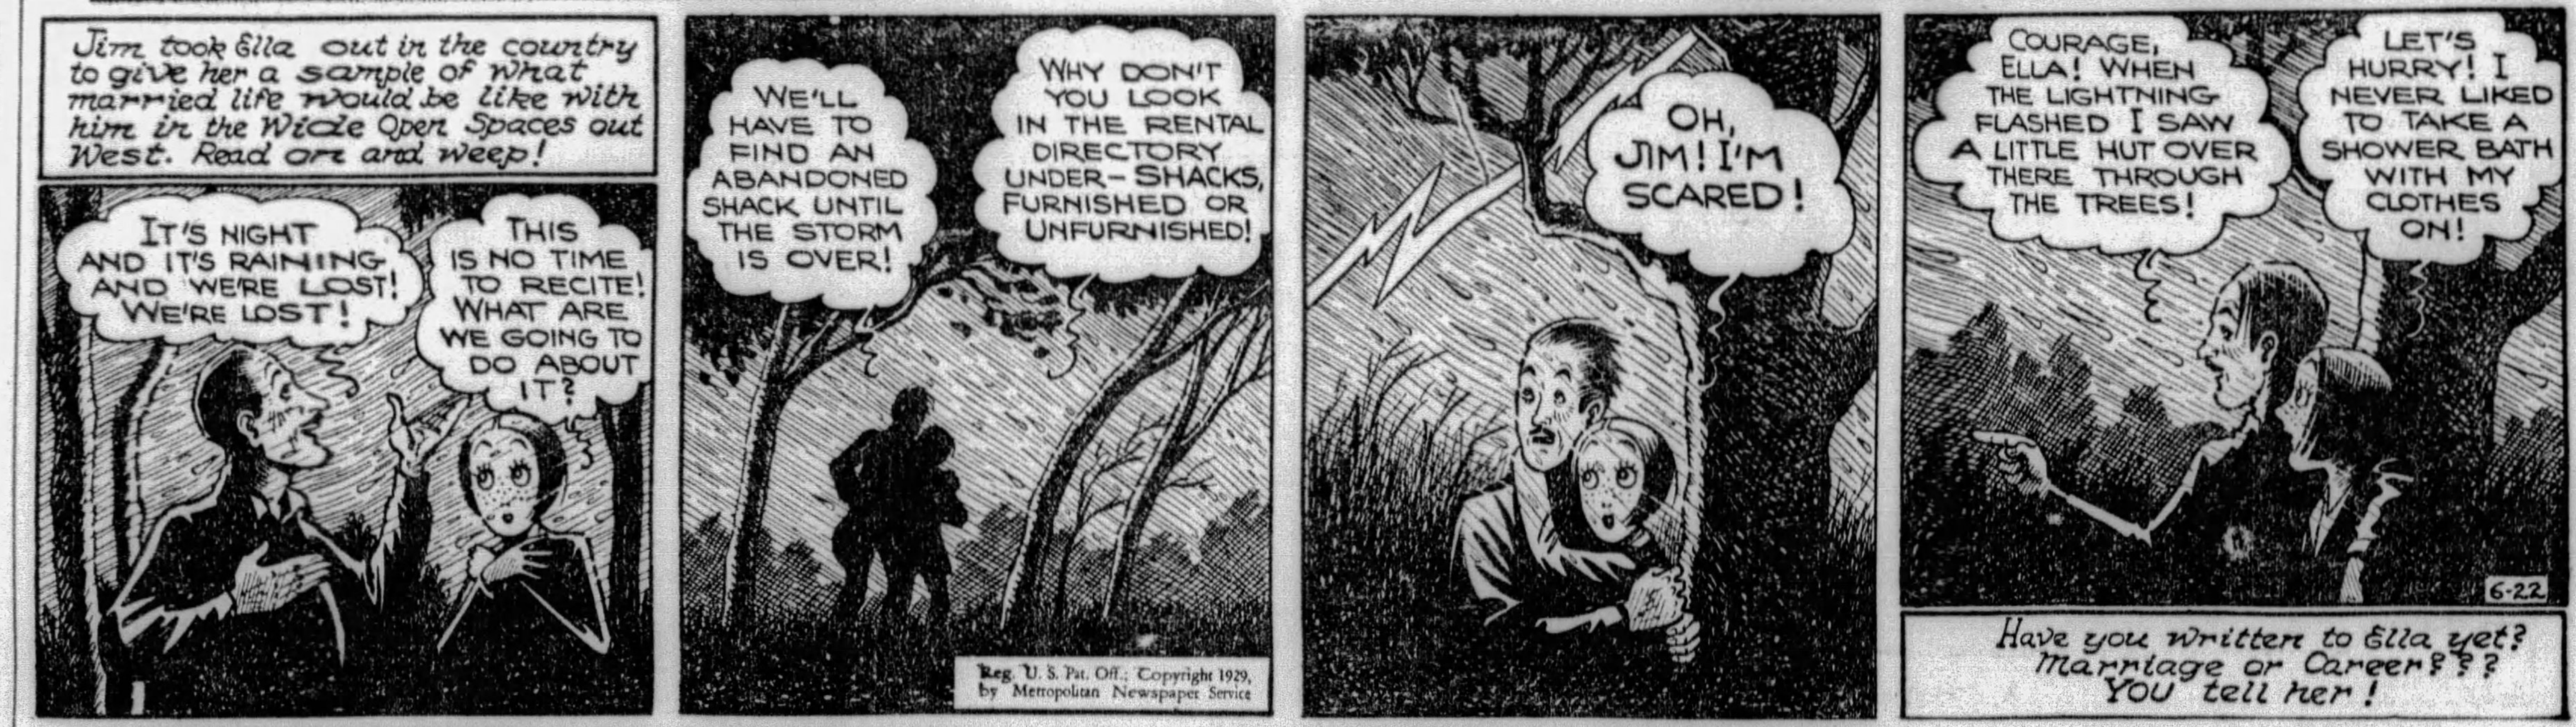
ELLA CINDERS

Wanted, A Shack

By Plump and Conselman



Jim took Ella out in the country to give her a sample of what married life would be like with him in the Wide Open Spaces out West. Read on and weep!
IT'S NIGHT AND IT'S RAINING AND WE'RE LOST! WE'RE LOST!
THIS IS NO TIME TO RECITE! WHAT ARE WE GOING TO DO ABOUT IT?
WE'LL HAVE TO FIND AN ABANDONED SHACK UNTIL THE STORM IS OVER!
WHY DON'T YOU LOOK IN THE RENTAL DIRECTORY UNDER—SHACKS, FURNISHED OR UNFURNISHED!
OH, JIM! I'M SCARED!
COURAGE, ELLA! WHEN THE LIGHTNING FLASHED I SAW A LITTLE HUT OVER THERE THROUGH THE TREES!

COOK-COOS

by Ted Cook

(Copyright, 1929.)

And then declare further meetings of legislatures unconstitutional.

If that is too drastic, why not try a plan whereby all laws become null and void after five years?

* * *

It wouldn't be as impractical as it sounds, because law obeyance has already become a matter of self-determination in this land of the freak and home of the knave.

FAMOUS LAST WORDS

WHEN GOOD FELLOWS GET TOGETHER

WASHINGTON — While brother Congressmen arose and cheered as one man, Representative Horace B. Frisby yesterday demonstrated his combination pencil sharpener and cigar clipper. Mr. Frisby estimates that thousands of pretty stenographers will be released from pencil sharpening through the use of his contrivance, and consequently have more time to spend on the laps of their employers. Mr. Frisby has christened his sharpener 'Prince.'

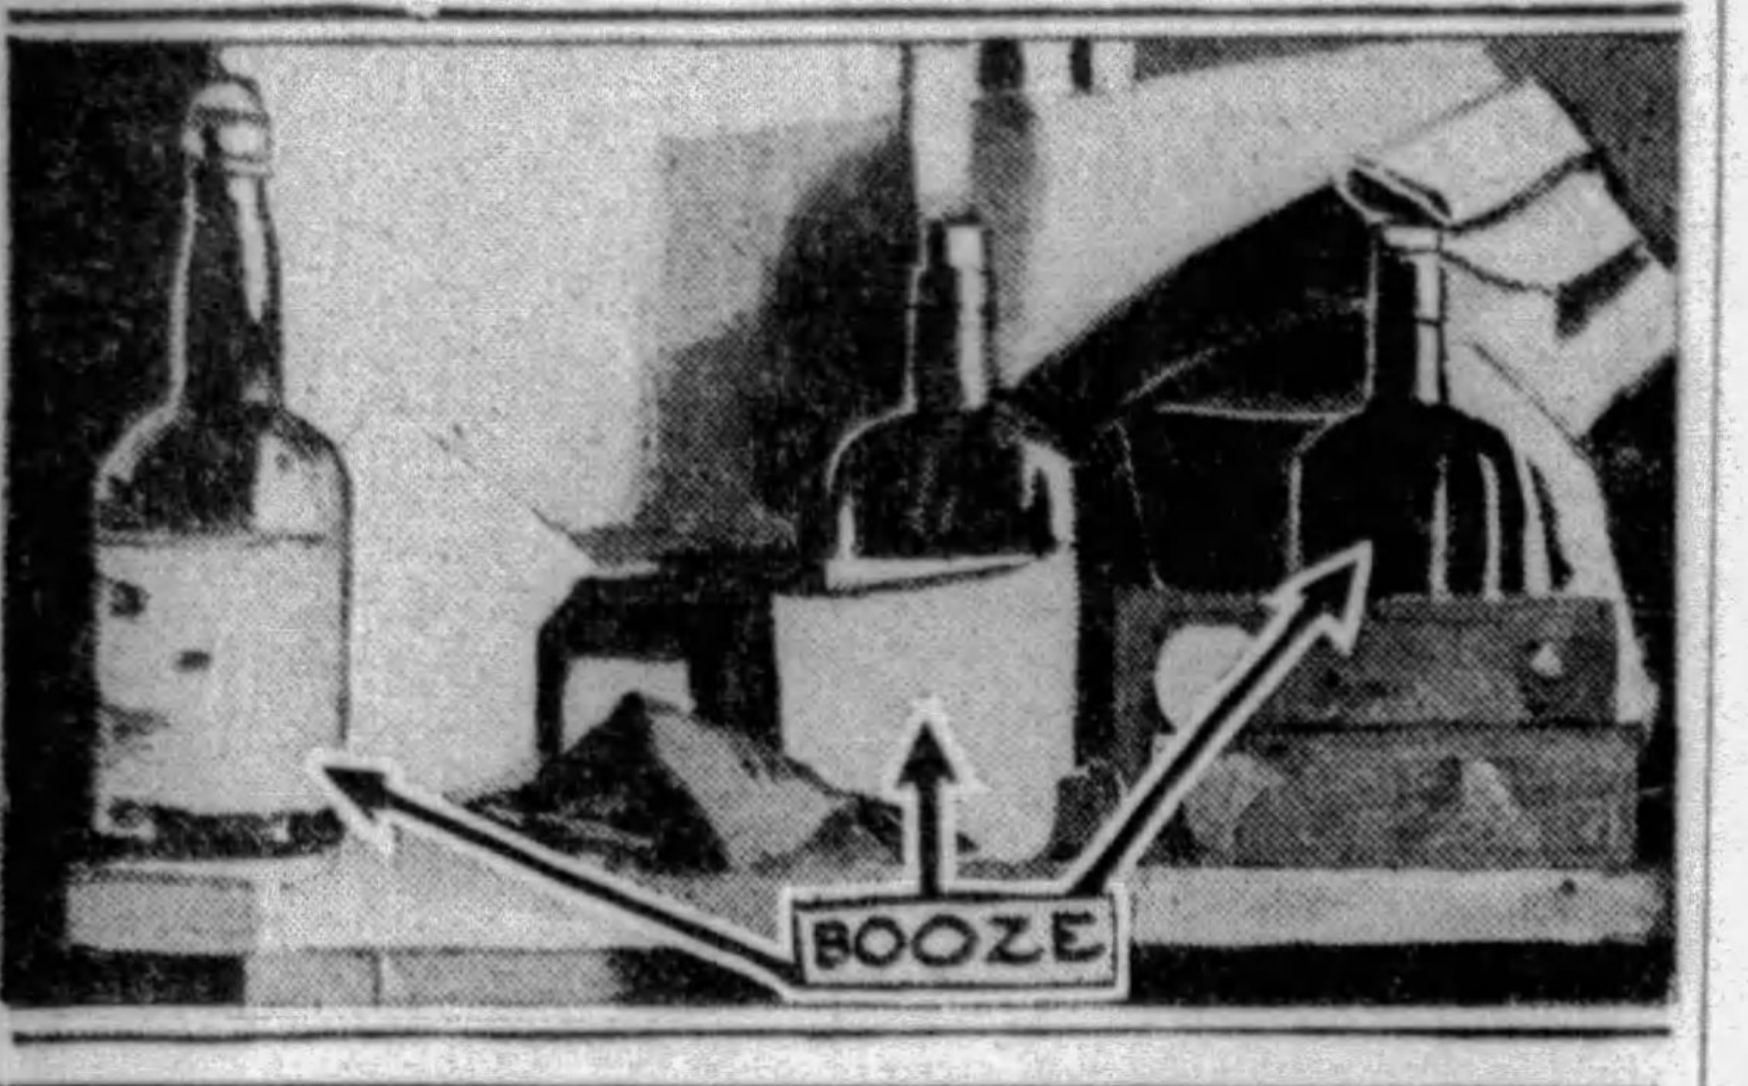
40 Bottles—One Suicide, One Murder

Here's a Text for a Sermon.



HER DRESSING TABLE. SHE WAS MURDERED.

It isn't necessary to say much about THIS picture, taken in the apartment of the unhappy woman, Margaret Lawrence, after she had been murdered by the actor Bennison, who killed himself.

The bottles that you see here, containing bootleg liquor, were only a few of the bottles that detectives found. Among others were FORTY EMPTY GIN BOTTLES.

The murder of the woman, the suicide of the man who killed her, were both ALCOHOLIC.

The murderer had exhausted his money. Detectives believe that the woman whom he murdered refused to give him hers; perhaps, poor creature, she had none.

Both, it is said, drank hard; the man had been on a prolonged spree. Murder and suicide followed.

That is changed in modern cases of murder and suicide to "SEEK THE EMPTY BOTTLE."

When the history of "absolute prohibition," as we humorously call it, is written for the United States, this little picture might be one of the illustrations.

To it might be added photographs that newspapers have published of the murdered woman, at different stages in her career, showing ravages wrought by alcohol in a once beautiful face.

It is not quite fair to say that the 40 empty bottles and the alcohol-crazed murderer were ALONE responsible.

Back of the crime stands the professional bootlegger that sells poisonous whisky for profit.

And back of that bootlegger stands EMINENT AMERICAN "RESPECTABILITY," defying the law because "Respectability" chooses to drink, proud of its so-called "pre-war" alcoholic poisons, not concealing even from children the fact that their parents defy and VIOLATE LAWS that do not suit them.

It is a rotten situation that this picture illustrates, one of which this nation should be ashamed.

The first duty of the United States is to find a way to restore temperance to this country and abolish the so-called "prohibition" that makes of whisky the ONLY drink of those that DO drink; the prohibition that is responsible for degradation, crime and murder on a scale never before known in any civilized country.

European Controversies Presented in World Court

Q.—This business of the World Court giving advisory opinions. That doesn't seem to me like the proper job for a court of justice.

A.—It doesn't seem so to many other people either.

Q.—Whom does the World Court give these advisory opinions to, anyway?

A.—To the council of the League of Nations; nobody else has any right to ask the Court for an advisory opinion.

Q.—Tell me some of the advisory opinions it has rendered to the League.

Q.—What else?

A.—"Nationality decrees in Tunis and Morocco," involving the rights of British subjects in those countries.

Q.—Go on.

A.—"The rights of German settlers in territories ceded by Germany to Poland after the war."

Q.—Then what?

Q.—Anything else?

A.—"The exchange of Greek and Turkish populations," a dispute under Article 2 of the convention concerning the exchange of Greek and Turkish populations, signed in Lausanne, January 30, 1923.

Q.—Is that all?

A.—No, "the Jugoslav-Albanian frontier at Saint Naoum," a dispute raised by a decision of the conference of ambassadors on November 9, 1921.

Q.—Well, that seems pretty far removed from the business of the United States; anything else?

A.—"The matter of the interpretation of Paragraph 2 of Article 3 of the Treaty of Lausanne," the British-Turkish dispute over oil in the Mosul district.

A.—They are.

Q.—Well, if we are a member of the World Court, and our official judge is on it, isn't there danger that we will get dragged into those controversies?

A.—We certainly will be brought a lot nearer to them than if we stay out of the Court.

Q.—In a few words, how would you define the World Court?

A.—So far as concerns its giving advisory opinions, the Court is the political advisor of the League of Nations.

Q.—And how would you define the League of Nations?

A.—Well, we might take the definition once given by Ramsay MacDonald, the British premier.

Q.—What did he call the League?

Bible Passages

The Upright Rewarded

(Proverbs 28; 15-28)

As a roaring lion and a mighty bear; so is a wicked ruler over the poor people.

The prince that wanteth understanding is also a great oppressor: but he that hateth covetousness shall prolong his days.

A man that doeth violence to the blood of any person shall flee to the pit; let no man stay him.

Whoso walketh uprightly shall be saved: but he that is perverse in his ways shall fall at once.

He that tilleth his land shall have plenty of bread: but he that followeth after vain persons shall have poverty enough.

A faithful man shall abound with blessings: but he that maketh haste to be rich shall not be innocent.

To have respect of persons is not good: for for a piece of bread that man will transgress.

He that hasteth to be rich hath an evil eye, and considereth not that poverty shall come upon him.

He that rebuketh a man afterwards shall find more favour than he that flattereth with the tongue.

Whoso robbeth his father or his mother, and saith, It is no transgression; the same is the companion of a destroyer.

He that is of a proud heart stirreth up strife: but he that putteth his trust in the Lord shall be made fat.

He that trusteth in his own heart is a fool: but whoso walketh wisely, he shall be delivered.

He that giveth unto the poor shall not lack: but he that hideth his eyes shall have many a curse.

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

There was a woman policeman in a town out west that often did some pretty good general police work besides looking after dance halls and such.

One time she got a guy up in court for speeding. The guy had a lawyer that tried to prove the policewoman didn't know what she was talking about.

"Did you get the license number of the car that was speeding?" says the lawyer.

"No, it was going so fast you could hardly see the car, say nothing about the number on it."

"Well, how do you know it was this man that was driving then?"

"I recognized the woman he was riding with when I saw them together next day."

"How did you recognize her when the car was going so fast when they went by?"

"Oh, I couldn't miss her. She had on one of those black silk spring coats with the narrow fur around the shoulders, and two little ties in front that wasn't tied, and she had on a little black hat with a tiny gold pin in the front, a little to the left, and she wore sunburn stockings and snakeskin shoes with very high heels—"

"All right," says the judge. "She's got her number all right."

OMAR GUESSED WRONG

By Herbert Kaufman

PROSPERITY adds another brace to the business structure. The sterling silversmiths of America, following fast in the successful wake of furniture, automobile, radio and sewing machine, have decided that much MORE of their merchandise may be sold if the purchaser is permitted to make time payments.

A nation-wide credit plan has just been launched to serve both dealer and consumer—thus freeing the jewelry trade from the sympathetic declines that formerly kept periodic company with unemployment and depression.

Finance, checking books, is satisfied that consumption is always steadier and more continuous where goods are procurable with a little money down and generous arrangements to liquidate the rest of the indebtedness.

Wage-earners and small-income folk assay as much honesty to the thousand as mercantile concerns and big industrial borrowers. The soundest security on earth is CHARACTER. The late J. P. Morgan discovered THAT fact decades ago, and expanded his operations accordingly.

DEADBEATS are few and far between. Laborers and immigrants seem just as worthy of open accounts as bond-clippers and property-holders. Otherwise neighborhood shops would daily go bankrupt by the score, and the second-hand market be flooded with reclaimed cars and household equipment.

Banking interests are killing two birds with one stone when a former franchise of wealth is made a common carrier and every mass and class alike is enabled to possess qualities which cash prices once kept indefinitely out of common use.

GENERALIZED credit is the surest means to uninterrupted production and stabilized outlet.

NOWADAYS, even the tax collector extends the installment privilege.

And yet, so recently as 1916, PRINTER'S INK published a series of conclusions from Detroit's BEST MINDS, in which the cockeyed world was emphatically assured that instalment selling could never become an automotive practice. And what's more, the town's leading opinionnaires PROVED their case, book and chapter.

Nor must we forget how lately all the prize economists convinced logic and statistics that the country was destined for the "demnition bow-wows" if the Reserve Bank and associated brakes, after luxuries made available to vast publics, theretofore beyond their selling range.

Omar Khayyam was a better poet than business advisor when he sang: "Take the cash and let the credit go."

∴ LISTEN, WORLD! ∴

By Elsie Robinson

MR. CHESTER CROWELL, broadcasting from the May issue of the Cosmopolitan magazine speaks of various things, among them of the necessity of NOT leaving "well enough alone."

"—we have contracts to sign, lands to buy, jobs to quit and other jobs to seek: we are in the wrong part of the country and ought to move, in the wrong business, in the wrong business location—in short, we have momentous and hazardous decisions to make. Common sense, coupled with ambition says 'Do it.' FEAR, INERTIA, AND ALL THE MILLSTONES CHANT THEIR ANCIENT SLOGAN; 'LET WELL ENOUGH ALONE!'

"Several times in my life I have quit a good job to take a better one and every time there seemed to be cogent reasons for vegetating instead of climbing. Every time I was treated to a fog of bad advice. And every time I had to come out of that fog laboriously."

Good words! I'll wager more promising characters have been hamstrung by the advice "let well enough alone" than by any other device of the devil.

The human race would never have developed beyond the tadpole stage if everyone had been content to let well enough alone. Every inch of our progress has been based on some brave creature's refusal to let well enough alone.

What is this "well enough" which so many of us accept as the goal of our achievement?

It is not perfection nor even the hope of perfection. It is a surrender and a compromise. And nearly always that compromise is based on cowardice, laziness, conceit or stupidity.

We're none of us living as powerfully or richly as we might live. We realize this and we do a lot of whining about it, blaming Fate or the other fellow for our predicament. But we're hampered by our own weakness, not by Fate. We muddle along with inadequate education, poor environments, unsuitable jobs and unhappy marriages because we're afraid to strike out for something better. And we excuse and glorify our cowardice and indolence by such hokum as "let well enough alone."

DON'T LET WELL ENOUGH ALONE!

Don't accept any condition as "well enough" for YOU. You were given an invaluable gift on the day of your birth and also a tremendous obligation. That gift was Life and the obligation was to develop that Life to the utmost limit of your ability. Few of us have the courage to do that.

We get just so far—then the effort proves too much for us and we slump. DON'T SLUMP! DON'T BE CONTENT WITH HALF MEASURES! GET OUT OF LIFE ALL THAT IT CAN POSSIBLY HOLD FOR YOU!

"But suppose I do make a change and then go broke or fall sick or get into trouble?" you ask.

Well, suppose you do. These things might happen to you even though you stayed as "put" as a potted geranium. So take a chance with yourself. God gave you the makings of an up-to-date career. USE THOSE MAKINGS! DON'T LET WELL ENOUGH ALONE! DEMAND SOMETHING BETTER!

BE A PITTSBURGH BOOSTER
To Your Friends in Other Cities

New York Day by Day

New York Day by Day

by O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, June 22.—There are around 100 fresh applications daily for jobs in the editorial rooms of New York newspapers. Many of the overtures are by mail, but the majority are in person. Almost every hour of the day journalistic fledglings, hat in hand, await in outer offices The Great Call.

Various schools of journalism unloose their potential Richard Harding Davises during summer months when the tide of reportorial posts is at its most discouraging low ebb. The larger number have the idea they want a try at the game as a stepping stone but it usually becomes a career.

There are various angles from which the novitiate approaches the work. Some are loaded with letters of introduction, others send in articles, try to write clever epistolary bait, beard the city editor in his den or uncover the so-called "scoop" or exclusive yarn.

But those more likely to win a place on the payroll are those who have dredged journalistic experience out of smaller towns. Any number, however, have been taken on without experience and made good. One of New York's best reporters got his job by writing a clever letter from a Minnesota whistle stop.

The famous editorial writer, Frank I. Cobb, punctuated the hard metropolitan shell with brilliant editorials written from a town in Michigan. There was once a grouchy city editor who went on the job at 6 a. m. For years any applicant who tackled him as he came into his office got a job.

He reasoned any man who would get up that early to land a job needed it and would work hard. He discovered later that news of this weakness in his armor became known. Every man out of a job used to wait for him. The city editor, incidentally, is now serving a life sentence in Sing Sing.

The school of journalism graduate seems to have first consideration just now. He has been drilled in essentials that require patience to impart to a beginner. But he does not always make a good reporter. Reportorial vacancies are scarcer these days because the dissolute, migratory reporter has vanished. The reporter has become a steady worker.

Many New York dentists with exclusive clientele do not open their offices on Wednesday and there are a few who accept appointments only every other day. Some of us don't care if they never open.

I have just returned from one of those dreary speech-making luncheons. Some of the dryest and dullest speeches I have ever heard were delivered in New York and the brightest were at a Rotarian luncheon in Indianapolis. Yet the New Yorker believes every Rotarian delivers pazaza like: "I don't give much in the way of a talk, but this is a peppy organization with everybody's feet on the ground, etc., etc."

And for no reason at all, it seems to me New York has the most efficient postoffice system in the land. As one whose daily chore inspires more than average mail I have never known a letter to go astray and on some of the envelopes I have been unable to decipher the hieroglyphics meant to represent my name myself.

A group of thum twiddlers were sitting at a club window on the avenue. The hour was 10 a. m. Out of a side street came a hatless bobbed haired woman wearing white doe riding breeches. After reflection one of them broke the silence with: "Still you never can tell, she might have to climb a tree."

From a dance academy folder: "Sit tight! Your dance worries are ended. In a few days we will bowl you over with our discovery of how any man from 20 to 70 can master the tango in six lessons."

I'm trying to hold myself in so I won't go completely to pieces. But I'm all atwitter.

Still after 40 a man should be extremely cautious about taking up any new fangled steps. There is a well known boulevardier who decided at 50 to join one of those outdoor leaping for buttercup classes on Long Island. They dressed in short panties and galloped out at dawn. The first time out he stubbed his toe on a daisy or something and is still on crutches.

OH, THESE WOMEN

By Leola Allard

YOU can now tell the flapperjacks from the grandmothers. The no-back dresses turned the trick. Mebbe you can't guess the exact number of her years, but you can tell when she is old enough to know better.

Woman who has just shot her husband, to group of photographers from the dailies:

"Wait till I fix my hair. Has any of you a comb?"

Women reporters always carry spare combs for women murderesses. If you can't furnish the primpings, they won't pose.

Woman acquitted of killing her husband in one of Chicago's best neighborhoods (as if that made any difference!). She is talking to cameramen:

"If you boys will come home with me till I put on my new mourning bonnet I'll let you take all the pictures you want. I bought it in a French shop and it's a darling! I wanted to wear it during the trial, but the lawyer was afraid it might prejudice the jurors."

A Chicago jury, fancy that!

The London Illustrated News, writing of Vilma, says: "Miss Banky wears a simple little dress as if a simple little dress was all that she had to wear, and not as an amiable masquerade."

It takes a star with something besides a contract to know the value of "simple little dresses."

An Irish woman in Brooklyn, literally roasting alive in the recent hot spell, may be a bit bold, but she HAS ideas.

She saw a taxicab driving past. She hailed it and had the top rolled down. Then she told the driver to take her to Sheepshead Bay and back.

All she did at the end of the journey was to give him a pleasant "good evening." She went to jail, where she refused to get all het up again.

She could have paid $10 fine and escaped jail, but she didn't have $10—or she would have paid for the ride—and there you are!

Two officers put her in the patrol wagon and started for jail. The wagon collided with a car in which a man and woman were riding.

The man in the car was hurt and so were the three officers on the wagon. The woman who had been arrested got away, and the other woman in the car was uninjured.

Wouldn't that make you believe it's a woman's world?

A man got a divorce because his wife wouldn't speak to him for weeks at a time. He called it cruelty.

And so many of them would regard it as a vacation!

Twelve years ago the Woolworth Building in New York started hiring women for "Elevator men." Now they are fast replacing men in all buildings because they are "speedy, silent and efficient."

Men never were so good at uplifting.

Words

WORDS to weave in patterns new,
These are my delight,
Words that let the light shine through,
Joyous words, and bright.

There is gladness in the task,
Ever seeking words
That will give the hope men ask,
Words like singing birds.

Sometimes in the woodlands deep
Happy murmurs pass,
Sometimes little breezes creep
Crooning through the grass.

There are words that murmur, too,
Crooning words that bring
Woodland memories anew,
Echoes of the spring.

Words as precious as a pearl,
Words like stars by night,
Words like lifting spray a-swirl . . .
These are my delight.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

YOU have undertaken to do a certain thing.

It is a laudable, commendable effort and might be very helpful to a good many others besides yourself.

Don't give up.

You can find it as well as the next one if you use your head and keep at it.

Probably you have made a little mistake somewhere and that is all that prevents the correct solution.

You learned cancellation at school years ago—begin elimination of unnecessary non-essential elaboration and get down to the bare problem.

You may have been too concerned with the surroundings and missed the pith of the whole thing, so keep going and you will win out.
